A springlike sign was seen in Medford this forenoon when a tourist family of three took on a supply of gasoline at a sixth street service station for an old model Ford, liberally laden with camping equipment and household goods. A registration size bedspring held the place of honor on top of the car, with a number of large packs on the springs. Several sacks and tin cans were tied on a rear carrier and several packs were tied on the running board. A youth was driving and was accompanied by an elderly father and mother. They left Los Angeles about three weeks ago and plan to go to Eugene to spend an indefinite time.

"THE HOME OF BREAD LIKE MOTHER MADE"

The After School Lunch

The after school lunch is now accepted as a necessity by all dieticians. With the after fatigue from the strain of study nothing so restores the vitality of the child and no lunch is so nourishing as good bread and butter and the best bread in the world was the kind mother made.

That's the kind you get here. We bake exactly as mother baked leaving out the alum-bearing substitutes that have crept into commercial baking which fact accounts for that different flavor—for that deliciously flavored crust that makes you reach for more.

When you give the children the after school sandwiches be sure the bread is the kind you would bake for them.
