Goign Up!

Nightly, now, her smile is winning new hearts all over America. She is lovely Corinne Burton, whose New York home is the New Weston Hotel. Her march to fame includes a season each in "The Music Box" and "The Scandal!" and now, under Chas. Bowers' direction, she's going up in the movies!

"I don't believe in overlooking any point which may help make your presence pleasing," says Miss Burton. "Recently, I learned the method of caring for the hair, which is all the rage among New York girls, now, it's so easy. All you do is put a little Danderine on your brush every time you arrange your hair. It makes my hair so easy to dress and holds it in place wonderfully. It has gotten rid of my dandruff. It keeps my scalp and hair so clean and comfortable that I don't shampoo half as often as I used to. It gives my hair such a silky, soft and lustrous appearance that friends comment on it. Danderine is not only a remover of the oily film from each strand of hair, restores its natural color, gives it new lustre. It solves dandruff, cleanses and invigorates the scalp. It is delightfully fragrant. All drug stores have the generous 25c bottles. Lovely, gleaming hair and a healthy scalp for a few cents.

EXPECT RECOVER HANSCOM'S BODY IN CHETCO RIVER

The body of B. H. Hanscom, accidentally drowned yesterday afternoon by Brookings, was recovered this forenoon, according to a telephone message received this afternoon by Miss Linnie Hanscom, who was also informed that it is scheduled to arrive here this evening. Plans for arrangements will be made tomorrow.

Details of the accidental drowning yesterday afternoon of B. H. Hanscom, 515 South Riverside avenue, in the mouth of the Chetco river, short distance from Brookings in Curry county, were still lacking today, according to relatives living in Medford. The body as yet has not been recovered, but was expected to be found before this evening.

Hanscom, who would have been 59 years of age next Saturday last Friday, accompanied by his wife, to visit his son Elmer, at Brookings and also to enjoy a short fishing trip, he having been an ardent fisherman his entire life. It is believed Hanscom slipped and fell into the river current, which carried him away from shore. He had fished in the Chetco river every autumn for some years past and is thought to have been very familiar with the stream. He had been there twice this year and had planned to return to Medford next week. He was well known in Medford, having made his home here for the past 18 years and lived in the county for 30 years. In addition to his wife, he leaves three children, Elmer Hanscom of Brookings, Albert Hanscom of Medford and Mrs. Winifred Caton of Klamath Junction.

TO HOLD SMOKERS DURING WINTER

Next Friday's smoker at the armory, featuring Gene O'Grady against Bobby Vernon of Portland in the main event, will not be the last of the season, but will be followed by several this winter, announced Matchmaker Jack Wood today, citing unofficial reports that he was to devote his entire time to promoting wrestling matches. Advance ticket sales for next Friday's bout are continuing to grow and a good sized number of mail orders have been filled. O'Grady and Vernon are claimed to be two of the best matched fighters ever in Medford and Ashland supporters of O'Grady are said to be somewhat dubious over the possibility of his being victorious, as he has been doing practically ever since he began fighting several years ago. Local fight fans are also dubious over the prospects of Pat Padelford winning in the semi-windup from Toot Eads, a hard hitting Portland slugger, who comes highly recommended as the man who can handle the local fighter.

WAVE OF WHIP ENDS SALE IN LARGE CATTLE MARKET

The Kansas City Livestock Exchange (above), with five acres of floor area, is the largest building in the world devoted to livestock trading. Transactions take place in the stockyards and a wave of whip often consummates the sale of a herd of cattle worth $100,000 or more. Bryant Poole (insert), former cowboy, is president of the exchange.

By Lester Postor (Associated Press Feature Editor.) KANSAS CITY (AP)—East meets west in Kansas City through the medium of the livestock exchange. From the western ranges, even those in California, come ranchmen to sell cattle and sheep which must be fattened before they are ready for the beef and mutton consumer. From Atlantic coast states come owners of rugged lands to buy livestock for fattening on the grass that grows in the rocky hills. Then there are the farmers of the western growing states in the middle west, wanting steers and lambs so the grain can be marketed "on the hoof." Nature, making much of the west and southwest semi-arid, encourages bulk production of livestock in these regions, while in the central and eastern states it favors the growth of grasses and grains needed for finishing the animals. The result is a linear movement of livestock, especially cattle, from the west to the east.

BUILD POWER LINE FOR BUTTE FALLS AND ROGUE ELK DISTRICT MEETING BAPTIST CHURCH THURSDAY NOV. 1

The California-Oregon Power company now has under construction a power line to Butte Falls, that will supply that city and the district along Rogue river as far as Rogue Elk. The line will supply the summer cabins at the Rogue river, the Elk creek fish hatchery, and the district adjacent to the Crater Lake highway. It will be completed and in operation by December 1. The power company is engaged in rebuilding its power lines south of Ashland, and will rebuild its line north of Grants Pass as far as Glendale, to meet the demands of a new sawmill, that will be in operation in that section, January 1. The minor operations of the company also include placing all lines in the cities of the valley in shape of winter.

KGO TO PRESENT A BAKER'S DOZEN

This is the first play written by Miss Norris which had its entire hearing over the local station and it will be interesting to compare the two auditions. Miss Norris is now at work on another play and has not yet decided which of the two stations will have it first.

FISHERMEN RENIG ON ENDORSEMENT OF POWER BILLS

Regulating the endorsement that individual members of the Isaac Walton league, national fish protective organization, recently gave the negative argument on the passage of the four fish and water bills which will be voted upon in the general election, the Josephine county branch of that organization unanimously endorsed the bills at a meeting held at Weavau Inn on Rogue river last night.

