

COUNT TOLSTOY RETURNS WITH NORTH RECLUSE

Expedition Into North Country Brings Back Caribou Data and Man Who Lived 15 Years As Eskimo—Sick But Once, He Says

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 5.—(AP)—After a 1000-mile journey into the north country, Count Ilya Tolstoy, grandson of the noted Russian author, was back in civilization today with considerable data on caribou migration and a trapper who has spent 15 of his 24 years living as an Eskimo.

The Tolstoy expedition, which was sent out by the Museum of Natural History of New York, spent several months in the barren lands 1000 miles north of The Pas, Man., over which the caribou cross by the thousands in their search for winter quarters.

The trapper, who made his first trip out of the north country in 15 years with the Tolstoy party, is George Yandle, who makes his home in a snow-covered hut on the shore of Lake Uluitt, several hundred miles north of here.

Today he had discarded his habitual garb of the Eskimo and was arrayed in the latest fashion of civilization. For the first time in 15 years he was wearing a pair of boots and a "store-made" suit, and, to cap the climax, he added a pair of spats.

To Return Soon But civilization holds no permanent attraction to Yandle, who plans to return to the north within a month. He said he has enjoyed his life among the Indians and Eskimos and had been ill but once when he contracted influenza during an epidemic.

He has been located 100 miles from the nearest trading post where he disposes of his annual catch for supplies.

Reindeer meat and frozen fish, he said, are his principal food but unlike the Eskimo he adds some luxuries of civilization. At the trading post he obtains tea at $2 a pound, sugar at $2, tobacco at $5, and a 25-pound sack of flour for $10.

Count Tolstoy on his expedition was accompanied by Hecate Ashton and W. J. Case, and a party of Indian guides and trappers. They journeyed 1000 miles by canoe to the far northern post of Windy Lake and on the return 800 miles made by dog sled in 25 days.

The expedition found that during the burning of the woods in the vicinity of Reindeer Lake, the caribou have been forced to seek new winter shelter. The party made moving pictures of the migration.

Count Tolstoy said he found the caribou quite tame and believed they could easily be domesticated.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Diplomats from Rio Hamba state that 5000 Indians who threatened the city have been driven into the mountains.

The uprising started when the Indians mistook military topographical commissions who were making surveys of the country for tax collectors. They attacked the commissions who fled leaving behind their instruments.

As soon as the army authorities received word that Rio Hamba was threatened a platoon of soldiers was sent to the region. The Indians attempted to drive off the soldiers with stones but were driven back by rifle fire. Two soldiers were injured.

SONNENBERG IS NEW CHAMPION OF WRESTLERS

Lewis Butted From Throne By Football Tactics—Strangler Counted Out for Crawling From Ring—Headlocks Fail to Hold.

By William R. King. Associated Press Sports Writer. MEDFORD, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Wrestling had a new champion today—"Dynamite" Gus Sonnenberg, former Dartmouth football player, almost a novice at the game.

Sonnenberg won the heavy-weight mat title when Ed "Strangler" Lewis was disqualified in their match here last night. Sonnenberg had taken the first fall with his "flying tackle" in 23 minutes, 46 seconds, and when they returned to the ring, he tried to drop the champion again with the same tactics.

The rugged football player, who after college, continued his gridiron career with the Providence steamrollers, a professional team.

Each time Lewis sought safety outside, he was ordered to return by Referee Leon Burbank. The official gave Lewis ample warning and, after the seventh but, counted him out of his title, which he turned over to Sonnenberg to the great delight of the 20,000 spectators, who filled the spacious Boston garden.

Many of the spectators were persons of prominence and thousands of them were young college graduates and students, a fact which became interesting in wrestling because of Sonnenberg and one whose patronage moved sport out of a dingy Boston hall into one of the largest sport palaces in the country.

Sandow Protests. The decision, which stripped Lewis of the bejeweled championship belt as well as his title, drew the vociferous protests of Billy Sandow, the "Strangler's" manager and confidant. Sandow claimed that his man was never entirely out of the ring, and that he had at least a foot or leg inside at all times and that Lewis was willing and eager to continue the bout when he was counted out by Burbank.

During the bout, which lasted 25 minutes and 6 seconds, Sonnenberg was on the offensive all times and had to force matters to stir the cautious Lewis into action. When the "Strangler" did get going, he tried for victory with a series of headlocks, all of which Sonnenberg broke or slipped from.

Lewis received $50,000 for his night's work. Sonnenberg's share ran about $2,000. Total receipts exceeded $72,000.

By winning the title Sonnenberg probably assured Boston of professional football next fall. The former Dartmouth player, who became "sold" on that game while playing with the Steamrollers, this year's professional champion, promised that if he defeated Lewis for the title, he would use the resulting profits in the promotion of the professional game in this city.

Sonnenberg, who is in his early thirties, first went to Dartmouth, where he starred at tackle, and then to the University of Detroit, from which he graduated five years ago.

Lewis, who is 37, is a native of Lexington, Ky., and as Frank Frederick, his true name, was graduated from a college in that state. He is a horticulturist by avocation.

Lewis held the title for nearly ten years, with one brief interim after his defeat by Wayne Mann, the big Iowaer. He regained it from Joe Stecher in St. Louis in February, 1927.

