GRID SEASON HOME STRETCH ON TOMORROW

Many Teams in Battle for Competitive Honors—Sectional Leaders in East, West, South and Far West Involved.

By BRIAN BELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Coming into the home stretch of the football season, many teams tomorrow will be fighting for their competitive lives. Army and Navy are the exceptions that have scheduled opponents good enough to be interesting but not believed dangerous to the peace of mind.
Army will time up for Nebraska by playing Carlton of Minnesota, while Navy takes on Loyola of Baltimore in preparation for Princeton a week away.
In the leading traditional game, just 55 years old, Princeton will Virginia and a 6-to-6 deadlock with Virginia and a 6-to-6 deadlock with Ohio State if the Tigers can turn back Yale. The Elis, by the same token, will throw the Army and Maryland defeats out of the book if they can take the Tiger skin back to New Haven.
Princeton and Yale both have had one and down and it seems

O'GRADY SHADES CHILOQUIN OFFICER IN ASHLAND BOUT

ASHLAND, Ore., Nov. 15.—(Special)—Gene O'Grady, Ashland light-heavy, ambled placidly through a 16-round session with Joe Swindler, fighting chief of police of Chilquin, for the decision at the Ashland armory last night in the feature event of the American Legion boxing fete.
O'Grady was set to end the affair on several occasions, but his apparent unwillingness to trade wallops for an opportunity to land a sleep producer, each time allowed the chief to regain a clear head.
The remainder of the card was filled with action and knockouts, much to the delight of the large gathering of fans, many of whom were from the reservation metropolises.

SALEM PRINCIPAL IS APPRECIATIVE FRIENDLY SPIRIT

Medford hospitality to the visiting Salem team last week wiped out the former spirit of unhealthy rivalry which existed between the Salem and local high school teams and did a great deal toward cementing a real friendship between the two cities, according to J. C. Nelson, principal of the northern school, in a letter to E. H. Conkie received here yesterday.
The letter, in part, follows:
"We wish to express our grateful appreciation for the splendid treatment that our visitors received on Saturday. They all agree that they were treated with utmost courtesy and I have not heard a single disparaging note. I certainly appreciate it; you can be prouder of this than of winning the same even, and no one wishes to detract from your glory in that respect either. We didn't start out with any expectations of winning; if we had done so, we should have been as much surprised as anybody."
"But what chiefly concerns me is to know that friendly relations have been established and you deserve our sincerest thanks for the part in attaining that end."
"With best wishes for the continued success of our team, I am,
"Very sincerely yours,
"J. C. NELSON."

hard to name a pre-game favorite. Princeton, probably to Coach Bill Roper's disgust, is being given a slight edge.

Notre Dame's defeat of Army has brought the game with Carnegie at South Bend to the front rank for the Tartans from Pittsburgh have not been stopped.

The Pittsburgh eleven has not defeated Notre Dame at South end but it has turned the trick on its own grounds.

There is a distinct intersectional flavor to the card. In addition to the Carnegie-Notre Dame affair, Pitt zooms out to Lincoln to try to demonstrate it still has a touch down better than Nebraska.

Detroit, undefeated against fairly steady opposition, plays Fordham at the Polo Grounds in New York, while Missouri is taking on New York University at the neighboring Yankee stadium.

Missouri's Tigers are conceded no more than an outside chance against the powerful N. Y. U. crowd.

Western Conference
The game between the undefeated Iowa and Wisconsin teams will have a lot to do with determining the title holder of the western conference. The Hawkeyes were better last year but now they are carrying an added burden of being at the top of the heap, a target for all comers.

The southern conference leaders, Georgia Tech, Tennessee and Florida, have opponents who cannot be regarded lightly. Dixie observers, however, expect the Tech Yellow Jackets to win from Alabama by about the same margin as last year, two touchdowns, while Florida is given an edge over Clemson by critics outside of South Carolina, where Clemson is touted to stop the Alligators. The clash of two Tennessee elevens, the University of Tennessee and Vanderbilt, should furnish enough football for two games.

In the far west there is the matter of state rights to be decided between California and Washington, with California perhaps in better position. Stanford will play the University of Washington while Southern California meets Washington State. The returns last year were in favor of the Californians. The University of California is favored over Nevada.

