

What's become of the "Superfluous Woman?"

THESE were the women that the census taker used to put down as "Females without Occupation." You know. Women with grown-up families. And the familiar ailing relatives that had to be supported by some other member of the family.

What's become of these so-called "superfluous women?" Health has everything to do with it. Just talk to women who've been successful along their own particular lines. They'll all tell you they take Nujol regularly.

Times have changed

"I learned that good habit from our school doctor," you'll be told. "She advised all the girls to take it, especially whenever we had to cut down on our regular exercise. You know how headachy and dull you're apt to feel. Well, you'd be surprised to see what a difference it makes if you take some Nujol for a few days beforehand."

No harm trying. For Nujol can't possibly upset you, even when you're below par. It contains absolutely no medicine or drugs. Perfected by the Nujol

Laboratories, 26 Broadway, New York. Sold only in sealed packages.

Nujol not only keeps any excess of body poisons from forming (we all have them) but aids in their removal. Buy a bottle of Nujol from your druggist today.

RAINS AND SNOW COAST PROSPECT FOLLOWING WIND

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—(AP)—The Pacific coast, from Seattle to San Diego today faced the prospect of a general rain, with snow in the mountains on the tail of a storm, which caused some inconvenience to shipping and local damage yesterday.

Gusts of high wind at nightfall forced four vessels to return to San Francisco after clearing for coast ports. The wind moderated later, but torrential showers swept the city at intervals, causing some damage. Oakland was left in darkness for a time, due to the breaking of power wires in the storm.

Electric trains were halted temporarily. Sewers were flooded and stores were awash here.

Trees were uprooted, telephone and power poles blown down, and other minor damage done in most of the communities around San Francisco Bay. Telephone and telegraph communication throughout northern California was interrupted, and wires to Oregon and Washington experienced considerable trouble. Heavy snowfall was reported from mountain districts from central California northward.

I. O. O. F. CONFERENCE AT GOLD HILL TUESDAY

Next Tuesday the Southern Oregon I. O. O. F. association will meet at Gold Hill in semi-annual conference. The association comprises all the Odd Fellows lodges in Jackson and Josephine counties.

This meeting will be particularly important, as steps will probably be taken to cooperate with the Medford lodge in making arrangements for the grand lodge session in this city next year. A good attendance is expected. Medford promises to send a large delegation. All members of Odd Fellows lodges in the two counties are entitled to seats and to participate in the deliberations of the conference.

A WASHINGTON BYSTANDER

By Kirke L. Simpson

WASHINGTON—(AP)—You may not make the man; but they certainly have an appeal to the all-seeing eye of the news cameras, movie or still.

Even such a personage as Field Marshal Viscount Allenby of Megiddo and Felixstowe, G.C.B., G.C.M.G., hero liberator of Palestine, slipped by the platoon of camera men at the White House unnoted on his courtesy call on President Coolidge because he came in muff, not in uniform.

Colonel Outdid Marshal.

Allenby is a big figure in an international sense and his Washington visit, of course, set the British embassy on edge to see that it was all put through in proper form.

That remarkably true to type British soldier, Colonel L. H. R. Pope-Hennessy, C.B., D.S.O., the chief military attache, took charge. More than that, in honor of the great occasion, he got out of moth balls the full dress uniform of his regiment and rank which rarely sees the light of day.

Decked out in all the glory of a red tunic, splattered with campaign and decoration ribbons and set off with a plumed cocked hat after ancient military modes and with clanking sabre and spurs, the colonel was a sight to see when he fell in line to Lord Allenby for the White House visit.

The field marshal himself was in a gray business suit. Aside from his wide shoulders and the look of trim physical fitness about him which would well become a uniform, he might have been any civilian visitor calling on the president.

Splendor Mistaken

Half a dozen embassy cars, escorted by sputtering police motorcycles, bore the British contingent to the White House. The actual exchange of greetings took just a minute or two, then Allenby and the staff popped out to go over to the state department. But the camera squad was waiting in between.

They swooped down on their British prey and promptly singled out the gorgeously uniformed Col. Pope-Hennessy as being the only man in the party who looked like a field marshal, sartorially speaking. Disregarding his utterly bored looks and bewildered protest, they hustled him into position, posed him and opened fire with clicking shutters before anybody could intervene to straighten things out. Allenby, meanwhile, slipped through the camera skirmish line unrecognized and was off across the street to the state department.

Of course it was all fixed up presently and the camera pack was off after the field marshal who was persuaded to come back and pose again. Not without question, it would have made a far more satisfying picture if the mistake had never been discovered and the likeness of Colonel Pope-Hennessy in his red coat and full dress regiments had stood. What's the use of being a great soldier, anyhow, if you don't dress the part?

Proposals!

A glance at her blonde loveliness tells better than words why this beautiful New York City girl has received such flattering proposals from kings of movie and stage land. She's Collette Francis, of 255 East 25th St., Brooklyn; now one of the charmers in the Broadway hit, "Rio Rita."

Miss Francis says: "Since I've been on the stage, so many people have asked me what I do to get the beautiful golden gleam and sparkle in my hair that I am beginning to think I'm really taking wonderful care of it. I really never thought much about it. What I do is so simple: Like so many of my girl friends here in New York, I just put a little Danderine on my brush each time I use it. That keeps my hair silky and gleamy, makes it easy to dress and holds it like I arrange it, for hours. My scalp was very dry and I had a lot of dandruff when I first started on it, but all of that trouble stopped quickly. And Danderine keeps my hair so clean I don't need to shampoo half as often, now."

Danderine removes that oily film from your hair and gives it new life and lustre. It isn't oily and doesn't show. It gives tone and vigor to the scalp. The generous bottles are just 35c at any drug or toilet counter. A delightfully fragrant necessity for the well-groomed girl.
