

FATHER T. J. TOBIN GIFTED SPEAKER STONE CEREMONY

"Today's ceremony is significant with the significance of the ages; it is important with the importance of universality."

Following up his opening statement, the speaker traced the ceremony of laying the corner stone of the church to the words of Christ when He said to St. Peter: "Thou art Peter (rock) and upon this rock I shall build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it."

"That the Catholic church is universal and recognizes no sectionalism or no sectional politics, was also strikingly stressed by the speaker when he said: "In the pulpit of this church you will not be told how to vote. But you will be taught how to live."

Father Tobin was assisted in the ceremony by Father Francis W. Black, local pastor, and Father Maher, chaplain of the Sacred Heart hospital. More than 300 people attended. It is expected that the new structure will be completed by December 1.

PARK EMPLOYEES FAIL TO CONNECT WITH WILY DEER

As hunters of deer, Arthur T. Moon, abounding clerk of the Gray National park headquarters office, and Bob Taylor, former ranger of the same park, are very excellent dish washers. After a hunt for bucks in the Mill creek region between McCloud and Prospect since last Thursday they arrived home yesterday with their rifles and nothing else but fresh air memories.

"We got just what we went after," exclaimed Moon this morning. "Lots of exercise but didn't even catch sight of a deer."

Then, despite his seeming complacency, Moon showed plainly that the fact that he had come back without deer meat had gotten his goat, and realizing that further explanation was due, he passed the buck and deer, but a slang expression meaning to place the blame on someone else, by saying: "I don't feel bad about this because Bob Taylor, whom I had hitherto regarded as an experienced hunter, told me before we got home that he had hunted for deer for 52 years, and had yet to see a live one in the hills."

"If you couldn't find deer, why didn't you shoot something else, for instance chipmunks, rather than let your rifles rust. "I didn't know the open season was on for them yet," replied Moon, thereby showing he was a good sportsman.

Bob Taylor hasn't been seen since their return home, but his friends speculate that they think he would know a live deer if he saw one.

REV. LAWRENCE TO PORTLAND MEET

Rev. E. P. Lawrence of the Presbyterian church, leaves this evening for a meeting of the National Synod of Oregon, at Portland, on Tuesday, in the Y. M. C. A., an interdenominational commission under the leadership of Dr. W. R. King of New York City, representing the Interdenominational Home Missions council, whose object is to avoid if possible overlapping of churches.

On Wednesday at the Presbyterian headquarters he will have charge of a meeting of the National Synod of Oregon, of which he is chairman. While in Portland he will visit his son, Wendell, and on the return Thursday will stop for a short visit with his daughter, Ruth, at Albany college.

