

Local and Personal

I. N. Zaki, assistant water superintendent of Cairo, Egypt, was at the Multnomah yesterday, registered from Washington, D. C. He has been looking around the western states viewing what is being done with irrigation. The visitor arrived in Portland from Medford, where he inspected the system of irrigation for the pear orchards in the Rogue River valley. — The Oregonian.

Dance, Eagle Point, Sat. nite. 30* John E. Frank of Frank's Comedians, who have been entertaining here for some time, is spending a short time in Oakland, Cal., with Mrs. Frank, reported seriously ill. He plans to return to Medford in a short time.

Walker's dance, four-bits, tonite. 25 A bookkeeper's license was issued at the county clerk's office yesterday to A. V. Carlson of Central Point.

Hol, clean coal, Tel. 631. Medford Fuel Co. 3241* A new suction dredge has been installed at the Rogue River Gold company's dredge on Footh creek. The new equipment pumps water from the dredge pond back 1600 feet and allows it to filter through the rock left by the dredge. This equipment is in addition to the settling basin installed some time ago. The basin has a storage capacity of 18 hours. The water is then freed so that the muddy water will be well down the river by daylight. This has required a rather intricate system of timbering as every fluctuation in the river has brought a change in the time required for the water to travel to Savage Rapids where the greater portion of the salmon fishing is done. — Grants Pass Courier.

Chasey lumber and cedar posts. Medford Lumber Co. 2371* S. J. Santmyer of Highville, Mo., was among the motorists from a distance who registered today at the local branch of the out of state auto registration bureau.

Cheap dry lumber at Medford Lumber Co. 2371* Among the recent inquiries received by the Medford Chamber of Commerce by prospective Medford and southern Oregon settlers is from Frank O. Bell of Culver City, Cal., who is looking for a tract of land from 19 to 40 acres, with improvements, close to the Pacific highway north of Medford, for business purposes. Must have plenty of good water. Level timber land would be satisfactory.

Upholstering — Call Jacksonville 262. Capital post No. 9, American Legion, of Salem, went over the top at its annual membership drive with a total of 1117 enrolled. This is five more than last year's record of 1112. Officials of the post claim approximately 1200 members would be enrolled prior to the state convention at Salem in August.

Neatly Klamath Nettle-Gum potatoes, 100 lbs. for $1.25; 50 lbs. 75c. Delivered any place in city. Johnson's Market, 6th and Grape St. Phone 379. 3091*

M. L. Webb of Roseburg, Milo Galvern of Oregon City and D. A. Wilson of Salem are among the out of town visitors to Medford.

Riverside Community Club dance Sat. nite, April 20. Good entertainment. 29*

George Davis of Spokane, Wash., with a crew of four men left Monday for the Big Boy cannibal property on Diamond creek. They will begin immediately to erect cabins and in stall equipment for hydraulic operation of the claim. It is expected they will be in operation in about six weeks. A bar of gold was brought to Grants Pass this week from a property near Oakes. The gold was taken from Perrine mountain. — Grants Pass Bulletin.

Heat your orchard with kindling, blocks and slabs. Tel. 631, Medford Fuel Co. 3241*

A divorce complaint was filed in circuit court this week by Nettie Dow of this city against Howard Dow of Klamath Falls. The couple was married in Klamath Falls in 1918 and have two children.

Get those fenders and auto bodies straightened at Brill's Sheet Metal Works, opposite Lewis Super Service Station. Phone 418. 31*

Mrs. Mary O. Carey of Phoenix has a letter from E. D. Judd of the Mono-Motor Oil company of Council Bluffs, Iowa, acknowledging receipt of a copy of her song, "The Way of Faith," which will be broadcast over their station, KOIL.

Dance, Eagle Point, Sat. nite. 30* A building permit was issued by the city yesterday to Mrs. Feeley for the construction of a small garage on Pennsylvania avenue at a cost of $85. The garage will be constructed by the manual training class of the Medford high school.

