Blocking the Car Thieves

Spring awakens the impulse to possess an automobile. For the vast majority, the impulse finds an honorable expression or none at all. There is a minority, however, that does not care particularly whether the manner in which it gets a car is honorable or dishonorable.

ing devices installed. He locked them religiously every time he left the car until he finally lost the key to one. He continued, however, to use the other until one night he parked hastily in front of a store where he went to purchase cigarettes. When he returned in less than five minutes the car was gone.

Everyone wants a car in spring-time. The way to keep some individual from getting one that he is not entitled to is to make use of the locks on yours.
