

You've had him long enough - NOW I WANT HIM!

DINNER was almost over when the girl suddenly sprang to her feet, her dark eyes turned on her hostess in flaming defiance.

"I can't stand it any longer," she cried—"all this sneaking and lying and deception. Dan and I love each other. You've no right to stand between us. He's been your husband long enough. Now I want him!"

The older woman, deathly pale, speechless with shock, turned to her husband.

"She's right," he said. "There's no use trying to hide it any longer. But I want you to believe, Jean, that I love you, too. You are my wife—and I love you as a tried and true companion. But I love Marise—the other way. I fought against it—how I fought you will never know. But—it was too strong for me. That's all I can say."

So this was her reward for sacrificing the best years of her life to her home and family. First her son, then her daughter—eager for new sensations—were swept headlong to disaster by the modern tide of jazz. And now her husband yields to the siren lure of a love-mad young girl whose kisses must eventually prove as deadly as a viper's sting! What had she, his wife, to offer against the lure of soft, red lips, against the seductiveness, the passion of flaming youth? Nothing—except a lifetime of sacrifice and devotion. What should she do?

This woman's story is the most sensational real-life revelation ever published in True Story Magazine. Critics say that if her experience were published in novel form, it would be a country-wide best seller over night. Unquestionably, her amazing disclosures will create more discussion than any story printed in recent years. 'MA' ISSUED FOR BREACH OF PROMISE

Seattle Minister Asks Damages of $50,000 From Mother of Aimee McPherson — Promised to Marry Him and Build Tabernacle—Made Violent Love to Him, Is Claim

SEATTLE, April 9.—(AP)—Reversing the usual course of procedure in heart balm actions, the Rev. H. H. Clark, middle-aged Seattle minister, entered suit here yesterday against Mrs. Minnie E. Kennedy, mother of Aimee Semple McPherson, asking damages of $50,000 for alleged breach of promise to wed.

In the lengthy complaint filed by Rev. Clark he declares that Mrs. Kennedy secured his reluctant promise to marry her after an intensive courtship, conducted by her, and that she had promised in the event of their marriage to finance a tabernacle for him in Seattle and also to provide a gospel ship for missionary work in Alaska and along the Pacific coast. Her failure to do so, he said, had left him "heartbroken, humiliated, disturbed in peace of mind," and had prevented him from carrying on his religious and lecture work.

Mrs. Kennedy indignantly denied the charge made by Clark in Portland last night and declared the suit was a "case of biting the hand that feeds it." Although reluctant to comment on the case, her remarks were terse and vitriolic. Reference to "blackmailing" and "hypocrisy" crept into her reference to the action.

Aimee Aids Mother. Aimee Semple McPherson, the evangelist, sprang to the defense of her mother when informed of the suit in Sacramento. She declared that the reported charges against her mother were "to absurd to even consider," and said she would do anything she could to help her mother "if it is true the preposterous charges have been filed."

Rev. Clark said in his complaint that he first met Mrs. Kennedy in Seattle, December 14, 1928, and that the defendant had made herself out to him as Mary E. Clark. He said he did not become aware of her true name until later, when he saw her picture in a newspaper, on February 3. He said she abandoned him thereafter and that he did not see her again until February 18, when she informed him of her true name and said she would not marry him.

In outlining the purported romance, Clark said that after their first meeting, Mrs. Kennedy telephoned him a great many times and arranged to take him to luncheons, dinners and theaters. She Was Loving. After one of these luncheons, Clark said that Mrs. Kennedy told him she had rented an apartment in a Seattle hotel where they "could talk undisturbed," and invited him to come to the apartment, where she made "violent and passionate love" to him and requested him to marry her. They met at other times in Seattle, Clark said, and he finally agreed to marry her. He said that Mrs. Kennedy had frequently told him she was "lonely and alone" and had suggested that they go to places of enjoyment together. The wedding was to have taken place some time in 1929, he said, the date to be mutually agreed upon later.

Clark, who is widower, had written his son and daughters and sisters of his intention to marry, with Mrs. Kennedy's knowledge, he said. He had given up his employment in anticipation of the wedding, he said. Although a minister, his employment was not ministerial, his attorney explained, as he is now without a charge.