Sale today and demonstrator, house-to-house. Medford-made product; 100% seller. Inquire 230 S. Ivy St. 31*

Among the Californians registered at Medford hotels are L. M. Dadd and Mrs. and Mrs. L. C. Brandt of Oakland, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel C. Canton of Santa Barbara, James Moriarty of Sacramento, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Newhall of Berkeley, and Mrs. John Fournes of San Francisco.

Walker's dance, four-bits, tonite. 25 Helen Cowall of Corvallis, assistant state county club leader, is a guest at the Hotel Medford during her stay in the city.

Factory blocks, $6 load. Tel. 631. Medford Fuel Co. 3241* George Neuner, United States district attorney, has accepted the invitation to be the speaker at the Glendale lumber jubilee on May 1.

Dressmaking, smoking and buttonholes. The Fashion Shop, 424 Medford Bldg. Phone 1181. 131*

Mothers of the Berrydale district are reminded a baby clinic will be held at the camp within a few weeks at Tuesday afternoon at 1:30. Mothers wishing appointments are urged to call the county health unit in the courthouse as early as possible.

Get your key for the mystery trunk. Jackson Springs Club, Saturday night. 29*

Jasper Hanna was removed to his home in the Trail district this week from the Sacred Heart hospital, where he had been recovering from injuries sustained two weeks ago in an auto mishap on West Jackson street. He was in critical condition for a time, but is now believed to be out of danger.

Money loaned to worthy people to pay their honest debts. Thomas Realty Co., Rm. 12, Palm Bldg., Cor. Main and Front, upstairs. 241*

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Richmond of Butte Falls were among the residents of that section spending yesterday in Medford.

Dry pine slabs, $5 load. Tel. 631. Medford Fuel Co. 3241*

A. E. Cornell was able to be down town Thursday morning for the first time since he suffered a heart attack a week ago last Sunday. Mr. Cornell, who was in critical condition for several days, states that he is fully recovered from the effects of his illness. — Grants Pass Courier.

Walker's dance, four-bits, tonite. 25 Rucker's Taxi. Phone 68. Rates 25c. Prompt service. 11*

Guests from Seattle at local hotels include Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bartholomew, L. M. McCarty, Dallas Allen, Jr., J. D. Myers, Mrs. Thos. A. Kelley, Mrs. M. Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Ward.

Big dance at U. S. hall, Jacksonville tonight. 25

Dance, Eagle Point, Sat. nite. 30* Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wilson and family of Klamath Falls drove over this afternoon to spend the week end with Rev. and Mrs. E. P. Lawrence. Mr. Wilson is a prominent abstractor of Klamath county.

Fresh shipments of smelt arriving daily. Free delivery any place in city. Johnson's Market. Phone 97. 3381*

Cheap lumber and cedar posts. Medford Lumber Co. 2371* Mrs. Ella H. Eads of Oregon City, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. G. E. Fox, and friends in the valley for about two weeks, left for her home this morning.

Walker's dance, four-bits, tonite. 25

Ladies' and children's hair-cutting. Nash Barber Shop. 34*

A new train name—the "Klamath"—will be added May 1 to the Southern Pacific's service between San Francisco and Portland, according to an announcement by F. S. McGinnis, passenger traffic manager for the company. Equipped with tourist and standard sleepers, in addition to day coaches, the Klamath will make the fish through train daily carrying Pullmans on the San Francisco-Portland run.

Heat your orchard with kindling, blocks and slabs. Tel. 631, Medford Fuel Co. 3241*

Dance, Eagle Point, Sat. nite. 30* C. E. Gates returned this morning from a trip north on business in connection with the highway commission. Mr. Gates addressed the chamber of commerce at Woodburn, Ore., on Thursday night.

Dance at U. S. hall, Jacksonville tonight. 25

W. D. Miles, special agent for the Southern Pacific, with headquarters in Roseburg, spent part of yesterday and this morning in Medford, leaving on the Shasta for his home this noon.

