Never more so than during the recent spell of severe cold weather has the value of the various county and district sportsmen's organizations been demonstrated, according to Harold Clifford, state game warden. The long-drawn-out period during which the ground was covered with a blanket of snow in a large part of the state, brought a problem, that of feeding of birds. In a number of counties ducks and other migratory fowl would have perished in large numbers had it not been for the prompt action taken by local sportsmen through their various associations. Food was obtained by them and scattered where it would do the most good.

A Public Service Institution

A hospital is actually a public service institution, maintained for the benefit of the people.

To the person who requires rest or medical attention, a hospital offers a quiet, comfortable place to stay—clean, airy rooms, the very best of scientifically prepared foods and the constant attention of capable, graduate nurses.

All of this service is offered at a surprisingly moderate cost. Consider that it costs no more than the charges at a first class hotel.
