Haley Fiske, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, died suddenly Sunday, aged 77.

His death is a loss to the world of insurance and to American business generally. Mr. Fiske had developed his great company, with amazing success. Shortly before his death his energies had been concentrated upon works of public utility, including the financing of the cathedral of St. John the Divine, and especially on providing dwellings at reasonable rentals for families of moderate means.

His own employees had first call on the Metropolitan Life apartments, high grade at low cost. Then came teachers, firemen, policemen. There were thousands on the waiting list.

Mr. Fiske did not merely indulge in philanthropic impulse. With his associate, Frederick Ecker, vice-president of the Metropolitan company, he provided that apartments at moderate rentals, wisely planned, could pay a fair return on the investment of insurance monies. Thus he promoted such building on a large scale.

An important public service rendered by the Metropolitan Life, under Mr. Fiske's direction, was a persistent advertising campaign giving valuable information on health and the prevention of disease. It would be difficult to exaggerate the value of this public service.

At Lakehurst a group of 40 Boy Scouts from Monmouth county organized the first Boy Scout contact with aviation. Commander Rosendahl, of the Los Angeles, arranged to start the scouts on the "air-minded" road.

Commander Star, of the Foreign War Veterans drills the boys, and they are proud of teacher, knowing that he has made more than 100 parachute jumps.

To recruit fliers of the future among Boy Scout organizations is a good idea. A million boys of today will be fliers 20 years hence.

One feature in our prosperity is the growth in United States exports. James A. Farrell, president of United States Steel, reminds you that this country is exporting products now at an annual rate exceeding by one billion dollars the exports of six years ago.

And this is done in spite of high ocean freights, and of foreign wages and living costs, far below ours.

Each state has something that calls for a foreign market. Pennsylvania supplies wire fencing to the fields of Argentina. New England sends shoes all over the world. Virginia sends tobacco to Venezuela. Ohio sends to Spain glass bottles in which Spain ships port and sherry to England. Illinois sends farm tractors to Brazil and Russia. The South sends cotton to Finland.

And it makes reasonable caution in increasing our tariff rates important. American labor and business must be protected, but unless we buy of others, they cannot buy of us.

SOLOMON SEND ENDEAVORS IN PEACE

35th Assembly Closed at 10 o'Clock Last Evening—Tax, Auto and Educational System Matters Handled During Session—Bond Election Vote Qualifications Approved.

SALEM, Ore., March 5.—(AP)—Governor Patterson has signed senate bill 154, drawn by the Jackson county delegation, which withdraws from appropriation the waters of the Rogue river below the junction of the north and south forks and prohibits the construction of dams or other obstructions in the main channel of the stream. It is a fish preservation measure.

SALEM, Ore., March 5.—(AP)—The 35th legislative assembly is now history. Written into the records and filed away in the archives. In a closing remarkable for harmony and deliberation the clocks in the two houses stopped at 10 o'clock Monday evening. Since adjournment came in the senate at 10:05 and in the house at 10:10. There was a conspicuous absence all through Monday of the confusion usually attendant upon the final days of a session.

While the senate ground away on bill after bill in an endeavor to catch up with its calendar and clear its decks, the house very deliberately got about to throw out a few matters that had not previously been settled to the satisfaction of all. Chief among the disputed actions of the house up for reconsideration was that by which the income tax bill had been enacted without provision for submitting it to the people.

The lawmakers brought to a close a 56-day session which wrote onto the statute books such important enactments as these:

Consolidation of the boards of regents and control of the state institutions of higher learning to the hands of a state board of higher education of nine members, directed to conduct an exhaustive survey of the present educational system during the coming two years and then proceed with a complete reorganization to eliminate duplications of work and expense.

Reduction of automobile license fees an average of 25 per cent, through the addition of a one-cent tax on gasoline.

Construction of a complete state tax program involving creation of a paid tax commission of three members, providing for an equalization of assessments calculated to add $200,000,000 to the state tax rolls, levying 5 per cent taxes upon banks and other corporations, and the earnings of stock, bonds and other securities. The latter two measures are expected to increase the state's revenues by approximately $125,000,000 a year and wipe out the state deficit during the current biennium.

Enacted a personal income tax measure, which comes outside of the recommendations of the property tax relief commission, and is already threatened with the referendum which would make it inoperative before November, 1930, even if it is finally approved by the people.

Further recommendations of the tax relief commission enacted into law, subject to the approval of the governor, limit the bonded indebtedness of municipalities and other taxing units and provide for uniform budgeting and accounting system throughout the state and its subdivisions.

Two other measures passed and approved by Governor Patterson impose upon persons voting at special tax or bond elections the necessity of owning real or personal property subject to taxation.

STUDENT RIOTS CHANEY CHARGE HOME FOLKS OF HALTED BY GAS IS DEAD ISSUE NORTHAMPTON AT ANN ARBOR IN GRAND JURY GREET CALVIN

Four Thousand Basketball Celebrants Storm Theater—Police Use Tear Bombs—'Prexy' Uses Tongue Lash—Six Arrested.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Mar. 5.—(AP)—Four thousand students celebrated Michigan's basketball victory over Wisconsin last night, 27 to 22, by attempting to storm their way into the Michigan theater.