Heat your orchard with kindling, blocks and slabs. Tel. 631, Medford Fuel Co. 3241*

Pageant of Pets IS GALA OCCASION FOR YOUNG FOLKS (By Mary Greiner) Was there ever such a day in Medford before? At least 300 young Jackson county boys and girls who attended the pet show at the Army today, will answer "No." The atmosphere over the east Main street bridge throughout this morning, quivered with the joyous excitement of youth—hand fur—bribes—and feathers of beloved pets. Tears welled up in one small pair of eyes, when the unruly hair around her little dog's collar wouldn't stay smooth like she wanted it to. He wasn't a bad dog, and he was awfully smart, she confided loyally to a sympathetic spectator, but somehow he didn't have the self-confidence and show-off qualities that some of the other canine specimens around there had. If anyone could only tell the judges some of the fine instincts her pet had! But alas, dogs not unlike human beings are too often judged on outward appearances!

Then there was the little red-dish pet kid, held lovingly in the arms of a small red-haired boy. Someone was going to kill the little animal once, and its present owner, intervened, saved its life and would never let anybody else ever lay hands on him—No, sir—except maybe the judges when they go to pin the blue ribbon on him.

In a cage nearby there were three blind mice—oh, no—not blind mice at all. Their eyes were pink and glassy, but they could see all right. Their fur was soft and white and their long tails curled up onto the walls of the next little cage.

A donkey straddled by a small boy, brayed in rivalry to the band and drum corps and was given a look of scorn by the smart Indian pony a few feet beyond. Bantam roosters crowed at the top of their wee lungs, from their cages on small wagons, lined up for the parade.

Kittens purring as snugly and yawning in their snuggly boxes, while canaries contributed brief, sweet notes and duets to the general vocal ensemble.

The procession finally started up Main street—a strange assortment of miniature floats and entries. The white rats peered out of their cages at the donkey ahead of them, and observed humorously to each other that he might not be a high beauty, but that his ear for music most certainly must be a joy forever.

The parade, after winding its way through the principal downtown streets, came to a halt at the armory, where the Jackson county pet show was officially opened by the humane society at one o'clock, and will continue until this evening.

Dance, Eagle Point, Sat. nite. 30*

Factory blocks, $6 load. Tel. 631. Medford Fuel Co. 3241*

George Neuner, United States district attorney, has accepted the invitation to be the speaker at the Glendale lumber jubilee on May 1.

Dressmaking, smoking and buttonholes. The Fashion Shop, 424 Medford Bldg. Phone 1181. 131*

Mothers of the Berrydale district are reminded a baby clinic will be held at the camp within a few weeks at Tuesday afternoon at 1:30. Mothers wishing appointments are urged to call the county health unit in the courthouse as early as possible.

Get your key for the mystery trunk. Jackson Springs Club, Saturday night. 29*

Jasper Hanna was removed to his home in the Trail district this week from the Sacred Heart hospital, where he had been recovering from injuries sustained two weeks ago in an auto mishap on West Jackson street. He was in critical condition for a time, but is now believed to be out of danger.

Money loaned to worthy people to pay their honest debts. Thomas Realty Co., Rm. 12, Palm Bldg., Cor. Main and Front, upstairs. 241*

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Richmond of Butte Falls were among the residents of that section spending yesterday in Medford.

Dry pine slabs, $5 load. Tel. 631. Medford Fuel Co. 3241*

Events of the Week

Pageant of Pets IS GALA OCCASION FOR YOUNG FOLKS

Was there ever such a day in Medford before? At least 300 young Jackson county boys and girls who attended the pet show at the Army today, will answer "No." The atmosphere over the east Main street bridge throughout this morning, quivered with the joyous excitement of youth—hand fur—bribes—and feathers of beloved pets. Tears welled up in one small pair of eyes, when the unruly hair around her little dog's collar wouldn't stay smooth like she wanted it to. He wasn't a bad dog, and he was awfully smart, she confided loyally to a sympathetic spectator, but somehow he didn't have the self-confidence and show-off qualities that some of the other canine specimens around there had. If anyone could only tell the judges some of the fine instincts her pet had! But alas, dogs not unlike human beings are too often judged on outward appearances!

