It is a sad thing to many Medford anglers that the fishing season opens tomorrow instead of today, and many an angler will have to wait until next Sunday before he can find leisure enough to try out his luck. However, many other anglers who can spare the time from business and other duties will be at the river or other streams first thing tomorrow morning with rod and reel to spend the day. Deputy game wardens have received special instructions to keep a close eye out today for illegal fishermen and arrest them.
