CHANEY SPEAKER BEFORE OFFICERS UPON RETIREMENT

A lengthy address on law enforcement delivered by former District Attorney Newton C. Chaney, retiring president of the Southern Oregon Law Enforcement association, at the periodical meeting of that association, held in Roseburg last evening, follows, in part: "Law enforcement being a business, and the result of law enforcement being the punishment of violators, has the law furnished proper and adequate machinery and men with which to produce proper results? Generally speaking, yes. However, there are many defects and with the defects in which the members of this convention are primarily interested, I will deal. "First, it is my humble judgment, born from a number of years of active experience as a public official, that the sheriffs and their deputies and the chiefs of police and their officers are inadequately compensated. When a public official receives a proper living salary and wage, financial temptation has no control in his life. He has something to look forward to, can keep his family and educate the children commensurate with his place in society. Many common laborers and unskilled mechanics earn more per day than the average deputy sheriff and policeman, and consequently they live better. Once a man enters this service there is very little chance of promotion. In addition, no adequate safety pension or retirement system should be created for his benefit and the benefit of his family. "The average police forces of our cities are undermanned, wholly unable to cope with crime. If the battle against the army of crime is to be won, then we must have an adequate force with which to meet and overcome the enemy. Certain minor changes can be made in the machinery with which criminals are prosecuted. I would take away from all governors the pardon power and place it in the hands of a pardon board to be appointed by the governor. I would abolish the right of parole now given to trial judges. I would prevent useless appeals from lower courts to higher courts. "A person may be arrested for violating the liquor laws, be tried in the municipal court before a judge and six jurors, convicted; appeal his case to the circuit court, be tried before a judge and 12 jurors, convicted; appeal to the supreme court, have the case reviewed by seven or nine other judges, and after all of that time be finally convicted and sent to jail. That happens every day in ordinary cases. "I favor the establishment of separate branches of courts. By that I mean there should be criminal courts and civil courts. "The American people must be awakened to the truth of things and made to realize that through religion, patriotism and education by the improvement of social conditions, will the morals of the people be raised and we will then become a nation of law observers and not a nation of law breakers."

Progressive Spirit, Unexcelled Weather Impresses Visitor

A. S. Mundell has been in Medford and southern Oregon for several days in the interests of the Premier Malt Products Co., manufacturers of the standard brand of "Blue Ribbon Malt Extract." This product is well known in Medford and is popular in Medford and the trading area surrounding, which is one of the largest of any city in the state. Mr. Mundell was certainly pleased with the progressive spirit in Medford, as well as the "unexcelled weather."

WORLD'S LARGEST LOUD SPEAKER

"The world's largest community loud speaker, valued at $15,000, and representing more than three years of experimental research work, has recently been perfected and installed on a Dodge Brothers truck by a Los Angeles concern," says Mr. Eakin, local Dodge dealer. The apparatus belongs to a firm of brake engineers and was built to publicize their own business. Just now the truck, a 1 1/2-ton model of the extensive line built and sold by Dodge Brothers division of Chrysler Motors, is being used by the Dodge dealer in Los Angeles to introduce the new Dodge Brothers six, now on display by the Eakin Motor company. The loud speaker operator on a new principle. It is possible to "step up" the volume until it is clearly audible four miles away, and there is no distortion of sound, even when the big horn is broadcast. The apparatus is so constructed that it is adaptable to the amplification of radio programs, to the playing of records in the control room or to making announcements over a microphone in the truck itself. The Dodge Brothers truck was selected, according to the owners, because of its economical operation and driving qualities. Classified advertising gets results.

MEDFORD INVAGES ASHLAND TONIGHT FOR CAGE BATTLE

A large number of Medford basketball fans will journey to Ashland this evening to see the first game of the Medford-Ashland series of four games. Ashland is not given much of a chance by the dope, as it has the weakest team in many a year, suffering an overwhelming defeat at the hands of the weak Klamath Falls team. They will put up the best struggle of the season in the hope of holding down the locals, and their cup of joy would overflow if they could win one game. Coach Callison expects to start his regular first string, which is: McDonald, center; Garnett and Morgan, guards, and Melvin and Bowerman, forwards. The second game of the series will be played at the armory here tomorrow night, starting at 9:15. Tickets for this contest will go on sale tomorrow noon at Crowson's. The final two games of the series will be played March 1 and 2, the first game in this city. There were three games of basketball played at the Armory last night. The first, between the Medford and Ashland Juniors, Bill Hildes was chosen, first on team forgoing ahead, then the other. There were two enthusiastic roster sections, which got plenty of excitement out of the game. The entire contest was in doubt till the final whistle when the Ashland Midgets nosed out the Medford Midgets by the close score of 9 to 8. In the second game the Junior H of Medford tangled with the Junior H of Ashland. Medford had two games already under their belt and Ashland had one of the four-game series, Medford winning the championship by 39 to 6. Medford soon took the lead and built it up steadily. Coach Henderson's squad shows continued improvement and he is building up some good material for future high school teams. In spite of the Juniors showed some exceptionally clever teamwork, good passing and shooting. However, some of the players exhibited flashes of ill temper, which was highly unbecoming and resulted in some fouls and warnings from Referee Young. The third game was between the Normal Guard team and the Ashland Normal, Medford winning 32 to 30. Both of these teams were handicapped by the absence of their centers, Iverson taking Wilson's place at center on the Normal team and Knips taking Jimmy Allen's place. At the opening of the half, Ashland opened up, held Medford to three points and ran their own up. The score stood 23 to 21 in Medford's favor. It was a close affair until the final whistle, when the game ended with Medford 22, Normal 20. Among the features of the game was the grin of "T-bone" Caldwell, the line-work of Bernie Hughes, who survived about a quarter and then went out on fouls, "Tooley" Williams' falls, and the number of collisions without apparent damage. Valentine Singler refereed.