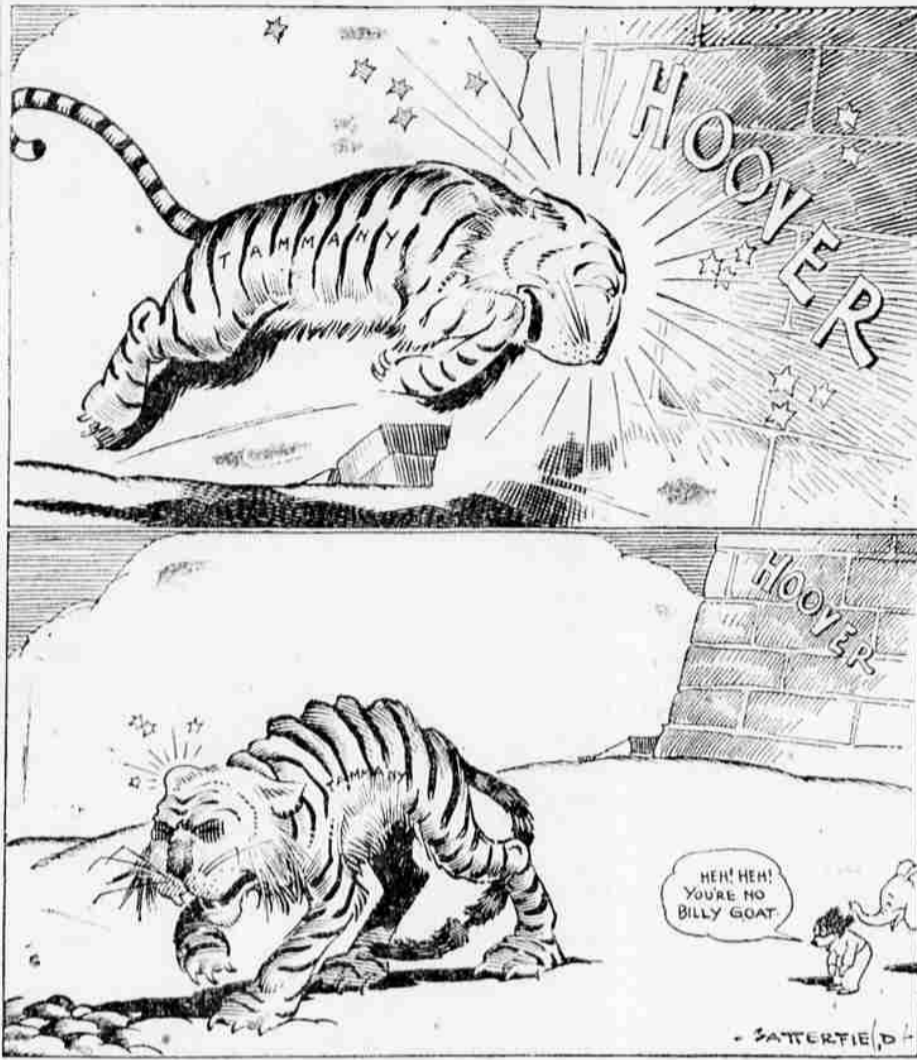

RASPBERRY VINE STILL HAS FRUIT

Giving nature the raspberry, a vine in the garden of Mrs. Triah Vaughn, 221 North 1st, is now demonstrating its power to produce well formed blossoms, green berries and ripe berries all at one time.

A branch of the fruit that has made college stong streets, was brought into the Mail Tribune editorial department this morning by W. E. Rowley. In addition to the blossoms and green and red berries the vine contained well developed, hardy leaves. It was placed on exhibition in the local chamber of commerce window this noon by Mr. Rowley.

DOLLAR DAY PLAN FOR THIS WEEK

With the last Dollar Day six months ago a huge success, local merchants are now preparing for two more Dollar Days to be held next Friday and Saturday and are planning on the widest range of bargains ever offered. All merchants in Medford are cooperating in the bargain event, which is expected to be even better than the last. Every bargain offered will reveal a drastic cut from the old prices, assuring huge money saving for local and southern Oregon shoppers during those two days. Further details of the Dollar Days will be announced later.

BIG ELKS DANCE TOMORROW NIGHT

The public is urgently requested to attend the big Elks benefit dance tomorrow night at the Elks temple, where music will be furnished by several members of the Elks band for which the dance is being given in order to raise funds for its continuance. Tickets have been distributed among the members of the lodge and today were reported to be enjoying a fairly good sale. The support of the public in continuing the fund is needed badly and it is expected tomorrow night's attendance will be large, including dancers from out of town points.

A WASHINGTON BYSTANDER

By Kirk L. Simpson. WASHINGTON—Some of the movie stars who have fallen foul of the immigration law and come screaming to Washington for help would fill a very large book. They are many, and the technical cases involved are almost as numerous as the persons. Rarely does an exact duplicate case put in an appearance. As a general rule, however, the explanation of the individual difficulty is the same, failure either wilfully or thoughtlessly, to comply with some bit of red tape at a previous date.

The movie actor fraternity is frequently in immigration hot water owing to the fact that its members are within the preferred class of "artists" admitted to this country for temporary stay and employment without regard to quota limitations. Six months is the life of an original entry permit of this character, extended indefinitely, however, six months at a crack. Failure to get those extensions on the ship-up that frequently spells subsequent disaster to plans or hopes. It takes a lot of argument to convince a hard bodied governmental board that the failure was innocent and inadvertent and not due to a determination to just scud in the United States permanently in defiance of law and regulations.

Comedian's Tragedy. One young English-born screen comedian of considerable note, who overstay himself more than a year and then decided to take a trip home and come back, found the door ready to be slammed in his face when he tried to straighten things out. He came within an ace of being shipped home instant as a violator of law and only a most persuasive tongue saved him and won him an additional six months' grace. At that time, however, he had built up an earning capacity of a thousand a month or more and grown so fond of the United States that he determined to seek American citizenship. It was no go, for you can't apply for citizenship unless you enter under a quota visa. The comedian was in a box. He knew it would take months if not years to get a quota visa if he went back to England and yet his younger brother, drawn over by the movie lad's glowing account of things American, had come by that route and was in process of becoming an American. The comedian barged across the Mexican border and scheduled American consulates all over Mexico for a quota entry status. In vain.

WAYLAIED DRIVER IS GAS DRENCHED AND SET AFLAME

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 22. (AP)—Ernest H. Sykes, 35, lay in a hospital today, his body a welter of severe burns and his eyesight gone—victim of an attack of two unidentified assailants who waylaid him early yesterday, washed a bucket of gasoline over him and applied a match.

Brought to a hospital here shortly after the attack, Sykes said he was on route home about 1 a. m. and was set upon by his assailants when he had to slow his automobile down in passing a rough place in the road. The assailants leaped into the car, Sykes declared, forced him from the wheel and halted the motor a short distance down the road.

A few paces from his front yard the car was halted and he was forced to get out, Sykes added. It was at this point, he said, that the gasoline was dashed on him and his clothing fired.

Stricken Suddenly!

