The following poem was written by Mrs. Max Mark, a local resident, in honor of our pioneers, and submitted for our local items:

Our Pioneers.
They are leaving one by one,
These dear old pioneers;
And the race of life is run
For our dear old pioneers.

They are passing down the valley
Fought the battle many years,
Met with many bitter hardships,
These dear old pioneers.

How we love these soldiers brave
Our dear old pioneers,
In memory's hall we've nailed
Them fast,
These dear old pioneers.

As on the sands of time we mark
Foot prints of our pioneers,
We softly tread and thank our
God
For the dear old pioneers.

Let us do our best, dear ones,
As did they thro all these years
And we too shall hear well done
With our dear old pioneers.

Angels mark the resting place
Of our dear old pioneers,
May God take them home with him
These dear old pioneers.

And we'll meet them at the river
When God wipes away all tears,
Then face to face with clasped hand
We'll meet our pioneers.

Onward then and do not falter,
God will help you through your fears,
Ahl! Dear ones just trust your captain,
As did the dear old pioneers.

As did the dear old pioneers.

EAGLE POINT HAS EGG HUNT FROLIC FOR YOUNGSTERS

EAGLE POINT, Ore., April 3.—(Special.)—On Saturday afternoon the children and adults of the Sunday school enjoyed the end of the lenten season with their annual egg hunt party in the City park.

A rope was stretched around the trees as a guide to the youngsters and as a safety first device to keep the children from the creek. A very large number were present and prepared to take part in the merrymaking, and many were the glad shouts as the juveniles found the lovely colored eggs. There were eggs of every hue and in great abundance. Mrs. Davies and Mrs. Esch, who have charge of the kindergarten and juveniles, had charge of the games, while Mrs. Nick Young and others had the pleasure of hiding the eggs.

At a signal from the superintendent the sport started and the merry hunt continued until the eggs had been found. A pleasing feature of the afternoon was the refreshments. Besides various kinds of cakes, sandwiches and pickles, there was steaming hot coffee, made by Mrs. Campbell, who was assisted by Mrs. Morgan, while many other ladies helped in the distribution of the lunch. All reported a very enjoyable time and at 4 o'clock the children returned to their homes with their pockets full of eggs and feeling that this was a regular gala day.
