Beauty Hints by a Fanchon & Marco Artist

Second, simply touch the knees with your head and extend the flip flop the other way on hands, arms to a horizontal position be- hind.

Third, for the waist, hips and thighs, from position number two, raising the left leg.

Fourth, for the shoulders, torso and many other muscles, bend backward, holding the ankle with the hand.

Fifth, this exercise as a guarantee that the perfect 36 will remain perfect; also will quickly reduce the 38 and 42 girth measurement.

Sixth, slowly bend forward, raising one leg straight into the air, and alternate the position, standing upright between bends.

Seventh, "I'm sure you will find these little exercises of great aid to the figure," says Miss Mooney.

Adolphe Menjou at Hunt's Craterian

Rod La Rocque's new picture, "Captain Swagger," which comes to the Rialto theater today, is in every way a good show with its exciting plot, interesting characters and sumptuous backgrounds. Rod La Rocque as the Escadrille Ulrich Haupt as the German aviator, and Sue Carol as the waif of

Adolphe Menjou in

New York night life, entertain in every sequence in which they appear, and the star, Mr. La Rocque, particularly shines in the character of a lovable it braggart "High Society" wastrel, an ex-ace who finally wins out in the cabaret haunts where he has been the prodigal of the decade during the post-war years.

The opening war sequence is extremely effective. Rod's success as a cabaret performer later in the story not less so, and the restaurant holdup and subsequent pursuit are thrilling.

Rod LaRocque at the Rialto Today

Rich comedy fare is provided for those who patronize Hunt's Craterian theater today. Adolphe Menjou's new laughing comedy, "Marquis Preferred," is the best this star has made in many months.

The story is one of those smart, laughable mix-ups which Adolphe Menjou does so well. It concerns a bankrupt French nobleman who, at the instigation of his tailor, his valet and his chef, incorporates for the purpose of effecting a money marriage. While his three partners are looking for a girl with a dowry, Menjou is falling in love with a penniless young governess.

Chester Conklin, Dot Farley and the attractive Nora Lane are included in the supporting cast.

On the stage Fanchon and Marco's Flip Flops, will without question prove to be one of the best liked stage presentations of the past month.

Coming Attractions

At the Rialto

The lure of the mysterious—the fascination of the unknown—and the love of the world to solve crime problems—all of these partly explain the unprecedented popularity attending the mystery picture "The Last Warning," coming to the Rialto Monday, with Laura La Plante as the lead.

All the ingredients of mystery have been jammed into the photoplay. Mystery and terror which bring forth screams from the audience and laughter—not the laughter that a farce comedy produces—but the almost hysterical laughter of highly keyed nerves stimulated by relief from a fearful situation.

At Hunt's Craterian

"The Little Wildcat," the latest Vitaphone picture, comes to Hunt's Craterian tomorrow. The all-star cast includes Audrey Ferris, James Murray, Robert Edeson, George Fawcett, Hallam Cooley and Doris Dawson.

Vitaphone adds to the merriment of the whimsical comedy of youth and age, by a symphonic accompaniment.

The story is that of the good-natured battle between a peppery southern judge—and his two pretty but altogether unmanageable granddaughters. The judge abominates progress, especially aviation. Imagine his tantrums when a youth arrives with a breezy determination to establish an airport within earshot of the old plantation, and his further irritation when the two girls start a free-for-all in their eagerness to capture the birdman!

Millinery at Mann's Attracts Attention

The Poke bonnet of 1929 may but there's no question about the beauty of the ones Mann's millinery has on display. In the first place they are made of linen-like straw and basket weave effects in pale beige, black, blue, yellow, green and natural color. Many of these will be seen at the fashion show Tuesday night. Yellow is so much in demand in the south that only a limited amount could be secured by local merchants. Sisoi, Bankok, Ballibuntl, Baku and Pasadena Panymar are a few of the important straws. Later in the season floppy brims and much white will characterize feminine millinery, according to the fashion forecast.

KIWANIS CLUB ACTIVE IN LOCAL CIVIC-SOCIAL WORK

Stressing the importance of active interest in civic and social work, Jack Thompson, president of the Kiwanis club emphasizes that Kiwanians in past years have engaged in many endeavors which have brought excellent results but too soon forgotten.

