

'THE GHOST TRAIN' AT NEW PLAYHOUSE

"The Ghost Train" will be seen at the Playhouse, with Frank's comedians as its passengers and crew.

It is a mystery play that kept San Francisco mystified for seven months at Duffy's theatre. Mr. Duffy then sent it on the road for six weeks playing all the large cities in California, where it met with remarkable success. With all its mystery there is much sparkling comedy.

Beginning Thursday night and continuing for four performances only, "The Ghost Train" will hold full sway at the Playhouse, and the realism of it all will be the talk of Medford.

Mr. Franks is doing his utmost to give Medford a production of this play that will meet with the approval of all and will make it the best and biggest attraction yet offered at the Playhouse.

MT. PITT DRIFTS

The O.-O. Lumber company, as usual, did not forget their boys on Thanksgiving. A real home-cooked dinner was served—turkey with all the trimmings, plum pudding and everything. My goodness, how those fellows did eat! Bill Platt, the chef, in addition to his regular crew, was ably assisted by Wick Holm, who is well known here for his culinary science.

George Tranta, for the past week, has had a bad cold and is trying Doc Jenkins' home remedies, having made several visits to his house already.

Cecil King, who has been working at Aberdeen for the past six months, has again returned to the fold. Cecil is among the beneficiaries now and is looking for a nice, cozy hungalow.

Honer Kent was injured on Tuesday. While limbing a tree the axe glanced and almost severed his little toe.

Seems a dog in camp has developed quite a taste for fresh cat meat. Hereafter all dogs without a muzzle will be thrown in the pound.

J. H. Owens and Bill Stewart were visitors at camp this week. Bill is well acquainted with our road conditions now and wonders how the school children can possibly keep anything in their heads after making this trip twice daily. "Doc" suggests a Ford plane. We give up; so does Miss Nutting.

Betty Hanson, a sophomore at Medford high school, is expected to enjoy her Thanksgiving turkey with Ma and Pa at camp this week.

Charley Bird, we notice, is again boarding at the cook house. Charley's sister of Tuttle Falls was married this week, which leaves Char-

Texas Marketing Facilities

Distribution of Texaco products on an extensive scale in this state, today is a reality, following the official opening of the territory by The Texas company on Saturday, December 1, according to announcement by Lynn McCray, Oregon manager for the oil concern.

With service stations and bulk distributing plants located in virtually every community and with the new $1,250,000 storage terminal at Portland completed and in use, Texaco gasoline, motor oils, fuel oil, kerosene and other products now are available throughout Oregon.

Official announcement of the entry into the northern part of the state of The Texaco company was made Friday evening, with one of the most spectacular stunts ever staged on the Pacific coast.

Approximately 1,250,000 glittering stars were showered from planes participating in the celebration of "Texas Eve," thus introducing to Oregonians the Texas star, the company's trademark.

Included among the myriad shooting stars were 3000 red and gold stars, marked with the Texaco "T," each of which was worth five free gallons of gasoline at any Texaco service station.

Station WEF broadcasting, operating on a frequency of 2000 Kcs., by authority, etc., etc.; now signing off for the winter. Will be on the air again about March 4th, when a special program will be given for the Hon. Herbert Hill announcing. Good night.

New Manager Used Car Dept. Pierce-Allen

J. A. Butler, otherwise known to his many friends in Medford as "John," has recently entered the employ of the Pierce-Allen Motor company as manager of its used car department, succeeding H. B. Wales, resigned. Mr. Butler has been with the Chevrolet dealers in Klamath Falls for the past three years in a like capacity and previous to that was employed by Patton & Robinson of this city.

"We consider ourselves extremely fortunate in obtaining the services of Mr. Butler at this time," says Lloyd R. Wicks, sales manager of the Pierce-Harrison Motor company, "for the reason that his long experience with the Chevrolet line and its merchandising policies as applied to both new and used cars enables him to come to our organization with a fund of knowledge just in time to assist us in the introduction of the New Chevrolet Six."

Hollow-glass door knobs, in which colored liquids may be poured to harmonize with various schemes of interior decorations, have appeared. They are of fancy shapes and have glass stoppers so that the contents may be changed to suit the taste of occupant of the apartment.—Popular Mechanics.

KLAMATH FALLS.—Additional employees added to local post office force indicate increase in business.

'WRINKLES' WELL WISHER FOR WAN WOOLY KITTEN

It was the one wish of Henry Boyd, 76, who lives alone in a tiny cabin on Crater Lake avenue, to own a wooly cat. He expressed the wish to Mrs. Lyda King, county nurse who goes to see him frequently, and who led a city wide search for Wrinkles last month, when that little tramp dog turned up missing from the Boyd domicile.

With Wrinkles home again, and Rosy (the horse) safely tied in the pasture, Mr. Boyd felt free to enlarge the family circle. It was sort of like taking out insurance against another loss such as he felt with the disappearance of his only house pet.

"Now, if I only had a wooly cat, I'd be happy," he said, caressing the prodigal Wrinkles, the night of her return.

"What kind of a wooly cat—a Persian?" asked Mrs. King.

"Oh—I don't know as I could describe the kind I have in my mind. It wouldn't have to be any of these high faluting breeds you see in the swell homes—just a cozy, little wooly cat that would sit in front of the fire and look friendly like when I came home. But I suppose that kind would be hard to find," said Boyd.

It was rather hard to find, but for a month Mrs. King kept looking, and inquiring every place she went throughout the county. At last one day, a friend called up the county health office. Mrs. King hung up the receiver with a decisive snap, hurried into her exclusive snuggly, hopped into her car and drove out to the home of her friend and there, she found the object of her search. Small, and white and wooly (the exact word) with the most beautiful blue eyes a cat ever had.

Wrinkles acted a bit jealous the first day, when Pedro sat purring in front of the fire in the tiny abode on Crater Lake avenue. But even Wrinkles couldn't help admitting that it made a difference in the quiet little home. And after all, wooly cats are sweet.

BOSTON (AP)—"Boss in the synagogue," wrote Bennie Levine, 65, when he filed notice of his intention to wed. To the puzzled clerk he explained that he was a retaker and everyone called him "boss."

To eliminate guesswork in determining when peaches are ready for picking, a pressure tester has been introduced. It shows the number of pounds required to drive a plunger through the skin of the fruit and thus measure its condition. Peaches that test from three and one-half to five pounds, if picked and handled carefully, can be sold for immediate consumption but cannot be shipped safely.
