

RETURN BODY OF MRS. RUTH TODAY FOR EXAMINATION

WATERTOWN, Mass., Jan. 16.—(AP)—The funeral of Mrs. George Herman Ruth was subject to delay today because of a second autopsy. Dr. George L. McGrath, medical examiner of Suffolk county, after making a chemical analysis of the vital organs, requested the body in order to make a more thorough examination. Arrangements were made for the return of Mrs. Ruth's body to an undertaker's rooms today after Dr. McGrath's report, but funeral plans were uncertain.

Mrs. Ruth died in a fire last Friday at the home of Dr. Edward H. Kinder, Boston dentist. The first autopsy was performed by Medical Examiner George L. West of Middlesex county when it was supposed that the dead woman was Mrs. Helen Kinder, as Mrs. Ruth had been known to neighbors for more than a year.

Medical Examiner West reported that death was due to the fire and District Attorney Robert T. Bushnell has twice declared that he was convinced that Mrs. Ruth died from accidental causes. He said he ordered the second autopsy in order that there might be no possibility of error.

Habe Ruth, who has remained here awaiting the funeral, denied that he knew his wife was living with Dr. Kinder at Watertown, as the dentist had told Watertown police Monday.

The Babe also denied that he had ever met Dr. Kinder. The future of Dorothy, the 5-year-old daughter of the Ruths, remained a question today, with the Woodfords, the family of Mrs. Ruth, re-interpreting their intention of adopting the child and friends of Babe declaring that the home run king was indignant at any such plan. From sources close to the Woodfords came other rumors of possible litigation over the estate of Mrs. Ruth.

Among the letters and telegrams of condolence received by Babe Ruth was a message from Lou Gehrig, his team mate on the New York Yankees and chief rival for home run honors. Gehrig wired, "Please accept my heartfelt sympathy in your great loss. May the Almighty grant you and Dorothy sufficient strength to bear up during your bereavement."

thing approved by the legislature in a bill that was introduced surreptitiously. It was defeated because someone in the lobby talked too much and said that if that bill is passed then we can spend our money as we damn please. If we want to buy an automobile we can buy it."

Koser continued with his explanations until Chairman Staples called for adjournment.

COOLIDGE IS HOST TO SENATORS FOR BREAKFAST PARTY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP)—For the third time within a week, President Coolidge was host today at a senatorial breakfast party. Twenty-one members of the senate, 19 of them Democrats, were his guests.

Those who attended were Bruns of Maryland, Caraway of Arkansas, Copeland of New York, Elliott of Washington, Edwards of New Jersey, Glass of Virginia, Hawes of Missouri, Hayden of Arizona, Heff of Alabama, King of Utah, Mayfield of Texas, Neely of West Virginia, Overman of North Carolina, Reel of Missouri, Steuck of Iowa, Thomas of Oklahoma, Tydings of Maryland, Wagner of New York and Walsh of Montana, all Democrats, and Greene of Vermont and Robinson of Indiana, Republicans.

BOND VOTE IS CALLED

was the smallest sum possible for which the new airport could be built.

Kershaw Asks Delay
The contest discussion was started with a motion by P. M. Kershaw that that body not act on the matter at this time, and take it under further advisement. During the discussion that followed it was asserted by Kershaw and the other city officials that they were not opposed to the new proposed airport bond issue, especially if it did not interfere with the contemplated bond issue for what they said was absolutely necessary to put the street paving of the city in good condition for repairs, etc.

E. W. Janney declared that the people would not vote two bond issues. It will be remembered that some months ago the people voted down a $100,000 bond issue for street repairs and the like, and the city officials point out that as a matter of economy this bond issue must be resubmitted and passed, as the city can apparently raise funds in no other way to save its immense investment in pavement laid years ago.

Other councilmen agreed with Mr. Janney's statement that the people would not vote two bond issues. Mr. Kershaw, in his motion for delay at this time in calling the airport bond election, while stating that he was not opposed to such, if it was absolutely necessary, said that he as well as the other members of the council some months ago, when they voted $25,000 or $27,000 for a new airport, did so with the understanding that a special airport bond election could be avoided by the city council by spending the expenditures over on other programs and thus avoid conflict with a bond issue for street pavement repairs and the like.

Now this program had gone west, he said, and the city administration was confronted with the contention that the full amount of the airport money must be raised at once with a $120,000 bond issue and not be provided for in a four years' program of a part each year, as the city council was able to raise the money.