Then there was the little red-dish pet kid, held lovingly in the arms of a small red-haired boy. Someone was going to kill the little animal once, and its present owner, intervened, saved its life and would never let anybody else ever lay hands on him—No, sir—except maybe the judges when they go to pin the blue ribbon on him.

In a cage nearby there were three blind mice—oh, no—not blind mice at all. Their eyes were pink and glassy, but they could see all right. Their fur was soft and white and their long tails curled up onto the walls of the next little cage.

A donkey straddled by a small boy, brayed in rivalry to the band and drum corps and was given a look of scorn by the smart Indian pony a few feet beyond. Bantam roosters crowed at the top of their wee lungs, from their cages on small wagons, lined up for the parade.

Kittens purring as snugly and yawning in their snuggly boxes, while canaries contributed brief, sweet notes and duets to the general vocal ensemble.

The procession finally started up Main street—a strange assortment of miniature floats and entries. The white rats peered out of their cages at the donkey ahead of them, and observed humorously to each other that he might not be a high beauty, but that his ear for music most certainly must be a joy forever.

The parade, after winding its way through the principal downtown streets, came to a halt at the armory, where the Jackson county pet show was officially opened by the humane society at one o'clock, and will continue until this evening.

Dance, Eagle Point, Sat. nite. 30*

Factory blocks, $6 load. Tel. 631. Medford Fuel Co. 3241*

George Neuner, United States district attorney, has accepted the invitation to be the speaker at the Glendale lumber jubilee on May 1.

Dressmaking, smoking and buttonholes. The Fashion Shop, 424 Medford Bldg. Phone 1181. 131*

Mothers of the Berrydale district are reminded a baby clinic will be held at the camp within a few weeks at Tuesday afternoon at 1:30. Mothers wishing appointments are urged to call the county health unit in the courthouse as early as possible.

Get your key for the mystery trunk. Jackson Springs Club, Saturday night. 29*

Jasper Hanna was removed to his home in the Trail district this week from the Sacred Heart hospital, where he had been recovering from injuries sustained two weeks ago in an auto mishap on West Jackson street. He was in critical condition for a time, but is now believed to be out of danger.

Money loaned to worthy people to pay their honest debts. Thomas Realty Co., Rm. 12, Palm Bldg., Cor. Main and Front, upstairs. 241*

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Richmond of Butte Falls were among the residents of that section spending yesterday in Medford.

Dry pine slabs, $5 load. Tel. 631. Medford Fuel Co. 3241*

Events of the Week

Pageant of Pets IS GALA OCCASION FOR YOUNG FOLKS

Was there ever such a day in Medford before? At least 300 young Jackson county boys and girls who attended the pet show at the Army today, will answer "No." The atmosphere over the east Main street bridge throughout this morning, quivered with the joyous excitement of youth—hand fur—bribes—and feathers of beloved pets. Tears welled up in one small pair of eyes, when the unruly hair around her little dog's collar wouldn't stay smooth like she wanted it to. He wasn't a bad dog, and he was awfully smart, she confided loyally to a sympathetic spectator, but somehow he didn't have the self-confidence and show-off qualities that some of the other canine specimens around there had. If anyone could only tell the judges some of the fine instincts her pet had! But alas, dogs not unlike human beings are too often judged on outward appearances!

Then there was the little red-dish pet kid, held lovingly in the arms of a small red-haired boy. Someone was going to kill the little animal once, and its present owner, intervened, saved its life and would never let anybody else ever lay hands on him—No, sir—except maybe the judges when they go to pin the blue ribbon on him.

