EGAN DEFEATS WORLD'S BEST GOLF PLAYERS

Medford Amateur Is Low Man in Thrilling Four-some Against Hagen and Farrell — Shoots One Under Par—Jack Heuston Finishes Strong.

Those people who saw the golf match at the Medford club yesterday when Walter Hagen and Johnny Farrell played H. Chandler Egan, will never see better golf, no matter where they go. Nor will they ever see a more perfect day for this royal game. And, incidentally, they can put a local citizen at the top of world for golf honors.

All square at the ninth, Johnny Farrell put his side ahead again with a sweet birdie 2 at the tenth, whereupon, nothing daunted, Jack Heuston, hitting on all six, snapped down a birdie 3 on the twelfth, and again it was all square. All hands then settled down to par until the fifteenth hole when Farrell and Hagen both dubbed their second shots, going down in fives while Egan and Heuston sank their par fours.

birds about as easily as they got pars yesterday. When it was over, both Hagen and Farrell paid a high tribute to Chandler Egan's play, saying that in their opinion he is one of the greatest amateur exponents of the game ever developed in this country.

Farrell, with a twinkle in his eye, added: "You have a nice course here. It is easy to par but

MIDDLE-AGED MAN TO ESSAY MAT COMEBACK

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The glamour of the wrestling game has lured back Charlie Cutler, a leading contender for the heavyweight title more than a decade ago.

BETTER TEAM BEAT DALLES PAPER SAYS

Chronicle Account Gives Medford Squad Full Credit—'Almost Super-Team'—Dalles Men Praised for Hard Fight.

The Dalles Chronicle, in its account of the state championship tilt Monday, gives Medford full credit and high praise, but following the lead of L. H. Gregory in the Portland Oregonian, continues to talk about the "little fellows" on the Dalles team. Like Medford, some of the Dalles players were bigger than "skinned horses," and some about the size of "a pint of elder." The tackle, who retired from the field of action, was "quite a chunk of boy," and all in all the teams compared evenly, as to size. The Chronicle claims "The Dalles was outweighed 16 pounds to the man, which is stretching it about 10 pounds, if any at all."

The Dalles version of the game is as follows:

By George Couper. "Playing before approximately 4500 persons, the largest crowd ever to attend a high school athletic contest in eastern Oregon. The Dalles high school's fighting football team yesterday went down to glorious defeat at the hands of Medford, 42 to 6.

"The Dalles bowed to the better team—almost, in fact, a super-team. It is doubtful if any high school eleven on the Pacific coast could make things tough for the aggregation of speed and weight Medford brought here yesterday.

"The local team, outclassed from the start, never quit fighting, however, and Medford knew that it had a football game on its hands every minute of the fray.

the most perfectly functioning lines in the country, and one of the fastest and most deceptive backfields. It has, without question.

"Medford declared that 'The Dalles would never cross its goal line. The Dalles did not, although fumbles cost them possible scores.

"Medford said it had been playing under wraps all season, waiting to 'spill its stuff' in a championship encounter. With the scores Medford had been making against its opponents, it sounded unbelievable, but it can now be believed, with the Peapickers scoring seven times through that hitherto unbroken Dalles line.

"The Medford line was great on offense but not impossible on defense. The Dalles made first downs time and time again against the vaulted forward wall of the invaders, but each thrust was cut short by a fumble, an intercepted pass or a checked play that forced a punt.

"Medford high school should not be playing other high school teams in the state of Oregon. It should either have an all-coast schedule against the pick of the schools in Washington, Oregon and California—or else play junior colleges. That team could play, on even terms, any college team in Oregon save the University of Oregon or Oregon State.

"It was a tough season this year when Medford had to play under wraps in order to get any team to play against it. Coach Prink Allison was quoted before the Dalles game as saying he didn't worry about winning. He only hoped that the game would be close enough so someone would play his team Thanksgiving day.

"Benson to Challenge. "Callison will apparently have the opportunity, for Clarence Bell, mentor of the Benson Tech team of Portland, in the stands yesterday, remarked that his school intended to challenge the winner of the tilt on Murray field. Whether Medford will accept the challenge is not known.

"As for the game itself, a play by play description is given elsewhere, but there are few interested football fans able to attend who were not present.

