ATLANTA SCHOOL GIRL FOUND AFTER ALLEGED KIDNAPING BY OLD MAN

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 4.—(Special)—Kidnapers, death threats, drugs and a dirty shawl, formed the melodramatic sequence of the story told today by a pretty high school girl who was found bound and gagged after two days' absence from home.

Doris Turner, Hoke Smith high school athlete, collapsed last night in a filling station. She had been found nearby, bound at the ankles. Two hours later the girl said she had been released unharmed by a "sandy old man with a cane" for whom police had been searching for two days.

Birdsfield, she asserted, had kept her from discerning where she was after being held most of the two days in a dirty shack.

The authorities started an investigation Wednesday at the request of her parents, who had received a special delivery letter from her to the effect that she had been abducted by a "stupid old man who yelled when he recalled that she remembered his daughter, now dead."

The old man wanted to kill her, she added, another man objected and persuaded his companion to return the girl to Atlanta because "things were getting hot."

A physician said the child had not been harmed, and was suffering only from exposure and weak condition caused by lack of food.

Undereating leads to tuberculosis and other diseases

If THE mothers and young girls of this country could have heard the addresses before the Annual Philadelphia Tuberculosis Conference, something would be done and done quickly to stamp out the dangerous undereating by young girls.

The addresses of this meeting were made public through the Philadelphia Public Ledger. "The most difficult problem facing us in combating tuberculosis among high-school girls, and particularly among the young women of today, is the vicious habits they practice to retain or acquire a slim and graceful figure."

"We don't seem to be able to save them," says . . . "the problem of nutrition is the one we have to face in our examination of girls of this age. It is at this age that girls are most susceptible to tuberculosis and other diseases."

Parents must put an end to the dangerous dieting of young people. Thousands of older women have permanently injured by extreme dieting to reduce weight. It is even more serious for growing girls to starve themselves.

Tempt the appetites of your family with deliciously sweetened cereals and fruits for breakfast, with abundant canned and fresh vegetables sweetened to taste, and with fresh, dried and canned fruits for desserts. The Sugar Institute.
