Cinn., Ohio.—"I could hardly walk I was so tired out. I suffered about three years with a run-down condition, then my husband heard a man say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped his wife, so he told me to try it. After taking five bottles and using Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash I have gained in every way. I am now doing my own housework for four in the family and recommend your medicine because I have faith in them."—Mrs. Joseph ALVAREZ, 2011 Vine Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

FOR COUNTY CORONER W. H. CONGER

W. H. Conger asks for a second term as county coroner upon the merits he has earned while serving in that capacity. Mr. Conger has proved a decided success in his own business affairs and is not only efficient in this line of endeavor, but is equipped with a new two-story building and every convenience necessary for the care of the dead. He is opposed in this campaign by the democratic candidate, a busy practicing physician who must by necessary demands, call upon the services of an undertaker or appoint one as deputy. Why not elect an undertaker in the first place?

We know this it is sometimes necessary for a coroner to call a physician in the discharge of his duties, but Jackson County maintains one whose duty it is to take care of this work for the coroner when necessary. This county physician is already maintained by Jackson County on salary and there is no extra expense incurred for this part of his service.

Mr. Conger, who is well-known, having been in business in Medford for nearly nine years and a resident of Jackson County as far back as 1894, has entered this campaign for himself and none other, and has proved beyond doubt by his record, that to support him is never to be regretted.

Mr. Conger has made good. He deserves another term.

RENEWAL OF BITTER RIVALRIES MARKS NOVEMBER 3 GAMES

East side, west side, all around the map there'll be football on Saturday, Nov. 3, good enough for the most fastidious fan. Four games stand out. They bring together Stanford and Southern California, Ohio and Princeton, Dartmouth and Yale and Texas and Southern Methodists. Above are some of the performers picked to shine in these leading contests. Other important games of the day are Minnesota-Northwestern, Penn State-Notre Dame, Penn-Chicago, Alabama-Wisconsin, Pittsburg-Syracuse, Illinois-Michigan, Kansas-Nebraska, Missouri-Drake, Georgia-Atlanta, and Kentucky-Vanderbilt.

By Brian B.— (Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, November 3, follow the trail of the game made famous in literary rhymes. Some of the most exciting football games in the world are scheduled in the middle of the week, many things are happening in football this year.

Leading the invasion of East against West, Princeton moves on Columbus primed for a terrific tussle with the Buckeyes of Ohio State. The Nassau Tigers turned back Ohio at Princeton last year by a score of 20 to 0, but advanced calculations gave the easterners no such margin this year.

The University of Pennsylvania goes to Chicago to play the top and coming University of Chicago followers of A. A. Stagg with the Red and Blue team confident that it will be able to reverse a 13 to 7 decision of last year in favor of the Maroon.

As the young men from Pennsylvania and Princeton go west they will meet Knute Rockne's Notre Dame warriors on the way east to play Penn State at Philadelphia.

The University of Alabama will travel many miles to clash with the University of Wisconsin at Madison, while the Mississippi Aggies, traveling almost 1000 miles to Alabama, will venture as far as East Lansing to meet Michigan State.

A hard fought contest is forecast in the southwest when the Longhorns of the University of Texas oppose the Mustangs of Southern Methodist university at Austin. S. M. U. won this game last year 14 to 6. Each team lost a game by a single point, in which the vanquished acquiesced about as much glory as the victors, Army winning from Southern Methodist 14 to 13 and Vanderbilt stopping Texas by the count of 13 to 12.

In the far west, Southern California and Stanford will play off a 13-to-0 lead brought over from last season with interest in this year's contest intensified by the dead heat a year ago.

The Yale bowl will be taxed to capacity and many enthusiasts will be denied a chance to see Yale and Dartmouth battle. The Blue scored over the Green 19 to 0 at their last meeting.

Columbia and Cornell, who went through their last game without a score by either side, meet at New York, another close contest being indicated.

Northwestern will try conclusions with Minnesota and Illinois meets Michigan in the Western conference.

Kansas vs. Nebraska and Missouri opposed to Drake make up two games of wide interest outside Kansas and Missouri.

Another play-off of a tie in the far west will be held when Idaho and Washington State meet with a record of a 7 to 7 game last season.

The Southern conference standings may be scrambled after Saturday's games, for 14 of the 22 members will be playing games that count in the final conference rating.

HARNESS RACES FOR 1929 FAIR DIRECTORS' PLAN

The directors of the Jackson County Fair association met last night and received a report for this year's fair. All bills are paid and with the new buildings and other improvements and greater interest in the fair, the directors decided to commence work at once preparing for a fair on a much larger scale for 1929.

Realizing that the amusement feature must be greatly improved for next year, it was decided to immediately take up the proposition of harness races and other amusements, to get in touch with the horsemen and other fair associations, regarding the races, and to send a representative to the Northwest Racing association meeting early in the year, to get on the racing circuit, thereby securing the best harness horses on the coast. Other attractions, including night features, will be secured.

It is the directors' idea to put on a program in 1929 that will attract home people every day as well as visitors from all over southern Oregon and northern California.

The merchants' building that was erected five years ago by the Medford merchants paying booth rental four years in advance, is now the property of the county and new leases will have to be secured from all merchants prior to the next fair.

