The Grand Jury.
To the Editor:
Mr. Neff in his defense of our political judge's failure to answer the grand jury's questions erroneously stated, "It is admitted on all sides that Judge Thomas did not refuse to answer, but on the contrary told the grand jury that if five of their number voted to bring in the presentment he would answer their questions." Judge Thomas in his letter published in the Medford papers, explains that he refused to answer these questions because to do so would show that he was not impartial. This excuse was just piffle, Mr. Neff—purely piffle.
Mr. Johnson, the special prosecutor, in his letter published in the Medford papers on the 31st inst. states that it is the law that the presentment is not to be filed or preserved beyond the sitting of the grand jury. Judge Thomas, in his letter, states that he explained to the jury that if they voted to return the presentment he would file it and it would become a public document. Judge Thomas, at this time, also stated to the jurors that if the presentment was filed they would be subject to suits for damages. Why, Mr. Neff, did Judge Thomas so mis-state the law and threaten the jurors?

Why did Judge Thomas tell the jury that in order to concur they had to vote? Mr. Johnson states the law, which says that the five of the grand jurors must concur to bring in a presentment. When did concur begin to mean vote? My dictionary defines it as "to agree."

ROBINSON SEES GERMAN GIRLS IN INDIANA NOW TOO FAT FOR IN DOUBT LIST STOWAWAY LAD

Bourbon Vice-Presidential Candidate Satisfied With Speaking Tour in Indiana—Believes State in the Doubtful Column.

By Raymond Z. Honk

Associated Press Staff Writer
EN ROUTE WITH SENATOR ROBINSON TO DAYTON, O., Nov. 2.—(AP)—Completely satisfied with the results of a five-speech tour of Indiana, Senator Joe T. Robinson today checked off the last state but one of his coast to coast campaign when he entered Ohio for speeches in Lima and Dayton. The Democratic vice-presidential nominee closed his campaign in Indiana last night in Fort Wayne. The senator shared the views of a number of Democratic leaders who traveled with him during the Indiana tour that the state should be placed in the doubtful column. The party workers told him that Frank C. Dailey was making a strong race as Democratic nominee for governor on a platform calling for a house cleaning of state politics, and that his strength might have some effect on the Democratic national ticket.

Laughter met the senator's reference to Herbert Hoover's proposal for an extra session of congress and cheers were given when he termed the proposal of Senator Curtis for an interstate marketing organization as "another one of the promises that Republican leaders, seized with panic, are making to hold the farmers' vote." "No day can pass," the nominee declared, "but what Senator Curtis or Mr. Hoover has some suggestion to hold the farmer and not one has been practical. But before many days have gone, they will know what the farmer thinks of promises they have broken during the last eight years." Describing Governor Smith as a man unexcelled in the science of government, Senator Robinson declared his chief on the ticket was a man of the plain people, who had risen at a critical period to champion their cause.

Terhune Thinks Frauleins Nice, But Too Big—Hopes to Leave Soon for Home—Plans Unsettled.

FREIDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Nov. 2.—(AP)—German girls are a bit too plump to suit Clarence Terhune, the 19-year-old American youth who captured the hearts of many of the frauleins by stowing away on the Graf Zeppelin. "German girls are nice enough and good-looking," he said, "but they are too big for me."
Terhune left today for Stuttgart where he hopes to obtain a temporary American passport which will enable him to proceed to Paris and catch the first boat for America. He said his plans in America were still unsettled. He said he did not know until a few hours before the airship's departure that he would go on it.
Mrs. Clara Adams of Tannersville, Pa., the only woman to make the trip eastward left unobtrusively today for Lima on Lake Conestoga after declining to be interviewed.

The three United States naval officers who made the flight. Commander M. R. Pierce, Lieutenant Thomas G. W. Settle, and Lieutenant Charles Edward Bauch, stated that they had pledged themselves in writing not to say anything about the trip.
Captain Hans C. Flemming, second officer of the Graf Zeppelin, said that he too was under orders not to speak about the trip.
When asked about Lakehurst, N. J., Captain Flemming said it was beautifully located but that the hangar was badly placed in that it was continually exposed to side winds. He also considered it was lying too high for an ideal airbase.

"Unloaded" Gun Once More Is Fool's Alibi

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—(AP)—The gun that "wasn't loaded" had another notch today.

Morton Kazanow had taken a pistol to the home of his sweetheart, Miss Marie Gray, 24, to be used to protect her from burglars.
"But I'm afraid of it," Miss Gray said.
"It cannot harm you," Kazanow assured her. "See," and he emptied the bullets into the table. Still she was unconvinced.
"Do not be afraid. It cannot hurt you now," said Kazanow; and to show her he placed the muzzle against her forehead and pulled the trigger. A bullet that had remained in the gun killed her instantly.
Police are investigating his story.

and a small pension for the few years he has left. But 51 years railroading, with 40 years of locomotive driving, seems a long time to wait for retirement on small pay.

What this country wastes would feed any nation in Europe, except perhaps Russia. Waste in money and food is BAD MANAGEMENT. Girls in Pennsylvania's State College, practicing thrift and good management, complain that they gain weight, although their food cost them for "three good meals 45 cents a day." One day's meals were: Breakfast—Grapes, hot cereal, toy milk, cinnamon toast, coffee; luncheon—vegetable soup, apple, date and cabbage salad, bread, butter, milk; dinner—veal cutlets, creamed cabbage, mince pie.

There is plenty of production in this country, but distribution is too expensive.
Good wages are paid, but are spent unwisely, without thrift.

Miss Elfreida Knaak was found dreadfully, probably fatally burned in the basement of the Lake Bluff, Ill., police station, early on Tuesday.
No screams had been heard while her legs and arms were held inside the furnace, burning.
In her delirium, dying, she cried, "I did it myself for faith, for purity, for love." She was in love with a handsome policeman.

The doctors refused to amputate the legs, and the woman's death seemed inevitable, and the authorities are "inclined to the belief that it would have been impossible for her to endure such agony inflicted by herself. Others must have tortured the unhappy woman."

They little know the power of remorse and religious fanaticism. Cranmer, before he was burned alive, bitterly regretting that he had signed a recantation of his faith, held his right hand in the fire and burned it first, saying: "This hand hath offended, this guilty hand."
A nihilist, imprisoned in Russia, fearing that torture would make him betray his fellows, dragged himself up by the iron bars at his cell window to a position in which the flame from a small oil lamp burned against the side of his body. There he remained until he had burned himself to death. The mind is usually ruled by matter and by suffering. But when the mind takes charge there are no limits to its power.

In his Baltimore speech Governor Smith paid to Woodrow Wilson the greatest of Presidents and a leader of men.

A Republican reader of this column suggests that Governor Smith's tribute to Wilson was also a tribute to Hoover, for, says this reader:

"When Woodrow Wilson went out into the leath and breadth of the land to choose men for his council table, he did not choose Alfred E. Smith as one of his counselors, but he did choose Herbert Hoover."
"If Herbert Hoover was good enough for Woodrow Wilson, he surely is good enough for Woodrow Wilson's staunch admirer."