In a cage nearby there were three blind mice—oh, no—not blind mice at all. Their eyes were pink and glassy, but they could see all right. Their fur was soft and white and their long tails curled up onto the walls of the next little cage.

A donkey straddled by a small boy, brayed in rivalry to the band and drum corps and was given a look of scorn by the smart Indian pony a few feet beyond. Bantam roosters crowed at the top of their wee lungs, from their cages on small wagons, lined up for the parade.

Kittens purring as snugly and yawning in their snuggly boxes, while canaries contributed brief, sweet notes and duets to the general vocal ensemble.

The procession finally started up Main street—a strange assortment of miniature floats and entries. The white rats peered out of their cages at the donkey ahead of them, and observed humorously to each other that he might not be a high beauty, but that his ear for music most certainly must be a joy forever.

The parade, after winding its way through the principal downtown streets, came to a halt at the armory, where the Jackson county pet show was officially opened by the humane society at one o'clock, and will continue until this evening.

Dance, Eagle Point, Sat. nite. 30*

Factory blocks, $6 load. Tel. 631. Medford Fuel Co. 3241*

George Neuner, United States district attorney, has accepted the invitation to be the speaker at the Glendale lumber jubilee on May 1.

Dressmaking, smoking and buttonholes. The Fashion Shop, 424 Medford Bldg. Phone 1181. 131*

Mothers of the Berrydale district are reminded a baby clinic will be held at the camp within a few weeks at Tuesday afternoon at 1:30. Mothers wishing appointments are urged to call the county health unit in the courthouse as early as possible.

Get your key for the mystery trunk. Jackson Springs Club, Saturday night. 29*

Jasper Hanna was removed to his home in the Trail district this week from the Sacred Heart hospital, where he had been recovering from injuries sustained two weeks ago in an auto mishap on West Jackson street. He was in critical condition for a time, but is now believed to be out of danger.

Money loaned to worthy people to pay their honest debts. Thomas Realty Co., Rm. 12, Palm Bldg., Cor. Main and Front, upstairs. 241*

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Richmond of Butte Falls were among the residents of that section spending yesterday in Medford.

Dry pine slabs, $5 load. Tel. 631. Medford Fuel Co. 3241*

Events of the Week

Pageant of Pets IS GALA OCCASION FOR YOUNG FOLKS

Was there ever such a day in Medford before? At least 300 young Jackson county boys and girls who attended the pet show at the Army today, will answer "No." The atmosphere over the east Main street bridge throughout this morning, quivered with the joyous excitement of youth—hand fur—bribes—and feathers of beloved pets. Tears welled up in one small pair of eyes, when the unruly hair around her little dog's collar wouldn't stay smooth like she wanted it to. He wasn't a bad dog, and he was awfully smart, she confided loyally to a sympathetic spectator, but somehow he didn't have the self-confidence and show-off qualities that some of the other canine specimens around there had. If anyone could only tell the judges some of the fine instincts her pet had! But alas, dogs not unlike human beings are too often judged on outward appearances!

Then there was the little red-dish pet kid, held lovingly in the arms of a small red-haired boy. Someone was going to kill the little animal once, and its present owner, intervened, saved its life and would never let anybody else ever lay hands on him—No, sir—except maybe the judges when they go to pin the blue ribbon on him.

In a cage nearby there were three blind mice—oh, no—not blind mice at all. Their eyes were pink and glassy, but they could see all right. Their fur was soft and white and their long tails curled up onto the walls of the next little cage.

A donkey straddled by a small boy, brayed in rivalry to the band and drum corps and was given a look of scorn by the smart Indian pony a few feet beyond. Bantam roosters crowed at the top of their wee lungs, from their cages on small wagons, lined up for the parade.

Kittens purring as snugly and yawning in their snuggly boxes, while canaries contributed brief, sweet notes and duets to the general vocal ensemble.

The procession finally started up Main street—a strange assortment of miniature floats and entries. The white rats peered out of their cages at the donkey ahead of them, and observed humorously to each other that he might not be a high beauty, but that his ear for music most certainly must be a joy forever.

