Wall Street Report

NEW YORK, April 29. - (A) Extreme nervousness over the credit situation brought about further unsettlement in today's stock market. Prices in a long list of standard industrials broke 1 to nearly 10 points in the early trading, but strong buying support appeared in the early afternoon and part of the losses were reduced and a few pulled out in the general rally which started at that time. Call money renewed at 12 per cent, the highest opening figure since April 2 and advanced to 15 when it became apparent that the demand for funds exceeded the supply. Little fresh money was attracted to the market, even at the higher figure, and fears of a further advance in the rate led to heavy selling for both accounts. Isolated points of weakness showed in the late afternoon but the general list benefited from the strength of many of the copper, public utilities and specialties. Shorts in the United Aircraft were