Police tear bombs repelled three attacks, but it was the appearance at the theater of Dr. Clarence Cook Little, university president, that finally dispersed the crowd. Six students were arrested but only one was being held by police today.

The students, smoke-dancing through the streets in a riotous frenzy because their team had just assumed Michigan a tie for the Big Ten championship, rushed the doors of the theater, demanding free admittance.

The theater manager called upon stage hands and ushers to repel the rush which followed his refusal of the student demand, and then called police, who brought tear bombs. Three times the blinding, choking gas pellets rained the mob, which gradually decreased in numbers to about 500.

Six ornamental doors and a large window were broken and a giant electric sign was damaged when its supporting cables were cut. Bottles, eggs, stones and vegetables were thrown by the students.

Dr. Little, summoned from a formal dinner at his home, spoke briefly but energetically to the crowd, and within a few minutes the attack was ended.

The six arrested, all but one identifying themselves as students in the engineering college, were Henry H. Chute, LeRoy S. D., LeRoy W. H., Scottville, N. Y.; John Kelsey, Westville, N. Y.; George L. Morse, Lake Odessa, Mich.; Bernard McCain and Royal B. Herst. The latter two identified themselves as engineering students, but their names are not on file in the office of the dean of students.

Cute is being held as the leader of the uprising.

The Michigan theater was giving a free show for students in Hill auditorium, University hall, when the crowd stormed the theater.

Inquisitorial Body Has No Objection to Dismissal of Indictments—County Jail and Poor Farm Reported As O. K.

In its report filed late yesterday afternoon, the grand jury, which was in session for several days investigating indictments, returned last year against Newton C. Chaney, ex-district attorney, and dismissed a short time ago on a motion of the state attorney general's office, took no action on the dismissed indictments and the matter, which was such source of county-wide interest last year, is now definitely at rest.

When the dismissal was ordered last month it was provided the matter would have to be reconsidered by the grand jury before the dismissal could be regarded official.

In other parts of its report, the jury found the county jail in good condition and found the county poor farm to be managed in a business-like manner. A new roof was recommended for the main building of the poor farm, with fire-proof material suggested for the roofing.

In its investigation of the county prohibition fund from February 1928, to January, 1929, the jury reported it was managed in an efficient manner.

The report was signed by Don Lawrence, Verne Dollarhide, Stella Leavitt, T. S. Wiley, Harvey Olson, N. J. Rindt and Julius Koch.

Thirtieth President and Wife Return to Private Life—Noisy Welcome Avoided—Legion Band Plays 'Home Sweet Home'.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 5.—(AP)—Northampton gave a whole-hearted welcome to Calvin Coolidge, thirtieth president of the United States, and to Mrs. Coolidge on their return to private life today.

The celebration of their homecoming was a quiet one in keeping with the simplicity that has characterized the life of the former president, and in keeping with his expressed desire to avoid a noisy greeting because of the illness of Mrs. Coolidge.

The city's official welcome was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge at 8:30 a. m. when a reception committee, headed by Mayor Jesse A. C. Andrie, filed through the Coolidge's private car on which they had made the trip home from Washington, each member of the committee shook hands with the former president and his wife.

"How do you do, Mayor. Glad to see you," said Mr. Coolidge as he shook hands with Mayor Andrie. "We are happy to have you here," Mayor Andrie said. "In behalf of the people of Northampton, I welcome you."

"That is very nice of you, Mayor," said Mrs. Coolidge.

After receiving the greetings of the reception committee, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge stepped to the rear platform of their private car and received the applause of more than 2,000 citizens who had been standing in the rain for almost an hour awaiting their appearance.

Mr. Coolidge was wearing a silk hat and a black overcoat with a fur collar. His wife was becomingly dressed in tan. With her was her show dog, one of the White House pets which she brought from Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge smiled as they stood on the platform to receive the greetings of the crowd and to permit camera men to make pictures.

As they stepped to the station platform, the American Legion post band played "Home, Sweet Home."

TROOPS TO WAGE WAR ON REBELS

Federal Forces Move Against Rebellious Armies in Mexico—General Calles to Take Field—Revolt More Widespread Than Officially Admitted—Capital Is Quiet.

MONTEREY, Nuevo Leon, Mexico, March 5.—(AP)—General J. G. Escobar, commander-in-chief of the revolutionary movement in northern Mexico, issued the following statement to the Associated Press this morning:

"I am pleased to inform you that after ten hours of combat this city was taken by our troops who fought valiantly as never before."

"We took from the enemy 570 enlisted men, three generals and 78 officers. The enemy suffered considerable losses in killed."

"General Lurraga, commanding officer, was killed."

"We captured horses, saddles, 1,000 rifles, 12 machine guns and other war material."

"All prisoners' lives have been spared and they will be treated with all consideration."

(Signed) "General of Division, J. G. Escobar, commander in chief of the army."

MEXICO CITY, March 5.—(AP)—Federal troops moved to two far-flung fronts today to give battle to rebel armies which threatened the existing Mexican government.