The parade, after winding its way through the principal downtown streets, came to a halt at the armory, where the Jackson county pet show was officially opened by the humane society at one o'clock, and will continue until this evening.

Dance, Eagle Point, Sat. nite. 30*

Factory blocks, $6 load. Tel. 631. Medford Fuel Co. 3241*

George Neuner, United States district attorney, has accepted the invitation to be the speaker at the Glendale lumber jubilee on May 1.

Dressmaking, smoking and buttonholes. The Fashion Shop, 424 Medford Bldg. Phone 1181. 131*

Mothers of the Berrydale district are reminded a baby clinic will be held at the camp within a few weeks at Tuesday afternoon at 1:30. Mothers wishing appointments are urged to call the county health unit in the courthouse as early as possible.

Get your key for the mystery trunk. Jackson Springs Club, Saturday night. 29*

Jasper Hanna was removed to his home in the Trail district this week from the Sacred Heart hospital, where he had been recovering from injuries sustained two weeks ago in an auto mishap on West Jackson street. He was in critical condition for a time, but is now believed to be out of danger.

Money loaned to worthy people to pay their honest debts. Thomas Realty Co., Rm. 12, Palm Bldg., Cor. Main and Front, upstairs. 241*

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Richmond of Butte Falls were among the residents of that section spending yesterday in Medford.

Dry pine slabs, $5 load. Tel. 631. Medford Fuel Co. 3241*

Events of the Week

Pageant of Pets IS GALA OCCASION FOR YOUNG FOLKS

Was there ever such a day in Medford before? At least 300 young Jackson county boys and girls who attended the pet show at the Army today, will answer "No." The atmosphere over the east Main street bridge throughout this morning, quivered with the joyous excitement of youth—hand fur—bribes—and feathers of beloved pets. Tears welled up in one small pair of eyes, when the unruly hair around her little dog's collar wouldn't stay smooth like she wanted it to. He wasn't a bad dog, and he was awfully smart, she confided loyally to a sympathetic spectator, but somehow he didn't have the self-confidence and show-off qualities that some of the other canine specimens around there had. If anyone could only tell the judges some of the fine instincts her pet had! But alas, dogs not unlike human beings are too often judged on outward appearances!

Then there was the little red-dish pet kid, held lovingly in the arms of a small red-haired boy. Someone was going to kill the little animal once, and its present owner, intervened, saved its life and would never let anybody else ever lay hands on him—No, sir—except maybe the judges when they go to pin the blue ribbon on him.

In a cage nearby there were three blind mice—oh, no—not blind mice at all. Their eyes were pink and glassy, but they could see all right. Their fur was soft and white and their long tails curled up onto the walls of the next little cage.

A donkey straddled by a small boy, brayed in rivalry to the band and drum corps and was given a look of scorn by the smart Indian pony a few feet beyond. Bantam roosters crowed at the top of their wee lungs, from their cages on small wagons, lined up for the parade.

Kittens purring as snugly and yawning in their snuggly boxes, while canaries contributed brief, sweet notes and duets to the general vocal ensemble.

The procession finally started up Main street—a strange assortment of miniature floats and entries. The white rats peered out of their cages at the donkey ahead of them, and observed humorously to each other that he might not be a high beauty, but that his ear for music most certainly must be a joy forever.

The parade, after winding its way through the principal downtown streets, came to a halt at the armory, where the Jackson county pet show was officially opened by the humane society at one o'clock, and will continue until this evening.

Dance, Eagle Point, Sat. nite. 30*

Factory blocks, $6 load. Tel. 631. Medford Fuel Co. 3241*

George Neuner, United States district attorney, has accepted the invitation to be the speaker at the Glendale lumber jubilee on May 1.

