

ASHLAND MINE TO BE WORKED AGAIN IF SURVEY GOOD

ASHLAND, Ore., Mar. 8.—(Sp.) Ashland has received with interest the news that there is a possibility that the Ashland mine may be reopened after being closed for a good many years.

P. R. Wickham of Grants Pass, an experienced miner has taken on the old Ashland mine and the Shorty Hope holdings. The lease has been taken with an option to buy from E. D. Briggs, the present owner. Mr. Wickham expects to begin at once on a general survey and cleaning campaign and hopes at the end of 90 days to be able to announce just what course he will follow in the development plan.

The deal was made through Ed Staples, local real estate agent, who has been well acquainted with the history of the mine. He says that the Ashland mine has produced nearly a million dollars. Unfortunately, litigation and reported poor management have prevented working of the holdings for many years. The quartz mill was located on the site now occupied by the Ashland Foundry.

The chief problem in getting the mine into shape for operation is one of drainage, for the main shaft contains some 500 feet of water. Fire destroyed a fine new Essex roadster belonging to M. S. Centers recently.

Begin Your Lawn Early Lawn seed may be sown at this time right on top of the snow. The best seed is the cheapest in the end. A quart of the best quality lawn seed is sufficient for 1000 square feet. Good seed in good soil with care in watering means a thick vigorous sod and few weeds. Keep your lawn well watered and fed and the weeds will not have much chance to grow. If the soil is poor a dressing of humus, leaf mould or pulverized peat will be good for it. This may be put on in the spring season as soon as the ground is sufficiently dry to walk upon.

It will be some time before the air-burns become very popular with the young folks. Not enough parking places yet.

The cause of overweight

Not due to any one food alone

THERE has been so much discussion in this country about the cause of being overweight that we decided to go to one of the leading scientific authorities on diet. We requested him to state the facts for the benefit of the public.

"It is the fashion to blame sweets for everything," he said. "Overweight is not due to sweets alone."

"If the dietary habits of overweight individuals are scrutinized," he went on to say, "it will be found that sugar is the foodstuff gorged by some, starches by others, fats and oils by others, and meats by others."

"Strictly speaking," he said, "the average increase in overweight cannot be attributed to increase in intake of sugar or any other single foodstuff."

Note that he speaks of gorging. How intelligent it would be if everyone in the United States would refrain from gorging any one kind of food, and ate in moderation a great variety of all kinds of healthful foods.

It is clearly up to the women in the home to see that all adults and all children are furnished a variety of appetizing foods and to remember that sugar is the mainstay for making healthful foods delicious and appetizing.

One excellent way to prevent gorging is to feed your family a varied and well-balanced diet. Sugar develops the incomparable flavors of cereals, vegetables, fruits and many meats. It makes vegetables taste fresher and improves their color. Nothing can take the place of intelligent cookery. The best cooks are generous with sugar. The Sugar Institute.