Last summer in this city Sonnenberg threw Lewis once, but when Sonnenberg tried his flying tackle for the second fall, the Strangler dodged and Sonnenberg sailed through the ropes to the concrete floor. He was unconscious for hours.

GERMAN HEAVY BEATS SEKYRA; DUNDEE LOSES

Schmeling Takes Another Step Toward Contender Place—Called Smart, Clever Boxer—Johnny Dundee Hollow Shell of Old Self.

By Edward J. O'Neil. (Associated Press Sports Writer.) NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The end of the road, a long and honorable way that has wound through fistiana for over 18 years, appeared today in the sight of Johnny Dundee, once the little warrior who has fought them all, and once a champion in both the featherweight and junior lightweight divisions.

At times Johnny baffled the rugged Rosenberg, ten years his junior and five pound heavier, with the lightning left hooks, the booming forework, and easy snapping at close quarters that made him famous. A few times Dundee tried his old trick of bounding backward into the ropes, leading forth again to spear his opponent off-balance.

But last night this maneuver, a trick Johnny himself invented, was just a slow-motion exhibition of how it used to be done.

Although Johnny was beaten solidly about the body at times at long range, when he came within striking distance the Scotch-cop had the satisfaction of flooring Rosenberg for no count in the sixth round with a right to the chin, thus adding in perhaps his final engagement to the reputation he has always borne for sharp hitting.

Sekyra Beaten. The multi-bout, overshadowed in sentimental interest at least by the battle of the former champions, added more impetus to the surge of the young German heavyweight, Max Schmeling, who easily trounced Joe Sekyra, blonde Bohemian from Daxton.

Schmeling, who is almost a duplicate in appearance of Jack Dempsey—his same cast of countenance, lowered black hair, heavy, slim muscles and bobbing eyebrows—fought for the second time in America. In his first engagement he knocked out Joe Monte of Boston, and last night he did all but that to Sekyra.

The Dayton youth was blood-drenched and wobbling at the close from the short hooks Schmeling threw from a crouch to his head. He rarely played for Sekyra's body and might have knocked him out with a more varied attack. As it was, Schmeling drew round after round of applause from the 13,547 fans. He seemed impervious to punishment, a sharp blitzer with either hand, a smart, clever boxer.

YANCOVIER, H. C. Jan. 4.—(AP)—Vic Foley, Vancouver lightweight, and Ignacio Fernandez, San Francisco Filipino, fought ten rounds to a draw here last night.

Foley weighed 131 and Fernandez 123. Fernandez had Foley down for a count of five in the eighth round. Except for this and some mixing in the final round, the bout was tame.

EVANS REDOUBLES ENGLAND WINNER TRAINING EFFORTS OF INTERNATIONAL FOR KRUSE MATCH CRICKET MATCHES

ANXIOUS TO MEET BOB KRUSE, Portland heavyweight, Art Evans, the Cherokee wrestler, is redoubling his training efforts and tonight will go through his last workout at the Playhouse theatre.

Evans will weigh 225 for the match in order to improve his speed to match that of his opponent who is regarded as one of the speediest men on the coast. Tonight's workout will be open to the public.

Kruse will arrive in Medford tomorrow with his manager, Vern Hamlin, and will spend the day resting for the match, which he expects to be one of his hardest this season. Evans is afraid if he loses Monday night he will be rated as an ordinary "ham and egg" and has ambitions of staying in Oregon indefinitely to win from all comers.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 5.—(AP)—England today won the international cricket championship, defeating Australia in the third test match by three wickets. Previously the English team had defeated the Australians at Brisbane and Sydney. The loss of the test by Australia means that the championship "crown" goes back to England where they were won in 1926.

The third match was begun a week ago. Eight wickets were still to fall at lunch time today and England required 110 runs to give her a victory over the Australians. The scores at that time stood: Australia 397.5, total 748; England 417.222 for two wickets, total 613.

After the luncheon interval England established three more wickets, bringing her total to 226 for five wickets, and then won the game by three wickets, with 332 for seven wickets and a total of 749. More than a quarter of a million spectators saw the seven-day match, the attendance being 262,467 and the receipts $2,550,000 (approximately $113,000).

The drama of the match raised the spectators to a frenzy of excitement in the last day of play.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The National Boxing association will not recognize Jack Dempsey or anyone else as heavyweight champion until he wins the title in the ring.

Concerning the proposal of William Middleton, veteran New York boxing commentator, that Dempsey be recognized immediately as the champion, Paul Trench, president of the N. B. A. said: "The National Boxing association is not in favor of naming champions in the heavyweight or any other class until they win recognition as such in the ring. What would be the purpose and what would the spectatorship amount to if commissions named champions without their coming through to win them?"

"While I believe Dempsey is an outstanding heavyweight prospect, yet I see no reason for naming him the heavyweight title holder now. Let him show the world he earns it and that he is the best man in the heavyweight division today."

SEARCH IS MADE FOR MISSING OF SUNKEN STEAMER

MATON, Spain, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Intensive search was being made today for 23 persons, including several women who have been missing since the sinking of the French steamer Malakoff. White hope is still held that the missing persons may either be in the boat or still afloat in life belts. It was generally believed that the vessel foundered seven minutes after striking the rocks between Cape Bartrium and Santa Gallana Bay on the southwest coast of the island of Minorea Thursday in a fog.
