

RECLUSE MAY HAVE OHIO KIN PAST OBSCURE

While nothing of a definite nature has been learned of the past of Frank Smith, 66, who died yesterday at the Sacred Heart hospital from exposure after wandering away from his home near Eagle Point, it was thought today by the sheriff's office that he had been a resident of Jackson county for nearly 50 years, arriving here in 1880 from Columbus, O.

Residents of Eagle Point, who knew the dead man, believed that he had resided for sometime in Jacksonville, then came to Medford and later arrived in Eagle Point, where he resided ever since. While he was not talkative, Smith is said to have told several Eagle Point friends that he was a member of the Masonic lodge at Columbus, O., where he claimed to have once held a fairly high office. In speaking of his past, he once said of having run away from home when he was a youth and that he never saw his parents again. Thinking that perhaps they might still be alive, he attempted to locate them 20 years ago. He indicated that his family was financially independent and was held in high esteem in his home town, which is thought to be in Ohio.

Search of his cabin, which was kept in an untidy manner, disclosed no papers of identification, and the sheriff's office today was attempting to determine whether he carried a bank account in any of the local banks. The body is being held at the office of the county coroner in the hope that kin may be located, and if it is determined that Smith was a Mason, the local Masonic lodge may take charge of funeral services.

Dinner Invitation For Robber Pair Brings an Insult

URBANA, Ill., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Two robbers added social insult to financial injury last night after invading a dinner party given at the home of George Bussey, banker and University of Illinois trustee. When they took a $5 bill (all they could find) Bussey urged "Won't you please have dinner with us?" The robbers declined. "This is a swell dump not to have more than five bucks in it," they said, and departed.
