

PORT COMMITTEE LEAVES TO STUDY OAKLAND LAYOUT

The airport committee of the city council, consisting of E. M. Janney, chairman, Joseph O. Gray and E. M. Wilson, accompanied by City Superintendent Fred Scheffel, left by train this noon to visit the airport at Oakland, Cal., over the week end, for the purpose of studying that reported model port, how it is laid out and operated, what the concessions there pay, and in fact to study everything pertaining to that port. They may also visit the Mills flying field in San Francisco before returning.

The members of the committee feel the grave responsibility resting on them in spending the $120,000 bond issue, so overwhelmingly passed by the voters last Tuesday, and therefore plan to move very carefully in building the new airport, despite the need for comparative haste in order to have the new airport sufficiently developed by June 1st, when the night flying begins on the Pacific coast. Hence this trip of investigation to Oakland.

At present, according to City Attorney John H. Carlin, this noon, the committee does not want the bonds sold for six weeks yet, but Mr. Carlin is already at work preparing the legal steps necessary for the advertising of the bonds, etc., to have all in readiness whenever the committee gives the word to go ahead with the sale. The members of the committee may change their minds on their return from the Oakland trip the first of next week.

While no information could be gained on the subject, it is thought possible that the committee may do some preliminary work while away towards the engagement later of one of the foremost airport engineers to have charge of the laying out and building of the new airport.

HEAR ARGUMENTS IN LINTT'S TRIAL

Closing arguments were given in the circuit court trial of Maceo Lintt, charged with transportation of alleged moonshine, and the case was expected to be in the hands of the jury by early afternoon.

Lintt was arrested over a month ago by the sheriff's office near Gold Hill, following an alleged chase of four miles, during which distance officers say Lintt disposed of a quantity of liquor by throwing it along the highway. When he appeared in justice court some time ago, he was sentenced to five months in the county jail and the present trial is based on an appeal from that sentence, which also included a $500 fine.

Today's trial will be the last jury trial for ten days, Circuit Judge H. D. Norton announced this forenoon. Court will be held next week in Grants Pass, after which jury sessions will be resumed in Medford.

The jury chosen in the Lintt trial is as follows: Clarence Parrish, Earl Moore, Harry Moore, William Radcliff, Spornaux Morehouse, Arthur Edwards, Bert C. Roskel, A. L. Hill, E. J. Arant, A. G. Pracht and Adam Beagle.

SNOW HALTS SCOUT REFORESTATION PLAN

That the Crater Lake Council project of reforesting the city watershed, burned in 1922, which was to have begun today was called off on account of the heavy fall of snow at Big Butte springs, was an announcement made at noon by Scout Executive Wm. Leo Bricker, according to the local official, there was from four to six inches of snow at the watershed and indications pointed to an additional fall through the day.

More than 100 Medford Scouts signed up for the work at planting 45 trees in the district and were enthusiastic over the prospect of accomplishing the task today. The project has been postponed until April 13, according to Mr. Bricker.

FAIR CELEBRATION FOR CHILD HEALTH IS FORWARD STEP

(Contributed) With the fair board of Jackson county sponsoring the celebration of children who attain the health honor roll this year by giving them official recognition and school awards, a big step in health progress has been taken in southern Oregon. It is only fitting that several thousand children who have been striving all winter to have their physical defects corrected should be honored by the people of the county on children's day at the county fair.

Healthy children will be ranked as blue ribbon prize winners with as much acclaim as the healthy animals which have long been a feature of county fairs. Since the opening of school last fall doctors have been making free physical examinations in all the schools of the county that wished to avail themselves of this practical health education contest, and thus save many children with defects of eyes, ears, tonsils, lungs, hearts, etc., have become interested in having them corrected when otherwise it might not have been done until the condition became serious.

Of course some tragic conditions have been caught in time and very many well children were stimulated in their zeal to continue health rules.

This May there will not be a joint celebration like the spectacular parade on May 1 of last year because the increased popularity of the health honor roll among the rural school children warrants their having their own local celebrations. Mr. Hedrick and Mrs. Jones, the Medford school nurse, are planning a parade of the Medford honor roll children.

The buttons for the prize winners will be sent to each school before it closes and should be saved for the grand review or parade of schools at the fair, according to announcements made by the fair board and health association.

Tea was served by the committee in charge to the girls and their mothers. Copies of the Girls' League III Times were then given out to the students.