The meeting, which was said to have been the largest and most enthusiastic held so far, was attended by a number of Jackson County Fish and Game Protection League members, who came at the invitation of the Isaac Walton league. The closest harmony and cooperation between both organizations was pledged for the future protection of the Rogue river. The resolution in favor of the

An Old Sick Bootlegger Dragged Into the Campaign by Medford Attorneys

The Republican Central Committee, Gentlemen: The attorneys in a half page advertisement print some correspondence had between Judge Thomas and Justice of the Peace Rusk, in regard to an order of parole of one McCauley, County Judge Gillette. A half a truth is sometimes a greater falsehood than no truth. The attorneys did not publish all the correspondence which is necessary to a full understanding. Here are the two letters they failed to publish:

Office of C. M. THOMAS Circuit Judge—First Judicial District Medford, Oregon G. M. Raymond, Secretary-Reporter Hon. C. E. Rusk, Grants Pass, Oregon. Dear Mr. Rusk: Your letter of April 18th has come to me at Jacksonville this morning, the 21st, and I hasten to reply.

In view of the situation as outlined in your letter I am in entire accord with you and feel that you are justified in being dignified. Judge Gillette had in mind a joint application for parole to the governor. This application was to contain the names of all county officials, and I understand from him that the matter had been fully discussed by everyone and that it was the desire of all officials, particularly referring to the prosecuting attorney, the sheriff and yourself, the committing magistrate, and upon this understanding he requested that I also join.

I told the judge that the governor would not consider such an application, as I knew his views, but that if it was the desire of all the officials recited as well as his own I would make the order directing the sheriff, as an officer of the circuit court, to carry out the orders of the court. This I have done on a number of occasions but only upon the recommendation of the committing magistrate and never against his recommendation.

In view of the situation I have no other alternative than to place the matter in statu quo by today sending an order compelling the order of parole, with the suggestion that if you and only if—all of you can agree upon the matter the order will be reinstated. I have always adopted the policy and carried it out that the circuit court had no business to interfere with the sentence of a justice, except upon direct appeal and hearing thereon and then to continue to be my policy and you are assured that you can rely upon my co-operation at all times. I am very sorry the misunderstanding has taken place but fortunately it is between the local officers, and, as stated above, when you work it out among yourselves I will be glad to act in cooperation with your final decision. You may be assured of my continued regard and I know when you understand the situation you will feel differently about the matter.

A copy of this letter is today being mailed to the county judge, to the prosecutor, and the sheriff. Yours respectfully, C. M. THOMAS.

Hon. C. M. Thomas, Medford, Oregon. Dear Judge: I am just in receipt of your splendid, straight-forward letter, and it gives me more pleasure than I can tell to know that matters have been cleared up so thoroughly and that there will be a continuation of our heretofore cordial relations and renewed co-operation for law enforcement.

Unfortunately, it seems, my first letter was delayed in reaching you. Otherwise, things would have been adjusted a great deal sooner and with far less misunderstanding. I find, this afternoon, that certain misrepresentations were made to you; all of which I can explain next time we meet. So far as McCauley is concerned, I have always been willing to join with you and the other officials in any legitimate effort to have him pardoned or paroled, if not just now, at least a little later on. When I sentenced him I told him that the sentence imposed was the only one the law permitted me to give, and that his only hope of relief must be through the clemency of the Governor. This I also later explained in great detail, and with considerable patience, to Mrs. McCauley. Just before the last term of Circuit Court, Mrs. McCauley again came to see me and I told her that I would take the matter up with Mr. Miller and discuss with him the advisability of making a concerted effort to have the Governor parole McCauley. I did mention the matter to Mr. Miller, but press of business during Grand Jury and Court weeks prevented our forming any plans for bringing the matter before the rest of you. But not one word had been said to me by any one about the plan involved in your order. I had neither approved nor disapproved it, because it came as a complete surprise to me. On the face of it, it looked like an attempt to completely ignore me, and still believe it was, on the part of one certain individual, and you will probably think so too, when certain things, have been explained to you.

I shall be glad to join you and the others in an appeal to the Governor to extend a certain amount of executive clemency to McCauley. However, I believe this responsibility should be placed on the Governor, as he is the only one who can legally free the man, and it is hardly fair to any other individual to ask him to shoulder a responsibility that he cannot legally assume. With an assurance of my highest regards, and the wish that we may long continue to work together for the best interests of law enforcement and civic advancement in Southern Oregon, I am, Most sincerely yours, C. E. RUSK.

A RESORT TO PETTYFOGGING BY MEDFORD LAWYERS. The attorneys say: "In the meantime and after McCauley had made his escape and could not be apprehended, Judge Thomas replied to Justice Rusk", etc. They should have said that at the time of McCauley's release thru Judge Thomas' order McCauley, an old man in his seventies, was seriously ill,—that he was confined to his home and according to Doctor Flanagan, the county physician, was to ill to move and be confined in jail, when the order was revoked; and further that he was left at his home a few days until the county physician, who had charge of his case, reported sufficient improvement to warrant confinement. He was then returned to jail by the sheriff. WERE THE ATTORNEYS FAIR TO OMIT THE ABOVE FACTS? JACKSON COUNTY REPUBLICAN CENTRAL COMMITTEE. Paid Advertisement