"Besides crowds from Medford and Hood River, Mosier closed its schools and sent a delegation. Goldendale was represented by 100 or more fans and students, and Sherman county people sat here here. Seating accommodations were provided for 2500, and officials declared there were that many more around the field.

"Game Spectacular. "The game was spectacular from the starting whistle to the closing gun. That Medford 'basketball' backfield, with its galaxy of spinners, reverses and double and triple passes, was a beautiful thing to watch.

"The Dalles backfield was as pretty, save that The Dalles line could not open the holes the Medford line did. That Medford forward wall made great, gaping chasms through which the backs raced for runs of from 5 to 40 yards.

"The broadcast of KGW, giving the play by play report of the game, was listened to by thousands throughout the northwest. Dalles residents who were unable to attend, listened to the broadcast here reported that Jimmy Richardson, sports announcer, gave a graphic account of the game which was enjoyed thoroughly. During pauses in the broadcast, Richardson gave interesting statistics concerning The Dalles and Wasco county, and all who heard the radio report declared that it was of great advertising benefit to this community.

"Frank G. Dick contributed to the broadcast fund, too late to publish his name yesterday.

"Medford lived up to its reputation of not being able to convey an extra point, failing in every instance. The closest visitors came to gaining the added unit was when one of their players caught a pass over the goal line, but dropped it.

"Locals Outweighed. "The Dalles was outweighed an average of 15 pounds to the man, taking the team average. Melvin, whose weight is given at 159 pounds in Medford's football statistics, but who looks nearer 165, and Anderson, 175-pound half, made little Pete Miles and Abe Westlund look like pygmies. Benjie Harrell, 145-pound half, was as fast as Ward, while Cooks, whose weight is given at 151, but looks like 160, was always good for five or 10 yards when called upon.

"Every man in The Dalles team tried his best. Some were more successful than others. Ward's return of the kickoff for 61 yards was the most spectacular play of the game, but did not take any more courage than to stand up against that ceaseless battering. Miller was a tower of strength on defense, but the others tried just as hard.

"May Try Again. "The Dalles has only one reason that it could not have played Medford last year when it had a heavy line, as heavy a line as the Peapickers', and a backfield which not only had great offensive strength, but the weight to back up the line.

"Perhaps next year, when some of Callison's men have left and some of Murray's good freshmen and sophomore material develop, The Dalles will take another try at Medford's crown. Until then, the southern Oregonians can have all The Dalles' claim to the laurels."

"The Dalles' claim to the laurels."

LEWIS AND DERN WIN MAT BOUTS IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 22.—(AP) Ed "Strangler" Lewis successfully defended his heavyweight wrestling championship title last night by taking the only fall in a scheduled two-out-of-three-fall match with Paul Jones, Houston, Tex., challenger.

The single fall was so severe that Jones became unconscious and remained in that condition until after the lapse of the five-minute period allowed. Lewis had obtained the fall in 1 hour and 25 minutes with a series of flying headlocks.

Lewis weighed 230 pounds, which was 29 more than the challenger.

Ira Dern, 190-pound Salt Lake City wrestler, won from Bill Shaw, Cleveland, O., 200-pounder, in the semi-final match. Dern took the fall in 39 minutes and 29 seconds, using an airplane spin.

THIRTY STATERS ARE CHOSEN FOR NEW YORK TRIP

CORVALLIS, Ore., Nov. 22.—(AP) Thirty members of the Oregon State college football squad have been selected to make the trip to New York for the post-season game on Thanksgiving day with New York university. A light workout today before leaving at 6 P. M. for Portland and the east, was ordered by Coach Schisler.

All of the two-year lettermen are to get a chance against the New York team in Yankee stadium, except Ralph Twitchell, hurt in the game with the University of Oregon last Saturday.

Those making the trip are: Maple, Montgomery, Iuerke, quarterbacks; Hughes, Sherwood, Metten, Bryan, Owen, Kerr, halfbacks; Thompson, Gilmore, Esemann, fullbacks, and the following linemen: Whitlock, Striff, McKelley, John Drager, Eilers, Carlson, Luce, Schell, Young, Stout, Geddes, Kirk, Rister, Cochran, Hekum, McGilvray, Dell Scott and Larson.

By automatically controlled electric heat it is possible to dry out green lumber in 48 hours without warping.
