GOLD STAR MOTHERS INTERESTED IN BILL

The Gold Star mothers of Medford and the remainder of the valley who lost sons in the World war, are much interested in the so-called Gold Star mothers' bill, now pending in congress at Washington and which was favorably reported several days ago by the senate military affairs committee.

This bill, if it become a law, would authorize the secretary of war to conduct tours free to the battlefields and cemeteries of France for all widows and mothers of World war veterans buried abroad. The house has already passed a similar bill.

An animal shelter and full time humane officer, are the two objects which the Jackson County Humane society, now boasting a membership of 499 members, have in view, according to a recent report made by Mrs. Sidney Worth Richardson, secretary.

It has placed humane literature in all of the county schools, and attempted to educate the public in general to the work being accomplished by this organized program.

The investigation of cruelty cases and the securing of veterinary service for stray animals has been one of the pieces of work accomplished by this group.

ELECTROLUX NOW DISPLAYED HERE

Something new in refrigerators is creating much interest among the housewives of Medford. For the first time an Electrolux, gas refrigerator, is being displayed by local dealers, the Southern Oregon Gas corporation.

The most remarkable feature of the appliance is that it is capable of freezing heat. In fact, any form of controlled heat can be used to make ice. There is no refrigerant fluid which the housewife must forever be changing, and there is no motor or machinery to get out of order, according to K. I. Dazey, general manager of the Southern Oregon Gas corporation.

Although the gas generators may be secured in beautiful green shades, at present so popular for kitchen furniture, light grey or tan, the model in the local window is all white. Various sizes which are carried, include three, five, seven or 10 cubic foot cabinets.

This latest aid to better living can be easily and quickly installed in any kitchen and once installed it operates automatically. Electrolux is self-contained and can be placed wherever desired. All connections are out of sight. In fact, this refrigerator offers complete refrigeration at moderate cost, according to Mr. Dazey.

LEWIS ULRICH TO ENTER BUSINESS

Lewis Ulrich, former prominent grocer of Medford, will embark next week in the insurance and real estate business, the exact location of his quarters as yet undecided.

Having considered this line of activity for some time, Mr. Ulrich has just returned from a trip to Portland, where he was successful in making connections with prominent insurance firms, including the Prudential Life Insurance company, and others.

That his place of business will be located in either the Liberty building or the Medford building, was the announcement made by Mr. Ulrich this morning.

WOULD USE PEAR TO IDENTIFY AIR PORT IN MEDFORD

While no definite steps in regard to having the proposed new Medford airport decorated by some large significant symbol of the city, which would be illuminated at night, can be undertaken until after the airport bond election on April 2nd next, the matter has been quietly discussed among themselves by quite a number of the leaders of the air-minded in the city.

Therefore when W. F. Caldwell of Portland, ventured the suggestion recently to the chamber of commerce of that city that Swan island, the Portland landing field, be identified for the benefit of the aviators by a large rose symbol to be illuminated at night, and further that other cities in the state with airports could use their own particular trade marks for similar purposes, the idea was welcomed.

The talk of some such symbol at the Medford airport has only been in the talking stage, of course with a number of suggested symbols for adoption, but in this talk the majority of opinion favored a huge pear as most significant in identifying Medford day or night with the aviators and their passengers.

Obituary

KERR—Sarah C. Kerr, widow of the late William Kerr and a former resident of Jackson county, passed away at Oakland, Cal., February at the age of 82 years.

Mrs. Kerr was a woman of lovable character and a true friend to all who knew her. She leaves one son, Robert B. Kerr, who will accompany the remains to Medford, arriving Thursday evening. Funeral services will be conducted by Rev. E. P. Lawrence and will be held at the Conger chapel at 2 p. m. Friday. Interment will follow in Jacksonville cemetery.

ANDREWS.—The funeral services for George Andrews were held at the Perl funeral home, Tuesday at 2:30 p. m., Rev. Wm. B. Hamilton officiating. Mr. W. H. Gore, one of George Andrews' oldest and closest friends, spoke briefly and eloquently. He dwelt upon the great service Mr. Andrews and his family had rendered Medford artistically and particularly musically, during the years of their residence here. He recalled how the hearts of the people here had on so many occasions been warmed and thrilled by the singer whose lips were now mute. He dwelt upon the leadership of Mr. Andrews and his wife in the musical life and activities of the community, and he spoke also of the underlying depth of character and kindliness of the man and of the fact that his philosophy of life was founded upon the teachings and precepts of the Master.

George Maddox sang a beautiful solo, "If With All Your Hearts Ye Truly Seek Me," by Mendelssohn, accompanied by Mrs. H. E. Marsh. Mrs. Marsh also rendered Handel's "Largo" at the close of the service.

There was a large attendance of friends. The floral offerings were many and beautiful. The active pallbearers were John W. Wakefield, Carlton Janes, Arthur C. Burgess, Walter Mundy, Harold H. Corliss, Chas. C. Lemon; the honorary pallbearers were Wm. G. Knips, Edw. E. Gore, Jos. C. Brown, Porter J. Neff, Delroy Getchell, Allen Brackenreed. Interment was in Medford cemetery.

ECONOMY IS URGED ON CONSIDERATION TEN INDICTMENTS

The grand jury is scheduled to re-convene in the morning, at which time it will probably take up the matter of the re-submission of the recently dismissed ten indictments against former District Attorney Newton C. Chaney, for alleged mis-handling of the county prohibition funds. Thornton Wiley of Ashland is foreman of the inquisitorial body.

The court, in its instructions to the grand jury, before it started its deliberations, urged economy in its proceedings, and the same attitude is maintained by the district attorney's office.

This policy is directed against the hiring of noted and high-priced experts, which featured the first investigation and trial, resulting in the acquittal of Chaney, after short deliberation. Luke S. May of Seattle, Wash., a renowned criminologist, and Prof Heinrich of Berkeley, Calif., whose deductions formed an important cog in the Hugh DeAutremont trial were the opposing experts in the first trial, Prof. Heinrich for the defense, and Mr. May for the state. Their expert opinion on the witness stand was as far apart as the poles, or the opinion of ordinary laymen.

The case hinged on the handwriting on checks, issued to undercover workers.

The court is now in session in Josephine county, and will resume court work here tomorrow.

SUBMERGED RIVER LOT REMAINS ON TAX ROLL

Nearly a reminder of real estate conditions in Florida is a small piece of property at the Shady Cove summer park this side of Trail along the Crater Lake highway. The property, a small lot owned by M. C. McDonald, was formerly the site of a summer cabin but when the Rogue river was at its flood two years ago this month the cabin floated away and the lot became a part of the river bed.

Although still submerged, the lot is on the county assessment rolls like any other piece of property, with the exception that it is given no value. It will continue to stay on the rolls with the thought that possibly the river bed will again change, putting the property back on the tax rolls.

MADAME ALCOHOLIS IS SEER FOR LION LUNCH

Madame Alcoholis, pretty, petite and winsome, gave the Lions club considerable "low down" on their pasts and futures at today's luncheon at Hotel Medford.

Messages came readily over the crystal, and opened the eyes of startled members of the organization to secrets heretofore locked in the hearts of certain fellow Lions.

It is said that Madame Alcoholis is bound for the Orient, where she will take up further study of magic, and will return next year to disclose even greater secrets on local residents. The madame's services were secured through the untiring efforts of Lion Jacobs.
