Wall Street's Lucky Fridays. What Honesty Would Do. News From Detroit. Religion and Politics.

(Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.)

Wall Street discourages the notion that Friday is an unlucky day. Last Friday Montgomery Ward went up 18 points, Smelting 13 points, Radio 20 points and so on. Wall Street's biggest week ended Saturday at noon.

This column has long advised against selling short. When the dollar drops from 100 to 60 cents in value and enormously increased general prosperity enables American to buy 5,000,000 automobiles a year, in addition to 24,000,000 already running, bears should take a hint and wait until after election. Then you will see something.

How many billions a year would be saved if by miracle all men could be made honest.

Credit men of New York and New Jersey are told that business frauds cost business one billion dollars a year, as much as corporations pay in income tax.

If all were honest there would be no prisons, judges, police, fewer firemen, no conductors needed to collect fares. Universal honesty will come some day, with universal education and universal prosperity.

Nobody steals water or fresh air, because it isn't necessary.

Detroit reports constantly increasing demand for lower priced cars.

Amazing is the statement by Henry Ford's engineers that he can produce his new car for less than the old model T cost. Henry Ford, discontinuing the making of Fordson tractors to use the Fordson plant for the new cars, expects to produce 10,000 a day early in 1929.

Meanwhile the Chevrolet has made and sold more than 1,000,000 cars already in 1928 and is planning larger production next year.

Fortunately for this country, it not only makes enormous amounts of money, but it SPENDS FREELY. Wise spending is to prosperity what irrigation and fertilizing are to farms.

Automobile makers in nine months of the year turned out more cars than they did in all of 1927. Nearly 1,000,000 cars and trucks are sent from this to 107 foreign countries. Industrial genius in America more than makes up for the additional cost of higher wages and defies competition.

Those of Catholic faith have protested against religious prejudices in this campaign. Bishop James Conroy, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, replies that Catholics also introduce religion into politics, quoting an editorial from 'The Missionary,' national organ of the Catholic Missionary League, as follows:

'This campaign has been opened to Catholics because of their being part of our civilization. We are not to be excluded from the struggle. Warfare is being waged in this peculiar campaign on the mystical body of Christ, rather than on the man, Alfred Emanuel Smith. Each detail of the current struggle is fed into the gospel story with astonishing precision.

'With this in view, it is any wonder that all Catholic lovers of Christ are feverishly praying for Governor Smith's success? Have you ever thought of what life in the United States will mean when it becomes the fashion—the rage—to be Catholic? This chance is almost certain to come. It is highly probable that it will come suddenly.'

SMITH PINS HIS HOPE ON FIVE STATES

Confident Lined Up Toured States—Now Looks To Strategic Seaboard Electoral Vote—Final Ten Days Campaign To Be Whirlwind—May Appeal To Labor.

By D. Harold Oliver (Associated Press Staff Writer)

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Confident that he has lined up under his banner all of the states touched on his 36,000-mile tour just ended, Governor Smith now is pinning his hopes on five strategic Atlantic seaboard states with a total electoral vote of 123, or 19 less than half the number needed to place him in the White House.

Starting on Wednesday with a speech at Boston, the Democratic presidential nominee will carry his fight to Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York, making his final 10 days of campaigning before election a whirlwind affair closely paralleling his past gubernatorial battle.

Only a tentative schedule had been mapped out today beyond the Boston address. Subject to change, it calls for speeches at Philadelphia next Saturday, Baltimore October 23, Newark October 31, Brooklyn November 2, and New York City November 3.

While labor, foreign relations, re-organization of government and other subjects remain to be discussed by the candidate, he has not definitely settled in his mind where he will take up these particular questions. He has indicated that he may make his Boston address an appeal to the labor elements of that center, but he is withholding decision.

Republican Column

All five seaboard states to be visited by the nominee were in the Republican column four years ago, Massachusetts with its 13 electoral votes, New York's 45, Pennsylvania's 35, New Jersey's 14, and Maryland's 10—all fell under the avalanche of ballots that swept Calvin Coolidge to victory.

Governor Smith, however, is confident that he has brought prestige in this vital jurisdiction over the candidate to bring his best electoral talents into play in a desperate effort to swing all five states into the fold for the Democrats.

Assessing the results of his second campaign tour, he said: 'We have pretty well settled the states we have been in, from what I can hear. Of course, I have shared the doubt about Tennessee that was about it. I never believed that was off the hook, or North Carolina, either. I did not know about Kentucky when we started, but I am satisfied with it.'

The governor said his optimism also embraced Virginia, Alabama, Texas, Florida, Missouri, Indiana and Illinois.

Referring to anti-Smith sentiment in some of the southern states, the nominee said all that was heard from in those states 'are the noisy minorities.'

CURTIS GOES TO NEW YORK STATE SECTOR

Vice Presidential Candidate Carries Battle Into Smith Home State—Utica Tonight—Rochester On Wednesday—Feeling 'Fit'—Ready To Go.

ENROUTE WITH SENATOR CURTIS TO UTICA, N. Y., Oct. 22.—(AP)—A double-headed Republican attack for New York's 45 electoral votes today brought Senator Curtis, the party's vice-presidential nominee, into the up-state sector while Herbert Hoover was in New York City.

Senator Curtis speaks tonight at Utica, Wednesday he speaks at Rochester. This is his second and only stop in New York. He appeared at the state fair in August at Syracuse.

The senator has objected to going into the official home city of the Democratic presidential nominee, saying it is against his way of campaigning, but it is planned for him to have luncheon at Albany at noon tomorrow with party leaders.