Dressmaking, smoking and buttonholes. The Fashion Shop, 424 Medford Bldg. Phone 1181. 131*

Mothers of the Berrydale district are reminded a baby clinic will be held at the camp within a few weeks at Tuesday afternoon at 1:30. Mothers wishing appointments are urged to call the county health unit in the courthouse as early as possible.

Get your key for the mystery trunk. Jackson Springs Club, Saturday night. 29*

Jasper Hanna was removed to his home in the Trail district this week from the Sacred Heart hospital, where he had been recovering from injuries sustained two weeks ago in an auto mishap on West Jackson street. He was in critical condition for a time, but is now believed to be out of danger.

Money loaned to worthy people to pay their honest debts. Thomas Realty Co., Rm. 12, Palm Bldg., Cor. Main and Front, upstairs. 241*

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Richmond of Butte Falls were among the residents of that section spending yesterday in Medford.

Dry pine slabs, $5 load. Tel. 631. Medford Fuel Co. 3241*

Events of the Week

Pageant of Pets IS GALA OCCASION FOR YOUNG FOLKS

Was there ever such a day in Medford before? At least 300 young Jackson county boys and girls who attended the pet show at the Army today, will answer "No." The atmosphere over the east Main street bridge throughout this morning, quivered with the joyous excitement of youth—hand fur—bribes—and feathers of beloved pets. Tears welled up in one small pair of eyes, when the unruly hair around her little dog's collar wouldn't stay smooth like she wanted it to. He wasn't a bad dog, and he was awfully smart, she confided loyally to a sympathetic spectator, but somehow he didn't have the self-confidence and show-off qualities that some of the other canine specimens around there had. If anyone could only tell the judges some of the fine instincts her pet had! But alas, dogs not unlike human beings are too often judged on outward appearances!

Then there was the little red-dish pet kid, held lovingly in the arms of a small red-haired boy. Someone was going to kill the little animal once, and its present owner, intervened, saved its life and would never let anybody else ever lay hands on him—No, sir—except maybe the judges when they go to pin the blue ribbon on him.

In a cage nearby there were three blind mice—oh, no—not blind mice at all. Their eyes were pink and glassy, but they could see all right. Their fur was soft and white and their long tails curled up onto the walls of the next little cage.

A donkey straddled by a small boy, brayed in rivalry to the band and drum corps and was given a look of scorn by the smart Indian pony a few feet beyond. Bantam roosters crowed at the top of their wee lungs, from their cages on small wagons, lined up for the parade.

Kittens purring as snugly and yawning in their snuggly boxes, while canaries contributed brief, sweet notes and duets to the general vocal ensemble.

The procession finally started up Main street—a strange assortment of miniature floats and entries. The white rats peered out of their cages at the donkey ahead of them, and observed humorously to each other that he might not be a high beauty, but that his ear for music most certainly must be a joy forever.

The parade, after winding its way through the principal downtown streets, came to a halt at the armory, where the Jackson county pet show was officially opened by the humane society at one o'clock, and will continue until this evening.

Dance, Eagle Point, Sat. nite. 30*

Factory blocks, $6 load. Tel. 631. Medford Fuel Co. 3241*

George Neuner, United States district attorney, has accepted the invitation to be the speaker at the Glendale lumber jubilee on May 1.

Dressmaking, smoking and buttonholes. The Fashion Shop, 424 Medford Bldg. Phone 1181. 131*

Mothers of the Berrydale district are reminded a baby clinic will be held at the camp within a few weeks at Tuesday afternoon at 1:30. Mothers wishing appointments are urged to call the county health unit in the courthouse as early as possible.

Get your key for the mystery trunk. Jackson Springs Club, Saturday night. 29*

Jasper Hanna was removed to his home in the Trail district this week from the Sacred Heart hospital, where he had been recovering from injuries sustained two weeks ago in an auto mishap on West Jackson street. He was in critical condition for a time, but is now believed to be out of danger.

Money loaned to worthy people to pay their honest debts. Thomas Realty Co., Rm. 12, Palm Bldg., Cor. Main and Front, upstairs