

PLYMOUTH CAR PLANT MODEL OF EFFICIENCY

Just as the various parts of an automobile engine are designed and fitted to produce a smoothly operating motor...

Those who have inspected the Plymouth plant of Chrysler Motors in Detroit have been greatly impressed by the precision and the regularity of thousands of men and machines working with one goal in mind...

In this immense building there is but a single room—a room nearly half a mile long and averaging 400 feet wide. Into one end of this room and to various stations along one side are brought the raw materials...

At this point the chassis is painted with a special paint and is carried on the conveyor through drying ovens; emerging from the ovens, the transmission and brake levers are attached...