Commanding the army of the north, whose objective is recapture of Sonora, a thousand miles to the northwest, was General Plutarco Elias Calles, secretary of war, and himself a native of the state.

The army of the south was placed in charge of General Andres Almazan; it is his task to dislodge the forces of General Jesus Maria Aguirre whose troops have captured the state of Vera Cruz and are now threatening an advance on Mexico City.

General Calles, as secretary of war, is commander-in-chief of both armies, but will take the field himself with forces sent to Sonora for the northern campaign leaving actual charge of southern operations to Almazan.

Meanwhile, in official government statements there were indications the rebel movement is more widespread than the administration has heretofore admitted. The state of Coahuila was definitely involved in the revolution with defection of its military chief, General Jose Gonzalo Escobar, noted in a statement of President Portes Gil. Oaxaca and Isthmian disturbances were noted in an official resume of military operations early today which said small bodies of troops were being sent to suppress the movement in Oaxaca.

Mexico City is quiet. The heavy troop movements through the city's streets draw crowds of onlookers, but there have been no disturbances.

NEW FIRST LADY TAKES UP DUTIES

Mrs. Hoover in White House Today—Many Members of Family Present for Inaugural Remain for Visit After Ceremony.

By MARTHA DALRYMPLE Associated Press Staff Writer WASHINGTON, March 5.—(AP)—A new mistress reigned in the White House today—one who woke from a yesterday of public official duties to a day filled with the private problems of a housewife.

For Mrs. Hoover, the first lady of the land, is still the head of an important family, and the responsible hostess to the sons, daughter-in-law, aunts, sisters and grandchildren who have come long distances to participate in the inaugural ceremonies. She must still the big white mansion on Pennsylvania avenue in order to make the few remaining days of their visit comfortable.

As she left the reviewing stand in front of the White House portico late yesterday, where she and the president had watched the two-hour inaugural parade, she stopped quietly from the public eye into such privacy as the nation's executive mansion afforded.

With their two sons, Herbert, Jr., and Allan, a student at Stanford university, their two grandchildren, Mrs. Hoover's sister, Mrs. J. H. Large, and other more distant relatives, the Hoovers arose today after a quiet evening alone.

Mrs. Hoover has no engagements for the next two or three days. She desires only to be able to be hostess to the family, most of whom will leave Washington before the end of the week.

The only state function now under consideration is a diplomatic reception, a time-honored custom for a newcomer in the White House within a week after his induction into office.

The Hoover home on S street, which has been leased to Senator Walcott, the new senator from Connecticut, has not been entirely dismantled and is still manned by the old staff of Hoover servants. Boris, the president's personal valet, who has been with him for many years, and Mrs. Hoover's personal maid, are the only members of the retinue who were taken to the White House.

The new first lady frankly looked upon the day as one of rest from the strenuous hours she spent at the side of her husband yesterday. From the time she left the S street house at 10 a. m. until departing from the reviewing stand seven hours later, except for a respite for lunch, she was a focal point for thousands of curious eyes. She took her part graciously and showed no weariness at the end of the day.

WOULD OUST MELLON FROM CABINET SEAT

WASHINGTON, March 5.—(AP)—The senate today ordered an investigation of the right of Andrew Mellon to continue as secretary of the treasury and of his right to hold office under the law forbidding the treasury to be interested in business.

Senator McKellar, Democrat, of Tennessee, proposed the resolution of investigation after President Hoover decided to keep Mr. Mellon and James J. Davis, secretary of labor, in his cabinet without re-nomination. The resolution was approved without a record vote.

With the declaration that "Every one knows Mr. Mellon is all right," Senator Reed, Republican, of Pennsylvania, intimate friend of the treasury head, gave his consent to the investigation asked by McKellar.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS SLAYING OF WOMAN IN MIAMI HOSTELRY

MIAMI, Fla., March 5.—(AP)—Mystery today surrounded the killing in a hotel here Sunday of Nora Wilson, 40, whose body was found with a bullet through her head.

The first theory advanced by police, which still was their strongest belief, was that the woman, a former housekeeper for Guy A. Loomis, wealthy New York winter visitor, had taken her own life. Officials, investigating the case, however, now have disclosed that the fatal wound bore no powder burns and some were inclined to believe she had died by a hand other than her own.

In the meantime, Loomis, who was being sued for $25,000 by Mrs. Wilson for alleged back salary for her services as housekeeper, disappeared on his private yacht, but later returned and reported to police that he had left to avoid publicity.

Mrs. Wilson left a series of notes in which she referred to "Guy," who was Loomis, to be Loomis, in one of the notes, she apparently wrote: "I am a woman, I am 40, I was born in New York at $60 a month, and I have a few doors away have a few millions could be."

Mr. Hoover hadn't been sworn in three minutes before he waded into a topic that Mr. Coolidge had never mentioned in six years. That was prohibition. And judges, senators and party leaders hadn't been to their homes or hotels three minutes till they waded into one old corn (pre-war), to kinder keep the chill off their after that rain. And over many a clinking glass the general comment was, "That was a fine speech of Hoover," and right to the point, too. Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

P. S.—Mr. Coolidge passed through here this evening, and I believe I know what that quiet grin was about.
