FLOG WHITE MAN FOR CRUELTY TO NATIVE EMPLOYEE

PRETORIA, South Africa, May 3.—(A.P.)—For the first time in many years a white farmer was today flogged for injuring a native.

Jack Natte, who tied a native employee head downwards by the leg from a tree and lashed him so severely that he subsequently died, had already been sentenced to seven years at hard labor. But the judge, in passing sentence for the assault which he described as "horrifying in its cruelty," said the punishment would not be adequate unless it also included inflection upon Natte of physical pain.

The cabinet of South Africa decided that it was unable to recommend mercy for Natte and the farmer received 10 lashes in the Pretoria jail.

BRIGHT COLORS FLOW WITHOUT BREAK FROM NEW ELECTRIC LIGHTS

SCHENECTADY, (A.P.) Light bulbs that are solid, living colors of constantly changing hues, are under development in the illuminating laboratory of Walter D'Arcy Ryan of the General Electric company.

They are something new in illumination, and a look into the special laboratory set up for them is like walking into a scene of the future. The surroundings stimulate familiar surroundings, street scenes, houses and show windows of today.

But before one's eyes, the goods in shop windows change their colors, running all the way from actual or near black, through blues, greens, yellows and reds. This is done by reflection from the new lights.

Pillars and building columns glow like precious stones from the effects of internal lights and outside reflection. This is something which the spectator might think at first sight is an old-fashioned effect. But when he shifts his position, the pillar colors change, again a new effect of reflection.

The laboratory is a visual promise that the night signs of the main streets and white ways of the future will be done in softer colors, and without the "shudder" and winking now in vogue. Apparently there will be possible something like approximation in light of brilliantly colored scenes, in their natural shades and tones.

The new lights operate without use of colored bulbs. They change without winking between colors, just as tints shift in a sunset sky. They are glowing in vacuum tubes, rendered luminous by electrical current, on the same principle as the neon and other solid color lights now in use for street signs.

But they differ in employing a greatly reduced current, and in securing color changes by shifts in strengths of electrical current, without any break in the circuit. Because they operate at about normal voltage, they offer safe application to home lighting.

WIFE EXONERATED SLAYING HUSBAND

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., May 3.—(A.P.) Mrs. Gladys Maude Foster Beardslee of Stratford, was exonerated of criminal responsibility in the death of her husband, Oliver Beardslee, in a finding by Coroner John J. Phelan today.

One week ago today, Beardslee died at the Bridgeport hospital of a bullet wound in the temple received during a quarrel at his home early in the day.

The coroner found that the bullet wound was inflicted by Beardslee as the result of his own intended or accidental acts.

The coroner said he found no evidence that would tend to challenge Mrs. Beardslee's oft-repeated claim that her husband shot himself.