Oregon "Natural"
An all-state battle between the University of Oregon and the Oregon Aggies seems a "natural" with the result in doubt until the end of the game, and perhaps even after that.

In the east, Yale and Princeton have no monopoly on the traditional rivalry spotlight. Williams and Amherst, Harvard and Holy Cross, Rutgers and Lehigh, Columbia and Penn, Colgate and Syracuse, Cornell and Dartmouth, Penn State and Lafayette, and Georgetown and West Virginia are not strangers.

VERNON EILERS TO HEAD AGGIE FOOTBALL TEAM

CORVALLIS, Ore., Nov. 15.—(AP)—The annual classic, Oregon State College-University Oregon football game will start Saturday afternoon at Bell field Saturday at 1:30 p. m.

CORVALLIS, Ore., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Vernon Eilers, guard of Portland, has been announced as Captain of Oregon State team in the Oregon championship battle here Saturday. Eilers, all coast guard last year, is playing his last conference game.

The lineup for Beavers will be: Whitlock, Striff, ends; Luce, Stout, tackles; Eilers, Carlson, guards; Geddes, center; Maple, quarter; Hughes, Sherwood, halves, and Gilmore, full.

Coach Schiessler gave his men final workout last evening, spending some time on Bell field, which was found surprisingly firm, considering recent rains.

Friday being homecoming holiday, the team exercised briefly in forenoon only, and will spend tonight together in a downtown hotel.

CORVALLIS, Ore., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Hundreds of freshmen of Oregon State college at daylight this morning began erection of the annual rook bonfire which by night will be a combination of trash and old buildings 40 feet square, around which a rally will be held at 9 o'clock.

News reel men were taking movie tone pictures of the process. Today is homecoming holiday, permitting students to complete preparations for welcome of the largest crowd of visitors in the history of the college tomorrow.

Hopes for a dry field for the big Oregon-Oregon State grid classic faded as rain again drenched the campus last night. Fairly firm footing was assured, however, as the field has drained well.

HEENEY ASPIRES TO CHAMPIONSHIP, STARTS TRAINING

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Tom Heenev thinks he will be the next heavyweight champion of the world.

The brawny blacksmith who took a terrific trouncing from Gene Tunney in the latter's farewell ring appearance last summer, says he believes he can enter any heavyweight elimination tournament and emerge the sole survivor.
"The bout I had with Tunney taught me a great deal," Tom said here yesterday when he arrived with his bride on the last lap of a round-the-world honeymoon tour. "I made a lot of mistakes in that fight that I'll never make again."

Heenev now is headed for New York where he will start intensive training for what he hopes will be a busy winter campaign. Tom's biggest ambition is to get into the same ring with Jack Dempsey.
"He is the greatest of them all," says the New Zealander, "and I never will consider myself a really experienced fighter until I have had a bout with Jack."

Mrs. Heenev, the former Marian Estelle Dunn of Spring Valley, N. Y., was asked whether she likes being married to a prizefighter. She didn't know about the prizefighter part of it, but she did enjoy being "married to Tom." What's more, she'll not interfere with Tom's business of fighting.

STRANGS TO VIEW FOOTBALL TUSSLE AND SHOE STYLES

Robert and Virgil Strang, will both attend the big football game at Corvallis tomorrow, to chiefly study the styles of footwear worn on the side lines and in the grandstand, and incidentally now and then to glance toward the field during the games and use some stock sport technical expression to show the rosters near them that they understand the game of football. It rubber boots are mostly worn by the huge audience this trip of the Strang boys will have been in vain.

In this leaving tonight for Corvallis to attend the big game together, the two brothers violate all football tradition in the Strang family, as heretofore both boys attended football games in relays, one viewing the first quarter and peering it back to the store to let the other see the second quarter—and then vice versa.
By pre-arrangement each departed from the store at the exact time the other left the athletic field, and the sight of them running in opposite directions caused much excitement among the populace, as they passed each other somewhere on Main street, for the people wondered where the fire was and knew not which man to run after.

Their father, Charley Strang, has never been the same man since they attended their first game in this way, and to this day he trembles and his hair grows more gray whenever he thinks of it.
Bob and Virg, after the big game is over tomorrow, go on to The Dalles to further study the footwear in that part of Oregon during the Medford-The Dalles championship high school game next Monday. In the meantime Herbert Strang will preside over the destinies of the store and enjoy the games over the radio.
