

NEWS of the DAY in PICTURES

AN IDEA OF THE MAZE OF CONSTRUCTION necessary in an airplane wing is gained through this picture of the skeleton of one of the wings of a transcontinental tri-motored 18-passenger transport to be flown by the Boeing System between Chicago, Oakland and San Francisco. The plane has an 80-foot wing span.

THE BATHING GIRL season is here again, and Jerry Chenoweth, of Portland, Ore., cuts quite a figure in the water or out of it. You'll probably see another picture of a bathing girl before summer's over.

MEXICO HAS MANY WONDERFUL SAMPLES of Spanish architecture such as the one pictured above. The edifice is the cathedral at Chihuahua City.

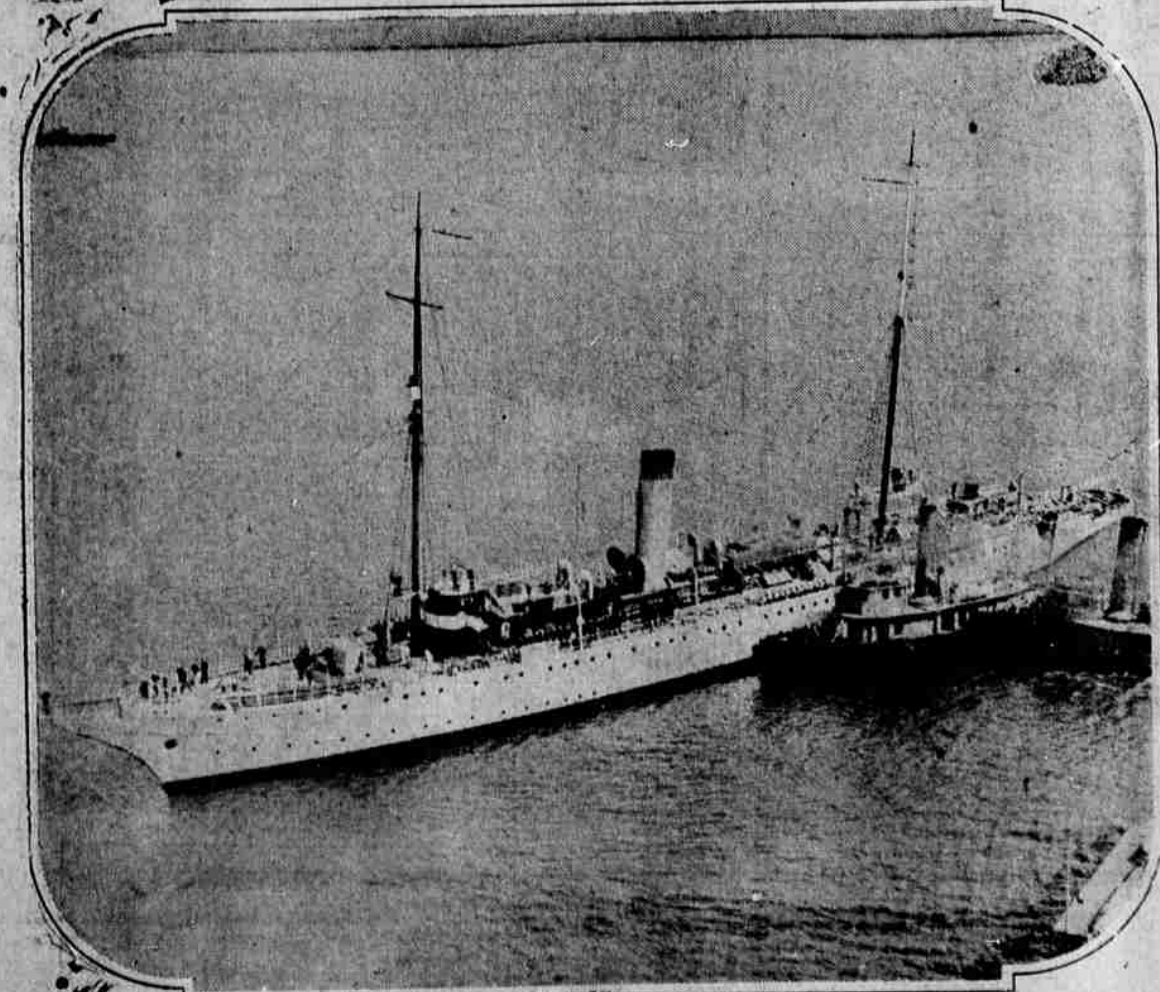

HERE ARE NINE LIVES, NOT CATEGORICALLY SPEAKING, BUT DOGMATICALLY. The litter of collie pups is owned by Mr. and Mrs. G. Williams of Rochester, N. Y., and they're not always as serious as they seem to be here.

THE DOCTORS SAY there ain't no such animal as spring fever, but here's Snookums, Universal star, denying them all over the place.

DURING RECENT MILITARY MANEUVERS at Aldershot, one of the training officers fell from the improvised bridge across a canal and had to swim to shore. Wouldn't you think that his whole day had been spoiled?

THE MAYFLOWER, PRESIDENTIAL YACHT, is shown at the Philadelphia Navy Yard just before taking the long vacation decreed for it by President Hoover. It will be dismantled and stored.

A PORTRAIT STUDY of the man who invented the wireless, Guglielmo Marconi, is presented in this photograph, a new picture of the famous Italian.

THIS IS GLORIA GREER of Hollywood, Calif. Quite a few young men and men with young ideas are going in seriously for swimming this year.
