MEDFORD VICTOR IN ROUGH GAME BY 22-12 SCORE

Medford won its fourth game from Ashland, at Ashland, last night by a score of 22 to 12. The game, like the one Friday night, was featured by rough-and-tumble tactics on both sides. After about the first minute of play the game got entirely away from the referee. He appeared to be unable to hold the players at all. The result was that Callison, in an attempt to stop roughness at the beginning of the second quarter, took out Bowerman and sent Thomas in apparently with instructions to the team to stall. Medford then went into a stall and kept it up until the half. Score 10 to 3 for Medford.

Apparently some understanding was had during the half and Medford opened with her regular game. In a few minutes the game again got away from the referee and it became a hectic battle.

Callison threw in his second strike for the last quarter and the roughness continued. Score at end of game, 24 to 12.

CALIFORNIA WINS FROM WASHINGTON COAST CHAMPIONS

SEATTLE, Mar. 2.—(AP)—After the fight of their lives the Golden Bears of the University of California captured the basketball championship of the Pacific coast conference here tonight when they defeated the Huskies of the University of Washington by the close score of 30 to 27.

The coast title went to the Bears by winning two consecutive games, eliminating the third game of the series.

NEXT BOXING BILL PROMISES ACTION

What is expected to be one of the best all-around boxing smelters ever attempted in southern Oregon will be held at the armory one week from tomorrow night under the auspices of the local American Legion post, with sailor Jack Wood as matchmaker for the bouts. No expense has been spared to bring some of the best fighting boys in the state to Medford and in view of that fact, one of the largest crowds in local ring history is expected. Women will be admitted free to the match, according to present plans.

Frankie Warncke of Portland, known throughout the northwest as one of the best 150-pound leather pushers lately developed, will fight the ten-round main event with Terry Kileen of Eugene at 152 pounds. Kileen, a fighting Irishman, has a long string of knockouts to his credit and is expected to give Warncke a surprise or two. The evening's semi-main event is expected to have as much action as the main event and will have Lacey Morrison, 132, matched against Frankie Monroe, 132, who put up a good fight against Pat Patterson at the last night's smelter. Morrison is from Portland, while Monroe comes from Hood River. They will tangle gloves for six rounds.

In the second preliminary of the program fans will have the opportunity of seeing promising young Mickey Riley in action against the Marble Kid for four rounds. Both boys weigh 135 pounds and it will be their second fight in Medford, having fought at the Elks smoker. This fight ended in a draw.

The smoker will be opened with a four-round preliminary between Tex Porter, wrestler-fighter, 149 pounds, and Lloyd Russell, 145, a dark horse fighter who hails from the Central Point section.

There will be no additional charge for reserved seats and any seat in the house will go for one dollar.

RIFLE CLUB WILL PRACTICE TODAY

Officers of the Medford National Rifle club announced yesterday that outdoor practice with military rifles would be indulged in by a number of the members on Sunday morning. It is planned to start for the range at 9:00 a. m.

The work this week will be in charge of Carl Fichtner, vice-president of the club. It is expected to begin practice in preparation for the qualification courses on this occasion. This outdoor practice also will again be planned as a means of preparation for the outdoor qualification work.

Indoor practice with rifles will continue to be held on Wednesday evenings at the armory for regular club members and guests who are interested in becoming members.

Plato practice will be held on the indoor range on Thursday evenings, starting at 7:30. For the present, it is expected that Boy Scout merit badge qualifications will also be made on Thursdays, but it will be necessary that scouts make appointments for that in advance. The Thursday work will be in charge of Lieutenant Frank Lumbly of the National Guard company, and of Le. W. Dick, of the National Rifle association.

An Appreciation of George Andrews

Ten years is a long period to be ill at one's country home, separated for much of that time from active participation in the life of the community. In a commercial age, an industrial age, an age when the value of an idea is weighed with reference to the reaction of the community, the service rendered the cause of music and general culture by our beloved friend and neighbor, George Andrews, is outstanding.

Born at Lake Washington, Minnesota in 1879, Mr. Andrews was one of a family of ten children, all of whom possessed musical talent of a high order. Educated in the public schools, at the University at Ann Arbor, Michigan and under the best private teachers in America, he was for many years the head of the nationally known Andrews Opera Co. and toured the United States appearing in practically every state in the Union. While directing his own company he had many invitations to leave the road and join the great metropolitan organizations. Since coming to the Medford valley in 1910, Mr. Andrews was very closely identified with the musical and cultural life of the community as well as with his business and horticultural interests. He and his wife opened studios in Medford for teaching the art of singing and associated with them were those also interested in that line of work and it was from these studios that his greatest influence emanated. No sincere young musician ever left his presence without a word of encouragement and inspiration. His rooms here in the Sparta building in the St. Mark's building were a gathering place for friends and pupils where, took place open discussion of books, literature, philosophy, economics and current events as well as music. Here daily were gathered leaders of thought while visitors were often dropping in for a word of greeting and to say they had heard him in such a year in Texas, Florida or Montana singing the "Toreadors," "Mother O' Mine," "Nearer My God to Thee."

Promptness in keeping all appointments, important or trivial, was to him one of the greatest virtues.

The Medford Choral society, successfully conducted for many years, was indeed a labor of love and all who wished to sing were welcome to participate in the study of the greatest choral music. No less important was his musical activity in various churches, where no music except the best was ever heard under his baton.

Because of climatic and other attractive conditions, many musicians, former associates, were located in the valley and by having an easily assembled local chorus of 50 or 100 voices it was possible to put on many light operas and to stage out-of-door pageants. He could go out on our beautiful, encircling foot-hill orchards and pick up "Martha," "Arlene," "Devil's Hoop" or "Escamillo" and by the time the chorus was ready and the details of staging and costuming were attended to an opera of professional merit could be presented. College men of pronounced versatility were available for an elaborate extravaganza. Talent came to him like steel filings to a magnet.

Associated with him were the Burgess family, father, son and grandson—the Hazclriggs, the Browns, Frank Walters, his brother Ed, Andrews, all local residents at that time also Henri Gunson and Salvatore Giordano. standing the entire opera such as "Rigoletto," "Lucia" could not be given, then he used the "Quartette," the "Sextette" and the solos or possibly one act.

Among the many musical attractions he brought to the valley were the United States Marine band, Paderewski, Gull Guroc, the Danzoch operetta, and when Geo. Hunt brought the Minneapolis Symphony and Fletcher Fish brot Nordica, Gasky and Schumann-Teinik he gave his interest and support as a community service.

None but those most intimately associated with George Andrews, know his love for children, home, family-life; his appreciation of great literature, his patience under pain and disappointment and his ability to be a friend. The pure is turned over but book is not closed.