Opening the final two weeks' drive of the campaign, the 68-year-old nominee came into New York state today facing a steady grind from now until election day, but he pronounced himself 'fit' and 'ready to go.'

Senator Curtis has abandoned writing his speeches in advance but he indicated today he would discuss the tariff and Governor Smith's tariff views on his campaign in New York. He has given in entirely, extemporaneous speaking of late.

BORAH MAKES HOOVER PLEA TEXAS TONIGHT

Idaho Senator Invades Lone Star State For Important Thrust—Republicans and Democrats Greet Borah At Train.

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Senator William E. Borah of Idaho today came into the traditional Democratic stronghold of Texas to deliver a speech which was requested by Republican leaders as one of the most important thrusts of the campaign to sway the Lone Star state's voters to the cause of Herbert Hoover.

The address to be delivered at 5 o'clock tonight in the state fair park auditorium is the sixth of the campaign that the senator has been making through the Solid South and border states in behalf of the Republican presidential nominee. It will be broadcast over a regional radio hookup.

A busy time has been arranged for the senator during his one day stay here. A group of Republican and Hoover Democratic leaders, including R. L. Croager, Republican national committeeman for Texas, Thomas H. Lax, former Democratic national committeeman for Texas, and former Governor O. B. Colclough is on hand to greet Borah at the train.

Onion Peel Made For Loner

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—There is money in shoes, ships, sealing wax and onion peeling. Much of the world of people who peel onions seem to have found a path to the door of the late Peter Tyler, of Southfleet, London. His business was purchase of raw onions and the sale of them, peeled. He could not peel them for water, but died at the age of 70 leaving an estate of $33,000. At first he and his wife did the peeling. Later he hired scores of people to do it.

NEBRASKANS RALLY AROUND JOE ROBINSON

Nebraska Democrats Work Hard To Line Up State For Smith-Robinson—Senator Hitchcock Greets Robinson At Lincoln.

By Raymond Z. Henle, Associated Press Staff Writer

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Nebraska Democrats, working strenuously to put their state in the Smith-Robinson column, made the visit to Lincoln of Senator Joe T. Robinson today the vehicle for one of the biggest rallies of the campaign.

On the hand to welcome the vice-presidential nominee of their party were former Senator G. M. Hitchcock, himself a candidate at Houston for the presidential nomination, and Charles W. Bryan, brother of the commonwealth who is seeking the governorship of the state.

Senator Robinson was prepared to send the host of party workers who had come to hear him speak tonight in the 20,000 seat University of Nebraska auditorium back to their labors with additional campaign arguments.

HOOVER IS CONFIDENT PRESS TOLD

Home Soil Of Opponent Used For First Public Expression of Confidence By Hoover—Must Not Relax However—Profound Movement In Campaign Is Seen.

By James I. West (Associated Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover today selected the home soil of his Democratic opponent for his first public expressions of confidence in the outcome of the national election of November 5.

'I have only one reservation on the outcome of this election and that is that we may relax our efforts,' the Republican presidential candidate declared at a luncheon attended by several hundred national and New York state party leaders at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

Previously he had departed from his rule against quotations in the press conference to say that he had not the slightest doubt as to the result of the contest if the Republicans of the country would continue their efforts.

In his luncheon address the nominee said that not in many years had there been such a profound movement as there has been in this campaign.

He added that the unprecedented registration and the movement of the independent voters to our standard is evidence that the people are awake to the necessity of pressing into action the principles for which we stand.

Only Danger

'The only danger is that of over-confidence,' the Republican presidential candidate said at a conference with newspaper correspondents at his hotel. This was the first public statement regarding the outcome of the election which Hoover has made since the inception of the campaign.

'Never has there been a greater unity in the Republican party in a quarter of a century than at this moment,' the nominee said. 'We have an able organization and more zeal is being shown than ever before.'

Hoover declined to discuss issues of the campaign, but in response to questions he said prosperity was one of the larger issues.

The Republican standard bearer said the probabilities were that on his westward trip a final drive to St. Louis would be made. Hoover will leave Washington on October 30 and reach his home at Stanford university on November 5 to make a final appeal to the voters over the radio to keep the Republican party in control of the federal government.

Questioned as to whether he thought the people were 'tired of hearing about oil,' Mr. Hoover said he would not discuss that question. 'You know, I'm going to make a speech here tonight,' he said with a smile.

'How are you withstanding the rigors of the campaign?' was the next query.

'In Good Condition

'I was not in better physical condition in my life,' the nominee replied.

Hoover met the newspapermen at the conclusion of a breakfast conference with party leaders during which he received optimistic reports as to the outlook, not alone in the home state of his Democratic opponent, but also in the eastern quarter generally.

After his talk with newspaper correspondents, Hoover began receiving delegations of foreign-born voters, to each of which he made a brief talk.

Ethel Root, secretary of state in the administration of President Taft, will preside, and Vice President Dawes will make his first speech of the campaign. Hoover will start talking about 8:30 and the whole program will be carried to the country on an extensive radio hookup.

New York state Republican leaders in charge of arrangements for the Garden rally said there had been 70,000 applications for the 18,000 available seats.

Flu in Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Dr. William C. Hassler, city health officer, today reported a severe recurrence in San Francisco of Spanish influenza, of the same type that swept the country in 1918. More than 2500 cases, with eight deaths, have been reported within the past week, Hassler said.

Miss Rose Polten has resigned her position as bookkeeper and stenographer for the Medford Water department and has accepted a similar position at the Lempert Sporting Goods store. Miss Polten has been employed by the city for the past three years.
