Smudge Smoke
A. S. V. Carpenter was in a hurry Thurs. pm.—believe it or not.

There has been a low visibility for several days, and Old Sol has been conspicuous by his absence.

G. Washington Maddox journeyed to K. Falls the mid of the week, and went through a harrowing experience. The auto in which he was riding, hit a slick spot, and nearly went into the gutter.

The influenza seize continues. History tells of the siege of Troy, and the siege of Verdun. B. Anderson has been one of the besieged, and has been expecting a line from him any day.

E. Roedel, a local journalist, is cutting quite a swath in a new ad. An unknown fiend in human form stole J. D. Russell's auto, right out from under his nose Monday eve.

Some of the autos still have the Hoover stickers in the back window, which is loyalty for you. It is feared that the cold weather will bring out the whip cord riding pants, with buckskin patches, where the knees knock.

The legislature meets next month and it is hoped they adopt the Michigan law, which provides life imprisonment in the jail-house for those who get caught four times for possession of liquor, and put a stop to this form of helplessness.

Scores of county folks were in town Sat. to see the fog.

TIMBER SURVEY OF COUNTY PROPOSED

Acting upon a suggestion from the Portland Chamber of Commerce, a survey will be made of Jackson county, with a view to making timber growing an established industry.

The idea is to have individuals given tracts of government land suitable for nothing but timber, and assisted in the work of planting and ultimately harvesting timber crops just as fruit crops or grain crops are now harvested.

Hugh Hankin of the forest service is interested in the idea and will probably bring the matter before several of the luncheon clubs in the near future.

ANDERSON CREEK

Their is an epidemic of influenza on the creek. Nearly every family is ill with it. Mrs. Holtman's father and mother from California is up on a visit.

D. C. Hale made a trip out to Medford Friday. The program given at the school house Thanksgiving was enjoyed by all.

Mr. Bushnell and Mr. Sticor are cutting Christmas trees for some men in California. Joe MacDowell was out to Talent Thursday. Mr. MacDowell and family have been quite ill with the influenza.

Harry Maulby is building on his lots he bought in Talent.

WHO'S LOONEY NOW?

WE don't believe the sportsmen of Jackson county need worry over the latest threat to Rogue River. According to press reports, former State Engineer Lewis wants to make Roseburg and Grants Pass seaports, by constructing a number of dams and raising seagoing vessels over them by gigantic derricks.

We are opposed to both projects. The Rogue River should always be primarily a scenic and fishing stream. Diamond Lake should be devoted to recreation and beauty, not utility.

But we can see no more probability of these wild schemes being carried out than of Lindbergh flying to the moon next Wednesday. Label both pipe dreams and forget them. That is our advice to those who would worry about them.

MORE ABOUT COAST FOOTBALL

POP WARNER IS a fox. He attributes the Stanford victory over West Point to the California climate. If this doesn't give him a pension from California incorporated—and state-wide immortality,—nothing will.

But, while we don't question the general virtues of the California climate, we doubt very much if the sun-kissed conditions at Palo Alto had very much to do with that victory at the Yankee stadium a week ago.

At any rate, we believe Pop had more to do with it, and the spirit of the Stanford team probably more than anything else. For everything conspired to put the members of the Stanford team on their toes for that New York game.

They ran on the field that Saturday afternoon, determined to play the supreme game of their lives, and that is precisely the game they did play. No team in the country could have beaten Stanford that day. They had the unconquerable will to win, not because of what the California climate had put in their legs, but what Pop Warner and the combination of circumstances mentioned above, had put in their hearts and heads.

And that restful ride by train across the country instead of doing them harm did them good. They ran on the field that Saturday afternoon, determined to play the supreme game of their lives, and that is precisely the game they did play.

In other words, it was not a physical but a mental and spiritual superiority that won that game. And here we come to the fundamental factor which, we believe, accounts for the fact that the Pacific Coast plays better football than the Atlantic Coast.

Essentially it is youth. The football of the Pacific Coast has the enthusiasm and the intensity of youth. We take our football more seriously than our more mature and sophisticated brethren of Chicago. We take football as Harvard and Yale took it, 20 and 30 years ago, when feeling ran so high, football relations between these two universities had to be severed to reduce fatalities.