Believed Necessary
Councilmen Janney and Hammond and City Attorney Garkin also said that that was their understanding when the council voted the money for the first year's expenditure months ago but that they regarded a new airport to be provided by a bond issue, as requested by the Chamber of Commerce airport commission, as now necessary.

Mayor A. W. Pipes explained that the city council finance committee had had several conferences with the Chamber of Commerce airport commission reaching the lowest possible amount to be named in the bond issue, and that while it was very important and he felt that the city administration should not jump hastily in a matter involving an expenditure of $100,000 or more, he felt that the question of calling a special airport bond election for $120,000 "ought to be disposed of tonight." The chamber's committee had assured that the sum could not be less than $120,000, and that the bond issue must be voted not later than 10 o'clock this evening, according to the terms of the ordinance relating to the airport, therefore Mayor Pipes thought there should be no further delay.

Hammond Motion
After Mr. Janney had stated that all the council had to do would be to set the date for the proposition to be submitted to the voters, R. B. Hammond moved that the bond issue be referred to the Chamber of Commerce aviation committee, be put up to the people. The motion prevailed unanimously.

P. C. Dillard, in his talk, said that $120,000 was the least possible sum that would provide for a satisfactory airport, and that this sum would buy the necessary land, provide for the construction of buildings and all necessary equipment.

Seeley Hall, in his talk on the probable income to be derived from the proposed new airport, said that the first year the income would be $3900 and that income would grow annually. The operating expenses for the first year would be about $2000, he said, which would leave $2000 to be applied on payment of bond interest. The income revenue would come from transient and other planes stopping at the airport, hangar rents, rentals paid by gas and oil companies, mercantile shops and restaurants within the airport, and gas like.

In 1926 the Medford fire department was awarded first place in Oregon for having the lowest fire loss and in 1928, the fire loss was the lowest in the history of the city, being less than $13,000 or about one dollar per capita. Chief Elliott has made possible a fire department composed of trained firemen, with whom he holds drills regularly to maintain the high efficiency of the department. He has also organized a volunteer department composed of 24 members, and drills with its members to assure good service when needed most in time of a possible conflagration.

The secretary of state's office claims the company is paying gasoline taxes, but the committee is inclined to the opinion that the situation is one in which the actual amount of gasoline used by the Southern Pacific stages cannot be checked.

To meet the situation J. M. Devers, attorney for the state highway commission, is preparing an amendment to the gasoline tax act, whereby the tax would be on the use, as well as the sale of gasoline.

FERDINAND FOCH CONDITION GRAVE SUMMON BROTHER

PARIS, Jan. 16.—(AP)—A priest arrived at Marshal Foch's home this afternoon and stayed for twenty minutes. He gave no indication of his mission when he left.

PARIS, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The condition of Marshal Ferdinand Foch continued grave today. During the morning he suffered a slight weakness, but at the present stage of his illness this was stated not to be necessarily alarming.

Dr. Davenieres, the marshal's army physician, called at intervals of every two hours and at noon Dr. Henri-Royer made a brief call. Both physicians will visit the patient again late this afternoon and there will be a general consultation early this evening.

The war time generalissimo is battling for his life, there being intermittent weakness of the heart and then reactions during which he is somewhat stronger. The fact that his brother, the Rev. Father Foch, has been summoned to Paris from Montpellier is interpreted as indicating that the doctor's feel the marshal's condition is most serious.

Little Yvette Fournier, the marshal's grand daughter, came to luncheon at 12-30 today and sat at the table with her grandfather and mother.

"Where is grandpapa? Why doesn't he eat? I want to see him," she said. But this latter plea had to be denied.

Dr. Davenieres said his patient was taking nourishment regularly and willingly but that his diet necessarily was a very light one.

CHIEF JENKINS TO INVESTIGATE GIRL'S VICE RING STORY

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Following accusations of a 21-year-old girl who said she saw uniformed policemen take money from keepers of second-rate hotels and rooming houses, working together in a system of organized vice, Chief of Police Jenkins today ordered all patrolmen whose beats included addresses of the houses involved to report to him immediately.

"I am trying to get to the bottom of this," the chief said. "If it possible I will have the girl here to see if she can identify any of the men that she saw take the money."

Names of 15 or 20 establishments involved have been furnished the city council. The owners have been cited to appear before that body and to show cause why their licenses should not be revoked.

The district attorney's office here, after hearing the girl's story, turned transcripts of her statements over to the police and to the city attorney.

The girl told a story of an alleged widespread system of commercial vice in the city involving from six to ten girls in each of the 15 or 20 rooming houses and hotels.