Almost daily we hear of it—the story of some man, probably a friend, suddenly cut off in the midst of his usefulness, in the very prime of life. That's what high blood pressure will do—snuff off life without warning. All due to our abnormal living habits which put too great a strain upon the vital organs, especially the liver. The liver becoming weak and sluggish fails to cleanse the blood of the poisons formed in food waste. The whole system then becomes toxic, a condition known as auto-intoxication. High blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, chronic headaches and dizzy spells are symptoms.

SOME HAVE LUCK OTHERS NONE, HUNTING FINALE

It was a deer day for young bucks, that last day of hunting season. Many of those that had heretofore escaped the eagle eye of local hunters, were scared to death in the face of the vast army of desperadoes who invaded the surrounding forests and hillsides with a vengeance for venison last Saturday. Others met their Waterloo in a legitimate manner.

One trio of hunters leaving Friday noon for the Evans creek district, determined to do their worst, succeeded. They were A. D. Collier, Henry Plummer and Fred Scheffel, who came back with no bucks and plenty of thirst. Having lost their careers and their way to the creek, they had their last drink of water Friday noon before returning Saturday around 10 o'clock.

Indicating that quarters are a trifle luckier numerical combination than tries when it comes to bringing home the venison, the one composed of Harvey Young, Roy Curtis, Charles Coffeen and Stewart Dinsworth, who left for the Sugar Pine Ridge territory Friday, came home Saturday with six beautiful bucks, each having from four to six points.

ZEPPELIN CHIEF TO HOLD MEETING IN TALENT HALL THURSDAY NIGHT

CHICAGO, Oct. 22. (AP)—The sixth German city of the world last night welcomed Dr. Hugo Eckener, pilot of the Graf Zeppelin. He came by train, accompanied by part of his crew, the great trans-Atlantic airship remaining at Lakehurst.

A brief informal demonstration at the Grand Central railroad station was followed by a formal city-wide reception in Soldier field stadium. Mayor William Hale Thompson made a short address of welcome and Dr. Eckener told of his pleasure at the happy conclusion of his trip. He promised his hearers through the medium of loud speakers that later in the week they would get a glimpse of his big ship when he flies it west.

Hundreds of men, women and school children of German descent staged a pleasant picturing man's conquest of the air. The fliers were whisked away to a banquet at the Union League club, followed by a performance in the Chicago German theatre.

Today Dr. Eckener was to tour downtown Chicago and confer with Mayor Thompson and the city council. Following a banquet attended by 5000 persons the commander and his party will leave for New York tonight.

Support Aitchison. SALEM, Oct. 22. (AP)—The public service commission of Oregon today sent a letter to President Coolidge asking the reappointment of Clyde R. Aitchison as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Letters also will be sent to the Oregon delegation and to other state commissions asking their support for Aitchison. Aitchison was formerly a member of the Oregon commission.

TALENT, OREG. OCT. 22.—(Special) A meeting will be held at the Talent Community hall Thursday evening, Oct. 25 at 8 o'clock to discuss some of the measures to be voted on by the voters of the state and county at the coming election. Some able speakers will be present and every one is urged to come and make this meeting a success.

The Talent grange met in regular session last Thursday evening with a large attendance from the home grange and several visitors from other granges. Twelve new names were submitted for membership.

After the business hour County Commissioner Victor Bursell gave a talk on the Duane measure. Pumpkin pie, doughnuts and cider was served by the H. R. C. committee.

Why Didn't Judge Thomas Answer the Chaney Grand Jurors' Questions?

In his attack upon Mrs. Grieve, Forewoman of the Chaney Grand Jury, Thomas answered that question. He published that answer over his signature as "Circuit Judge" in the daily papers of October 5th and subsequently in other papers.

ANSWER NOT SATISFACTORY

His answer was: "I examined it and found it to be a series of questions, which if answered by the court, would undoubtedly create the impression that I was not impartial in the investigation then under way."

IS HIS STATEMENT FAIR?

Had he answered each of the questions "Yes" and stated the name of the crime, would the answer have indicated that he was partial or biased? If so, partial to whom; to the public, the tax-payers, the citizens who want the prohibition fund protected and used for the purpose for which it is held, or the public officials concerned?

If he had answered "No" would he have been considered partial or prejudiced? If partial, to whom; to the public officials concerned, to the Grand Jury, to the tax payers, to the public, or to the citizens who want the fund protected and properly used?

We realize that Bert Anderson was then daily writing in abuse of the Grand Jury, or in support of Chaney, or both. Therefore we ask, would Judge Thomas have been considered as partial to Bert Anderson, or to Chaney, or would he have been considered partial to those who opposed them?

JUDGE THOMAS' DUTY

Section 1414 of Oregon Laws reads: "Presentment. Duty of Court to Instruct Thereon. A presentment cannot be found and presented to the court except as provided in section 1413, and when so found and presented, the court shall give such instructions to the grand jury concerning the law of the case as it may think proper and necessary."

"This statute applied as well to a judge who was going to hew to the line 'and let the chips fly where they would,' as to one more careful as to where the chips would fly.
