

SOUTHERN OREGON ELECTION VICTORS ENJOYED RETURNS FROM RADIO KMED

Living Medford and southern Oregon residents complete service on election returns from county, state and nation, KMED, the Medford radio station, was on the air continuously yesterday afternoon from 4 o'clock to 12:45 this morning, with Carl Y. Tegwald and C. T. Baker as announcers.

The local service was fast and in some instances national returns were heard over KMED before they were heard from members of the broadcast chain. Probably every radio set in this county, as well as in Josephine county, was in use, with most listeners using their sets until the station was closed down.

Screen Life in Hollywood

By Wade Werner. HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—From now on the bespectacled Harold Lloyd is going to run less and talk more. In deference to the desire of picture-goers for movies with a voice, the comedian of the horn-rimmed glasses is toning down the breathless speed of his latest film adventure to a point where he will have breath enough now and then to utter a few words of dialogue. 'There'll be no more 'chases' in my pictures from now on,' he said during a full production. 'I'm through with the pell-mell pursuit. 'In this picture, a background of mystery, rather than speed, sets off the comic moments. We're not making a mystery-thriller; but the underground Chinatown scenes will give us a chance to get thrills and laughs with microphone as well as camera.'

Harold Lloyd

Lloyd is an eager young botanist in the new picture; a botanist who by accident becomes the star fingerprint expert and criminologist of a metropolitan police department. A producer who cannot use phrases full of 'tone or phone in his announcements these days is hopelessly out of luck. In Hollywood, at least, he is suspected of having no talking picture equipment and therefore of being unprepared for the new era. Even the schools which advertise in the Help Wanted columns of the newspapers and urge jobless boys and girls to take a course in motion picture acting are falling in line. John Ince, who runs one of these institutions, is offering in his advertisements now a 'free voice test on that marvelous new device, Ince-o-phone.'

Doubles for Bird. Perhaps the oddest film job anyone has filled since the talkies came in was the parrot-doubling engagement recently completed by an actor whose sole duty was to stand behind a curtain and speak the lines of a parrot playing a bit in a talking picture. The parrot could talk but was not bright enough to memorize the lines the director wanted spoken. So a double was hired for the bird.

Another Studio. Boys of Fairfax high school in Hollywood, looking about them and noting how little capital it takes to become a motion picture producer, have organized the Colonial Pictures company to make football comedies with the school as a background.

A NEW YORKER AT LARGE

By G. D. SEYMOUR. NEW YORK.—The gray-haired proprietress of the Nuova Store di Lattinelli Freschi, down on Mulberry street in Little Italy, is a sculptress whose medium is cheese. From pouch-shaped cheeses made of goat's milk—cheeses that look like diminutive hams, or like the leather pokes in which placers miners carry their gold dust—the fashion-plumie and rampant yellow horses with only a sharpened blade of wood for a tool. They are r's romping Rosa Bonheur horses, and if you can find her little shop, up the smelly lane above Canal street, she will sell you one for a quarter. The gray-haired sculptress whose medium is cheese does not pretend to versatility. Once in a while she turns her head to the molding of an angel, but even her angels.

ENGLISH PAPERS FEATURE HOOVER ELECTION YARNS

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Hoover's victory is the big story of the day in Great Britain, with the afternoon papers devoting many columns under front page streamers to the results, with numerous pictures, such as "Hoover's winning smile." "The new lady of the White House." Editorially, the papers comment on the outcome as not likely to produce any marked change in America's foreign relations, but the Evening News expresses satisfaction that a man with Mr. Hoover's former close touch with the old world will be the next occupant of the White House, while the Evening Standard says: "We are to expect a continuance of the Coolidge regime, only more so, and there will be no change in the attitude of America toward these her own internal affairs or those of the rest of the world."

It was speeder's day in the police court. The first offender viewed he was traveling only fifteen miles an hour when apprehended. Next a notorious fast driver told the judge he was going only ten miles an hour. "And how fast were you going?" asked the judge of Tim O'Brien, third in line. "May it please the court," said Tim with strain on his face, "I was backin' up, Yee Honor!"