"Too often as one year passes on to another we fail to understand the cumulative value of our organization's contributions," declared Mr. Thompson. "Under-privileged child assistance, clinics, camps, the boy scouts, vocational and educational aid, business and industry development, and others—all these have secured, since the organization of our club in 1925, the kind of results this community wants."

"In the future our club will strive to continue its good work, not equal that of the eighties as to volume in crown or real elegance. Linked up with the 1762 other Kiwanis clubs with 102,000 members-hip in the United States and Canada, we helped to accomplish over 40,000 individual social and civic activities in the last year.

"I believe with the international president of our organization, O. S. Cummings, of Kansas City, that there is today no more potent organization in civic leadership and service than Kiwanis. We plan to continue all our activities in Medford. The board of directors of the club has asked for an increase in membership this year."

The club is expecting a visit soon from either the governor or a lieutenant governor of the organization in this district.

ALL BULGARIANS WORK FOR STATE MINUS PAY

SOFIA (AP)—The Bulgarian government ordered all male citizens between 20 and 49 years of age to serve without pay eight months of "compulsory labor" each year. All women between 26 to 30 must serve four months each year.

Under this law the state is building roads, bridges and railroad lines. The law's expressed object is to keep the Balkan nation in physical trim and to develop the country to the utmost.

If the "compulsory labor" quota were paid by the state the Bulgarian exchequer would be $5,000,000 poorer.

SOUVENIR PIRATES RUN WILD AT FONTAINEBLEAU

FONTAINEBLEAU, France (AP)—Souvenir hunters are carrying away piece-meal some of the art treasures of the Palace of Fontainebleau. Some say this is due to lack of funds for their surveillance.

There are 2,000 rooms in the palace, but so meager are the credits voted by the parliament that only 12 attendants can be maintained, and visitors can not be properly watched.

HAREM CUSTOMS BRING ARGENTINE PROTESTS

BEYROUTH, Syria (AP)—To protest against the attitude adopted by Syrian Moslems toward Argentine women, the Argentine government has closed its consulate in Beyrouth.

The consul stated that Argentine women of the Christian faith marrying Syrian Moslems abroad and later accompanying their husbands to Syria suffer considerable hardships. On arrival in Syria they are confined in "harems," as is customary with native women, and forced in every way to conform to the Moslem mode of life.

For 29 years David Stitsel has kept the homes of Brunersburg, Ohio clean. Stitsel is now 71 but still makes brooms to order, raising the straw and performing all the labor.

BIG CONVENTION OAKLAND-PONTIAC

In line with the increased production and sales program for 1929 announced recently by the Oakland Motor Car company, a convention of two weeks' duration for traveling field representatives of the company was recently held at the factory. Of a hundred general travelers who attended, fifty are new men who will augment the present force in the selling campaign that promises to make 1929 the greatest year in Oakland-Pontiac history. Every one of the 25 Oakland district offices in the United States has one or more of its traveling representatives at the convention.

W. H. Loudon of the factory sales department, who had charge of the convention stated the object was to give every traveler a close insight into factory methods and operations. Executive heads of every major department of the home office addressed the travelers on the functions and workings of their offices, while A. R. Glancy president and general manager, also talked to the men.

Trips were made thru the Oakland-Pontiac plant, one of the most modern in the world, the Fisher body plant at Pontiac and the General Motors proving ground. A series of service schools were conducted by R. A. Armstrong, service manager. Three special service instructors are scheduled to hold approximately a hundred schools in as many different points throughout the United States during the next ten weeks. Service managers and service repair men of the 5000 Oakland-Pontiac establishments will hear the factory experts explain everything of a mechanical nature pertaining to the new Oakland All-American Six and the new Pontiac Big Six.

Farm Notes

A large, boneless piece of roast which is slightly underdone may be reheated in the place, by mashing enough potatoes to cover the meat with a layer of about one-fourth of an inch thick. Season the potato with salt, pepper, a little milk and butter or drippings, spread over the meat, brush with beaten egg and dredge with crumbs. Put in a baking dih in a hot oven, heat until nicely browned.

For insect pests that chew their food and devour foliage, stomach poison is used to get control, says the Oregon experiment station. Contact poisons are used effectively for the insects that suck their food through a beak. Gas fumigation is used against inaccessible insects, stored grain pests and others that cannot readily be reached by other treatments.

A farm manager, says the Oregon experiment station, needs all the knowledge available in order to plan intelligently his crop and livestock program for the future. Close watching of news items will help him to know what other farmers are planting.