In addition to the $50,000 heart balm, Clark asked that he be allowed costs and disbursements and such other expenses as the court may deem reasonable and just.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson last night sent a 250-word telegram to Mrs. Kennedy in which she promised to "stand by" her mother in her present difficulty. "I am for you; I love you and will stand by you," she stated in the telegram.

The evangelist declared that the estrangement between herself and her mother would be forgotten for the time being while she went to the defense of her parent.

Power Filmed on Water Dam

Unlike many current film offerings, "Power," William Boyd's new star comedy, was made almost entirely outdoors. Besides the thrilling aerial work at the Pacolma Dam, about 15 other locations were used. The teamwork of Boyd and Hale is as clever as in "Skyseraper," while Jacqueline Logan is a valued feature player in the terra firma sequences. "Power" is at the Isis theater.

STUDENT'S PRANK SENDS FLOCK TO POLICE QUARTERS

EVANSTON, Ill., April 9.—(AP)—It was a pretty good poke, at that; just what might be expected of a prankish sophomore.

The sophomore, if such he were, found an arrest book which Officer Horace Hart of the Evanston police force had lost. The fun-loving collegian immediately got busy filling out arrest slips for Northwestern university professors, doctors, business men, prominent citizens—almost anyone who drove a car. He saw that the arrest slips got to his victims. Then, no doubt, he retired to his quarters and laughed and laughed and laughed.

Came a new day, and a flock of professors, doctors, business men, prominent citizens appeared at the police station in various stages of anger. It was an outrage; a blankety this and a blankety that.

It was no joke to them, even when it was explained; but it must have been very, very funny to the sophomore.

WILKINS PILOT IS GIVEN AIR TROPHY

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP)—Carl B. Eielson, who piloted the plane in which Captain Hubert Wilkins flew across the polar regions from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Spitzbergen received from President Hoover today the Harmon trophy awarded annually for outstanding feats of aviation. The trophy was established three years ago by Clifford Harmon, now president of the International League of Aviators. It was the first awarded to Spitzbergen on the air mail service, and last year it was given to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, for his flight across the Atlantic.

Deductions from the gross were $2,311,382.97 for funeral and administration expenses and $1,315,563.74 for debts.

Vance Has Scatica. MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 9.—(AP)—Dazzy Vance, star Brooklyn pitcher, troubled with Scatica, has been sent to New York to receive treatment. The attack is a light one and Vance expects to be in shape to start the season.

RAID BY BANDITS ON FILM THEATER IS UNSUCCESSFUL

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 9.—(AP) Two bandits tried to hold up a Hollywood Boulevard motion picture theater last night during the rush hour at the beginning of the second show. One of them was shot and died in the getaway car, and his companion, a former Los Angeles policeman, was captured with little body.

Alice Schumar, ticket seller, was counting out tickets when a roadster stopped in front of the theater. Two young men leaped out, erased the que of waiting ticket buyers with a flash of guns, pointed them at the girl in the glass-fronted case and demanded the money.

Miss Schumar knew that Policeman James Alexander was in the theater lobby. This was his last and he arrived there every night just before she transferred the money from the case to the safe. The girl dropped to the floor and screamed.

The two bandits ran for their car. Policeman Alexander ran from the theater and opened fire. One bandit dropped his gun, grabbed his abdomen and sagged. The other bandit dragged him into the roadster. Alexander held his fire, fearful of hitting bystanders. By the time he had commandeered a car the bandit car was out of sight.

An hour later police received a tip from residents in Newton street. Officers rushed to the address and surrounded a garage. There they found J. J. Davis, the former policeman and his dead companion. No weapons were found on either man. A half dozen .38 caliber cartridges were found in the dead man's pockets.

According to police, Davis said that he had served time at San Quentin for burglary after leaving the Los Angeles police force. He attempted to shield the identity of the dead man, but finally gave his name as John Gasiek, 23. He said Gasiek had lived at a Rose street address for four days. Policeman Alexander is a new man on the force.
