DRAIN TEAM WINS SECONDARY HONOR

In the final game of the Southern Oregon Normal school basketball tournament last night at Ashland, Coos River was defeated by Drain by the score of 16 to 19, giving the latter high school the championship of the secondary district, including Lake, Jackson, Klamath, Josephine, Douglas, Coos and Curry counties. The consolation tournament was won by Powers by a good margin over Gold Hill. Awards were given the winning team immediately upon the close of the games before a large crowd of spectators.

MARKSMEN WILL PRACTICE TODAY

Members of the local rifle club and of the National Guard company will have the regular weekly outdoor practice at the rifle range east of the city this morning, starting soon after 7 o'clock. Firing will be over the qualification course with military rifles which are furnished by the club.

Ammunition will also be provided for club members, an annual issue being provided by the national organization for each member in good standing. However, members who desire to use their 30 calibre sporting rifles may do so but in such cases the club is unable to furnish free issue ammunition, unless the rifle happens to take the .30-06 (Springfield) cartridge. It is hoped to get an early start in order that the day's shooting may be ended promptly at noon.

Last Sunday one member attended the Expert Rifleman rating test. Five members made the Marksman grade, and it is expected that a number of additional qualifications will be added to the club records today.

fast break toward the basket by McDonald, who scored to make the count 13 to 5.

Melvin scored an Astoria called time out. The pace was fast and Medford's lead made them practically clinch for the first place. "Prink's" efforts were about to materialize in the highest honor of the state basketball field.

McDonald made a nice pass to Melvin, who broke fast and scored a brilliant basket. Medford was playing inspired ball. The Pear-dickers were getting three shots to one for the Finns.

Morgan fell as he jumped after the ball and his ankle was hurt. Astoria had not scored a point in this quarter.

Lowe made his third field goal of the game but Garnett missed. It was a runaway for the southern Oregon champion. Medford's defense was practically impregnable, and the Finns had to shoot from the center of the floor. Larson converted a long one as Melvin fouled him and the basket counted and one free shot. Bowerman immediately took the ball from the center to score. Yesterday fouled Melvin but the Medford man missed.

Score and third quarter: Medford 22, Astoria 8.

Hellberg took the ball from the tipoff and his shot went in and rolled out. Melvin, another all-state choice, in this afternoon's selection scored. His shot rolled around but went in just to show how the tide of ball may make the game go. Larson started one from the center of the floor and it went in. The Finns were still 14 points behind. Larson made another. Melvin was certainly hot. He scored one of the hardest shots on the floor when he converted from the center. He was displaying his real worth to any team in an effort to show that he deserved his position on the mythical five.

Bowerman went down the floor to score making the count, Medford 28, Astoria 12 as the Finns called time out. Their game last night was telling on them and Medford's close defense made it almost impossible to get in under the basket for a good shot. Bowerman took the ball off of the back board to score. Hellberg fouled Garnett as Anderson went in to replace Bowerman.

Garnett scored on the one free shot making the score Medford 31, Astoria 12. Melvin went down the floor to score and Garnett followed with a brilliant one. Coach Callison sent in his subs, putting in Thomas and Pierson for Melvin and McDonald. Garnett charged Hellberg but missed his chance. The Liberman had missed enough fouls to make the game close. Final score 35-14.

WALES WILL ACT FOR KING DURING COURT RECEPTION

LONDON (AP)—The anxious maneuvering for invitations to the spring court at Buckingham palace is expected to become a frantic stampede now that there is a serious possibility the Prince of Wales will act for the king.

The large gift cards bearing the engraved message, "The lord chamberlain is commanded to invite you to Buckingham palace," always have exercised a magnetic power over the debutantes of the world, but this will be the first time that his royal highness has been cast in so important a role.

Queen Mary's announcement that the courts would be held caused general rejoicing among the debutantes expecting presentation by their ambassadors. It was thought for a time that King George's illness and his possible absence from London would cause a postponement. Now the queen has declared the prince will assist her if the king is unable to be present.

The royal courts, which are held in Buckingham palace each year, are considered the most formal affairs of the British social world. Young women are presented by sponsors from the ranks of older women who have been presented in the past. Those from other countries are escorted by their ambassadors. Many more applications always are filed with the ambassador than can be accommodated, but an even larger number is expected this year. The ceremony itself is brief. The king and queen enter the throne room after their approach is heralded by a blast of trumpets. Near the throne chairs stand the officers of the household and members of the royal family. The debutante is announced at the door. She crosses the floor, makes a deep courtesy before the king and queen and retires to a smaller room. Her costume complies with court rules, embodying a trim, long gloves, feather fan and head dress.

What will happen under such circumstances remains to be seen. Young Gorch of Gold Hill and Tommy Ryan, Medford's wrestling tailor, are also prepared for their semi-windup number on the evening's program, as well as Duminy Powell, who is to meet a wrestler, whose identity has not been announced.

Check That Cold at the Start...

Severe colds often run into more dangerous illnesses—pneumonia—bronchitis. It is wise to consult a physician if your cold "hangs on."

A good rest is often necessary—and a good hospital is the logical place to take that rest—where graduate nurses attend you, foods are scientifically prepared according to your particular requirements and every step is taken for your comfort and speedy recovery.

—And remember! This service costs no more than the charges at a first class hotel!
