ROAD ASSOCIATION APPRECIATES AID OF STATE PRESS

The Oregon Good Roads association wishes to publicly thank the press of the state for their support in the campaign against the Dunne bills. J. C. Alsworth, president of the Good Roads association, said upon being apprised that the Dunne measures had been defeated.

"Oregon newspapers were the dominant influence in the defeat of these two measures. They not only freely gave of their space to the Good Roads association but individually conducted aggressive campaigns against the bills which they knew directly threatened the state's splendid highway system."

"With highway chaos avoided by a popular vote surprising even the most optimistic opponents of the Dunne measures, the state highway commission can proceed with its interrupted plan in an orderly manner."

"The Oregon Good Roads association will continue to concentrate its energies toward affecting motor vehicle tax readjustment at the next session of the Oregon legislature. We have a special committee making a study of this important subject. It will make recommendations to the special senate committee appointed to report a tax readjustment bill to the 1919 legislature. This senate committee plans to hold a number of hearings during the next two months."

"Every resource of the Good Roads association will be placed at the disposal of this committee and the next legislature in order that the motor vehicle tax may be readjusted, making it easier to pay, and at the same time provide revenue necessary to carry on our highway program."

ONION COMEDY BEST OF FRANK'S COMEDIANS' PLAYS

(By Mary Greiner.)

"Hokum, like anything else, can be good or bad. And in that case the audience must know its onions. It should not start throwing vegetables indiscriminately until it sees whether or not the hokum is going to genuinely amuse or blatantly insult."

The comedy, "Know Your Onions," which opened at the Playhouse theater last night, was by far the best Frank's Comedians have put on to date. It is a clever concoction of characterization, swift dialogue and surprise effects which conspires to produce one prolonged laugh with several convulsions toward the end.

And here the comedians fell into temptation. They couldn't resist disconnecting the hokum from the rest of the play and drawing the convulsions into the "groovy" stage. If they had only played that portion for what it was worth and not stopped the show's tempo, there would be, as I said in a review of another of their plays, less to criticize.

The smooth characterization of Mason B. Wellington, who has played this part for a year or so in the south, was an apparent stimulus to the other actors, who rose several notches higher than the level maintained in the preceding plays.

Next in line came James Craig, who did his best piece of characterization so far in the role of "Old Man Jones." Louis Kober, in the part of Mr. Whitman, played his thankless part with ease, and Karl Luthy will be hard to criticize as to acting until he leaves the art of making up. He had on a set of heavy black eyebrows last night which not only clashed with his blond hair, but distracted so much attention from his part that it is hard to remember what the latter was all about.

As to the play itself, there were a few inconsistencies, such as drilling an oil well with a deficit of $5000 facing the owners; and the idea of a Texan voting for Calvin Coolidge and boasting about it openly. But the play was genuinely amusing, and in that respect the author also "knew his onions."

ROAD ASSOCIATION CITY BONDS BRING PREMIUM SALE TO JACKSON CO. BANK

Medford is certainly in a pretty good financial condition when a city bank bids a 15-cent premium per bond, above par value, for its securities," said Mayor O. O. Alenberger at the last city council meeting, which sentiment was reinforced by comments of Councilmen J. O. Grey, A. C. Hubbard, R. H. Hammond, J. W. Jacobs and E. H. Janney. The comments were made when the council voted to accept the bid of the Jackson County bank for the purchase of $25,757.45 sewer improvement bonds at $100.15.

There was another bid which seemed at first thought much higher—that of the Lumbermen's Trust Company bank of Portland, Oregon, which was $109.25. However, in view of the fact that if the latter bid was accepted the escrow, insurance and shipping cost would eat up so much of the premium that it would practically amount to the same as the local bank's bid, and therefore the city officials, inasmuch as they wanted to favor local bidding for the bonds, deemed the Jackson County bank bid the best one.

SALVATION ARMY SENDS MONEY TO MATERNITY HOME

A small portion of the money raised by the Salvation Army in their local campaign goes to the White Shield home in Portland, in which every year some girls from Jackson county are cared for.

Statistics compiled at western territorial headquarters of the army headquarters at San Francisco, covering the rescue homes in the 11 Pacific coast states and Hawaii, show today that the average of the 269 girls admitted from January 1st to July 1st this year, is slightly over 18 years of age. A few years ago the average was over 25.

In the first six months of this year, 251 babies were born.

The girls are given the best of medical and surgical treatment and are provided with a real home for a period before and after the birth of the child.

The utmost patience and toleration are exercised in dealing with the sometimes dependent and invariably reticent inmates.

Employment is found where the mother and child can be together, and through an auxiliary known as the "Out of Love" club, and the outdoor case work, the home keeps in touch with the girl for years after she has passed through, and settles her aid in assisting other girls in the same predicament.

There are 31 of these rescue homes in the United States and 65 operated by the Salvation Army throughout the world.

RELATIVES SEEK INVESTIGATION OF TEDRICK'S DEATH

Investigation to determine the cause of death of Fred Tedrick, 50, truck driver, who died this week from convulsions following the drinking of grape juice, is under way by county authorities at the request of relatives of the dead man and all concerned.

County Physician L. D. Inskip this afternoon will make an examination of the body, and Sheriff Ralph Jennings sent a gallon of the grape juice to a Portland chemist for analysis. The grape juice

ARMISTICE DAY

Slowly the passing years are wiping out the harsher memories of that monstrous struggle in which we were all engaged so recently that it seems only yesterday. Yet, in many hearts there still lingers the recollection of those days when we scanned the casualty lists with fear and trembling and listened to the approaching footsteps of the postman with mingled hope and dread. Hundreds of thousands of men—many of whom today belong to our own organization—still hear the vicious scream of shot and shell, smell the terrible stench of the trenches and shiver at the thought of the bitter cold and discomfort they endured while heroically facing an implacable enemy in the service of humanity. It is highly fitting then, that the day when these awful things came to a triumphant end should be solemnly commemorated. This instinct joins earnestly with the whole people in this recognition and celebration.
