LEGION SHOW TO BE STAGED APR. 1 ANNOUNCEMENT

(Contributed)

April 1, 1929 will be a big day in this city and one long to be remembered for this is the date set for the "Legion Whoopie Revue" to be staged by Medford Post No. 14. The big show will take place at the Craterian Theatre which assures the proper atmosphere and background for a high class production of this character. Local Legionnaires announce that no pains will be spared to give the people of Medford and southern Oregon a real performance and rehearsal which are already well under way give promise of one of the best amateur productions ever staged here.

Medford Post No. 14 with over 700 members enrolled contains an array of theatrical talent which assures the unqualified success of any performance which might be undertaken. Comedians, soloists, stunt artists, chorus men, specialty dancers, musical and art directors are all to be found among the ex-service men. Many old favorites and a number of new entertainers of no mean ability will be included in the cast of characters.

This "Legion Revue" will be no ordinary minstrel show, but a unique production with a clever plot full of local interest and extraordinary scenic effects especially designed by Tom Swain.

Wilson Waite will officiate as musical director and has selected a number of tuneful songs, hits which are bound to meet with instant approval.

Earle Davis will act as stage director as well as taking one of the leading comedy parts. Other favorites of the Legion cast include Larry Mann, Lloyd Williamson, Herb Alford, Everett Braxton, Ted Baker, Paul McDonald, Jay Gore, Don Newberry, as well as many other fine faces which will be seen on the local stage for the first time.

Popular prices will prevail and although the ticket sale does not open until Monday, March 11, it is expected that many will reserve their tickets at once.

This will be a one-night performance and the S. R. O. sign will no doubt be hung out long before the curtain rises on the first big act.

Look for the New BRANDING...

Now you can be certain that the ham you buy is genuine Swift's Premium. In addition to the name branded on the rind, a new method of branding the name "Swift" in dots down the side of the ham makes identification of even the smallest purchase easy. This will identify the genuine to you when it is being sliced, after it is sliced and on display, and when it is delivered to your home.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK
By Herbert C. Plummer

WASHINGTON—Charlie Davies attempted to make the United States senate a more business-like body. Charlie Curtis will try to make this august assembly a more polite body of gentlemen.

Whether the latter will get the runaround as did the former remains to be seen. Curtis will not employ the two-fisted methods of "Hell and Maria." The Kansan does not relish being hazed as he has been a senator too long and knows his colleagues too well for any such tactics.

But the vice president-elect does hope to see an improvement in senate etiquette during his tenure. Judging from past actions, he will insist that clause 1 of rule XIX, is adhered to. This rule provides that when a senator speaks "he shall arise and address the presiding officer, and shall not proceed until he is recognized."

This rule is perhaps more often violated by senators than any other one in the manual. It is a favorite trick to pop questions at a colleague, while he is on his feet, without addressing the chair. When members get into a protracted interchange with a senator who has the floor, indeed, at times they seem to ignore the fact that the president exists. It is not an uncommon sight to see one or four senators gibbing a colleague at one time. At such times they also forget to use the required three person style.

LAUGHTER

The best tonic in the world is joyous laughter. To man, alone, has been granted this gift.

How we hate to meet the individual with the long face who seems to be turning his life to that doleful old hymn, "This world is not my home."

How one hearts thrill when we meet the cheery friend, whose lips are curved by the grace of laughter.

"Laugh and the world laugh with you." Laughter will cure most of the worries of life.

Is everything going wrong? Go to your looking glass and smile, then laugh. Your heart will begin to throb with joy and you will be able to tackle your problem with courage and cheer.

Laughter exercises the great muscles of the body.

It increases the lung capacity by one-half, drives out the stale air and allows the lungs to fill with pure, health-giving ozone.

It stimulates the heart; during laughter the heart responds to the powerful outburst by beating more vigorously and by sending more blood to each little cell in the body.

Laughter stimulates the action of stomach, liver, pancreas and intestines.

It increases appetite, aids digestion and prompts a feeling of general well-being.

Children laugh easily. Whole-some giggling goes with natural youth and health.

A great physician has said, "Those who laugh the most are the ones who live the longest and have the best health. Laughter has a real curative value. It is good to laugh during a meal. Laughter is the best tonic in the world."

The wise man who wrote the Proverbs said, "A merry heart doeth good as a medicine." Let us find again the gift of the merry, joyous laughter of our childhood days.

DUTCH BULBS

Flowers growing from bulbs, such as tulips, daffodils, hyacinths, narcissus and a few others not so well-known, are classed as Dutch bulbs.

They are grown in great abundance in Holland as well as in America. They are very easy to grow, and have in great profusion all winter if a little care is observed at first. Dutch bulbs may be grown out-of-doors or in the house. The last three named may be grown either in soil or in water. Tulips will live in pots of dirt in the house, but they are subject to plant lice when grown indoors and care must be taken to prevent them, by using tobacco powder, or some other powder to kill lice may be used.

When bulbs are planted outside, they should be planted rather deep in the soil and about two inches apart. The soil must be kept moist and care must be taken to prevent them, by using tobacco powder, or some other powder to kill lice may be used.
