Major Ralph Cowgill, in charge of the Rogue River survey, told the Grants Pass Lions at today's luncheon of the value of the river to this section. Mr. Cowgill declared that Grants Pass would not be where it is today if it were not for the Rogue river, and asserted that this city's whole future is dependent upon preservation of the river. Grants Pass must see to it that the river is made and kept free from contamination. Mr. Cowgill declared, and he believes that the Jackson and Joseph county courts must, before long, buy and set aside land along the river for public recreation grounds—Grants Pass Courthouse.