COUNTY ASSESSOR MEET IN SALEM

SALEM, Ore., Nov. 2.—The Oregon Association of County Assessors will hold their annual convention in Salem Wednesday, November 7, and on the following day the annual meeting for the fixing of county tax ratios will be held here.

The latter meeting is held here each year. The convention however, is usually held elsewhere. This year it was the intention to meet at Pendleton during the round-up, but a quorum failed to appear.

On November 10 the state tax commission will begin a series of hearings for utility corporations relative to 1929 taxes. This series of meetings occurs annually.

HUNGER STRIKER RESISTS FREEDOM

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 2.—(AP)—Indignant because a person whose identity was not disclosed had paid the remainder of his fine, Charles Smith, hungerstriker, New York Athlete leader, today was prepared to resist release from the hospital "unless ejected."

Smith, confined in police court and fined $25 for displaying alleged illegal literature, refused to pay his fine and shortly after confinement in the city jail began a hunger strike. He was removed to a hospital because of his weakened condition.

Change in Bill at New Playhouse

Owing to the delay of arrival of Mr. Bob Wellhatten, who was to play one of the leading parts in "Know Your Onion," the Frank's Comedians will have to change the bill for this week. "In Walked J. O. M." the offering, is a comedy with a good story, and full of laughs. "Know Your Onion" will open Thursday, Nov. 8, 10:15 p.m.

LITTLE STORY OF PECULIAR WOMAN AND DOG LEGACY

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—(AP)—This is just a little story about a woman who lived alone for 25 years, who died, and whose legacy to an indigent neighborhood was 21 stray dogs.

The dogs howled dolefully yesterday until police came and took them to the dog pound. They were wild and strayed from the street and alley, given shelter by Mrs. Laura Wicks Walker in the old style mansion on South Parkway. When she died there was no one left to care what happened to the dogs; and the neighborhood, mostly negroes, were glad to see the animals (against which they had complained many times) taken away.

Back in the sixties, Mrs. Walker, daughter of a Pullman company official, married a coachman against her father's wishes. Her father disowned her, but later relented, presenting her with the house in which died. The house was in what was then an exclusive residential section, now the center of the colored belt.

In October, 1822 her negro neighbors complained to health authorities about the dogs. She was allowed to keep them when she explained she was a member of the anti-cruelty society, plucking up homeless dogs. Two years ago the number of dogs had increased to 30, and a complaint of the neighbors for maintaining a nuisance. The dogs were taken from her.

A Land of Museums.

ST. LOUIS, (AP)—The United States, before long, will become a "zoo" of museums of all the arts of all the ages," because of the increase in museums, in the opinion of Louis La Beume, a director of the American Institute of Architects.

Correct this sentence: "I don't know where you can get it," said the cop.

LAXATIVE FOR BABY THAT "STAYS DOWN"

Baby's tiny system rebels against castor oil and strong purgatives; but here's a medicine that just suits him. And it does the work quickly and so gently that baby doesn't feel it. Fletcher's Castoria is soothing, cross-fretful babies and children to sleep and making the feverish, constipated, upset ones well and happy, in millions of homes today. Castoria is purely vegetable, harmless and endorsed by the medical profession. Avoid imitations. The Chevalier Fletcher signature means genuine Castoria.

JUDGES AND LAWYERS

Judges are lawyers; at least the law requires them to be. The elevation of one of these lawyers to the bench does not change him. When he opens your court the law says that you shall speak to him through the duly admitted lawyers. The judge takes an oath to perform his duties and the lawyers take an oath to perform theirs. They are as much a necessary part of the machinery of the court as he is. The court thus composed constitutes a great machine designed to settle your difficulties, right your wrongs and protect you from crime. This machine, like any other, must be made up of parts that will work in harmony. No judge needs advertise himself as better than the rest of the lawyers, nor need the lawyers consider themselves better than the judge. Any judge will find that he needs, and requires, the assistance of the bar to conduct his court, and the lawyers will find that the judge must be one who will work in harmony with them.

Can our great Circuit Court properly function and give to the people the administration to which they are entitled when the lawyers do not enjoy the confidence of the judge, nor the judge the confidence of the lawyers? This condition is intolerable. It is the natural result of playing politics from the bench and using the implements of justice for political preferment.

We think this bar is as good as the average. It is not claimed that the standing of the members of the bar is below the average of the profession. And yet nowhere else in Oregon, or elsewhere, can the present condition be duplicated.

Lawyers are taught to have great respect for the court. They are taught to rely upon the word of one another. They are taught that their oral stipulations should be as good as their written ones. And when they do not have the confidence of the judge who occupies the bench, this situation would justify the voters in making an investigation. For where there is so much smoke, there must be some fire.

Rather than take any chances, is it not better to elect a man who has no political alliances or entanglements; one who is not a politician; one who could not be embarrassed by being compelled to answer any legal questions that any grand juror might propound? And where the opportunity is offered, as it is here, to choose an eminent lawyer who has been no part of these entanglements; who has the confidence and respect of the bar and of the people, should we not embrace the opportunity to restore peace in the community?

Sincerely yours for a better condition in the Circuit Court.

BETTER GOVERNMENT LEAGUE.