What has happened to Harvard and Yale has happened to a greater or less extent to all Eastern colleges. They all take football now with a grain of salt. It is now longer a crusade or a battle to the death, it is merely another week-end sport. Only 500 Yale students attended the football rally before the Harvard game. When Tad Jones delivered one of the early-90 rah-rah pep speeches, they didn't even cheer. They either looked bored or smiled.

No wonder Yale was beaten. For Harvard, thanks to a long string of defeats, had resumed something of the pre-war spirit. More than that, on the very afternoon of the big game, three Yale seniors were caught playing golf and preparing for a week-end in the country! Shades of Frank Hinkey! Thirty years ago they would have been lynched.

So there you are, ladies and gentlemen! That's the underlying reason the Pacific Coast plays better football than the Atlantic. It's not the climate, it's the spirit. The East from a football standpoint has grown up. The Pacific Coast (loud cries of "Thank God;" from the rooting section) has not!

E. V. CARTER SHOWS ASHLAND FOLKS GIVE CITY MUCH

Mr. Evans was a single man, a quiet man who was not very well known in this city, where he died early this year. He left a will bequeathing his entire estate "to assist the needy children of Ashland and vicinity," in securing educations.

Some eight years ago Mr. Jesse Winburn of New York City, was a visitor here and became interested in Ashland and gave numerous and generous gifts to our city. I know of no one who is able to give in detail a list of these gifts but we know of the help he gave to the ladies in the erection of their Civic club house, some $20,000, I am told, including its equipment. Again, he purchased all the outstanding stock of our Community hospital, built an addition thereto, refurbished it and gave it to the city. How much was involved in this transaction I do not know. Aside from the gifts just mentioned Mr. Winburn gave many other smaller amounts and will long be remembered for his generosity. He was introduced to this city by our Mr. Vinling, who had known him in New York. I estimate his gifts to the people here at $50,000.

The E. K. Anderson Bequest The will of the late E. K. Anderson, a pioneer of Ashland, provided for an expenditure of $2,500 to be used in connection with Chautauqua activities and is still, as I understand, partially unexpended.

Victoria Mickelson The late Mrs. Mickelson bequeathed her entire estate to the City of Ashland, stipulating that it should be used in the erection of a fountain perpetuating the Mickelson name. The estate is now in probate and ultimately shows a net value of about $4,000.

Ben F. Evans Ben F. Evans came to Ashland to make his home about 1922.

Mr. and Mrs. Root had made their home here for many, many years and formed an attachment for our city that was reflected in the will he and Mrs. Root made. Mr. Root passed away in 1921 and Mrs. Root about four years later. The entire Root estate was left to be used for the benefit of Ashland and to beautify our city. The estate amounted to about $22,500, and the execution of the trust was left to the presidents of the three banks in this city. The greater portion of it has been used in the purchase of additional land adjoining our park and in other ways. With cash on hand, drawing interest, there are other securities, and it is hoped that we will,

MT. PITT DRIFTS

Vic Holms' new sport roadster was a sorry looking sight Sunday morning. Vic, it seems, got in a little jam at etatashidlu hrdl, traffic jam on Crater Lake highway, near Eagle Point. Vic's left eye was slightly damaged. However, this did not prevent him from getting the culprit's number, and the police are now on the trail.

Mr. Levee, clerk for the Cleveland store at Butte Falls, is rendering the camp families excellent service now. Ralph makes two trips weekly, carrying a supply of fresh meat and vegetables.

Emil Nelson and Bill Thomas are demonstrating a new method steam washer that Emil had rigged up on the jammer, Joe Holland seemed quite impressed with the idea and is ordering one for his home.

Lou Sargent and Bert Jenkins made a trip to town on Saturday and brought home a nice porker. T. F. Gork, the Watkins man, was in camp Friday. The boys are now well supplied with perfume and shaving lotion.

Charles Pennington left for Portland on Friday, where he will undergo a thorough x-ray examination to determine just what is wrong with his back.

Dave Baugh is nursing a scalp wound and bruised arm. It was said Dave endeavored to stop a tackle block with his head.

There was a bottle found near camp this week that contained what was evidently a poisonous concoction. The owner can re-
