

NEWS of the DAY in PICTURES

Backstage COSTUMES LIKE THIS have become generally adopted since the movies started producing the talkie-revues. Here's Sally Blane in a typical revue what-you-call-it.

SWISHING ALONG THROUGH THE HUDSON RIVER at a 45-mile-an-hour clip, these outboard motor racers covered the 132.25 miles from Albany to New York City in slightly more than three hours and a half. The start of the race at Albany is pictured above.

ISLAND INDIANS OF BRITISH COLUMBIA got all dressed up recently for the occasion of the visit of the Governor General, Viscount Willingdon. Notice the feather through the pierced nose of the old brave shown in the inset.

WHAT PRICE THRILLS for the movies! The picture shows the downward plunge of the German Gotha bomber that brought death to Phil Jones, one of its two occupants. The man in the parachute, Al Wilson, noted stunt flyer, jumped just in time.

CALIFORNIA COULDN'T DECIDE which of these two girls should be queen of the ninth annual California Valencia Orange Show at Anaheim, May 23 to June 2. So both girls, blond and brunette, were elected to preside. Mona Rico, left, is from Mexico City and Dorothy Day is a local blond.

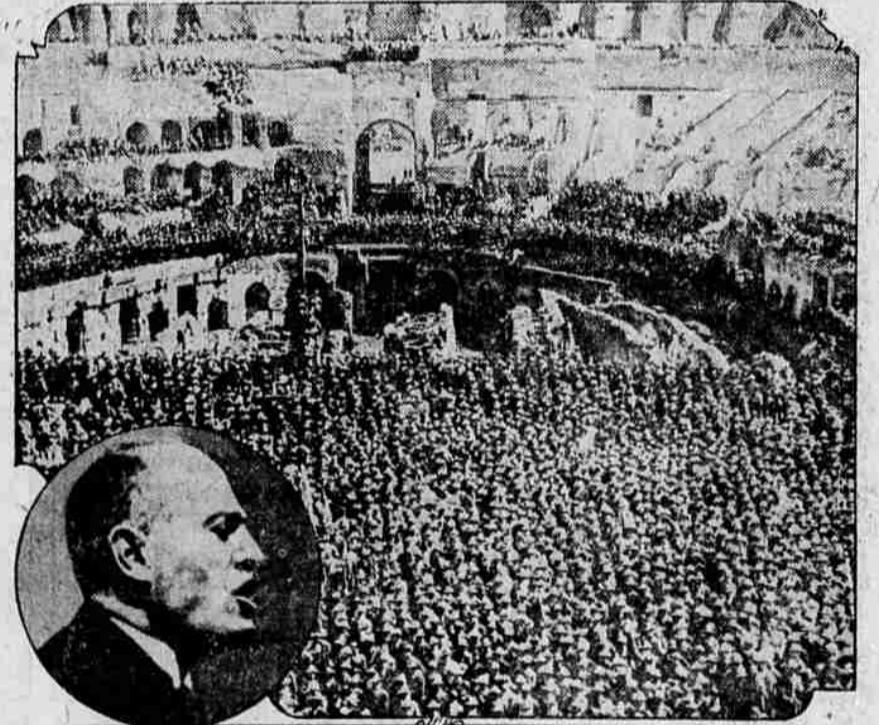

LUCILE LITTLE DOG is putting on a little dog, too, like the paleface flappers. The girl is a resident of Glacier National Park Reservation, and doesn't smoke really, therefore is ineligible for blindfold tests.

HERE ARE THE HERO AND VILLAIN of the cast as exhibited at a recent dog show in London. "Inveresk Cashier," above, won six first prizes and the championship of the spaniel's class. "Cracker Jack," below, won first prize among the bulldog puppies.

TAKING NO CHANCES on being marooned in isolated places, Richard Rankin, Portland, Ore., aviator has added this carrier pigeon to his plane equipment. Thus he can send home a message, telling what happened.

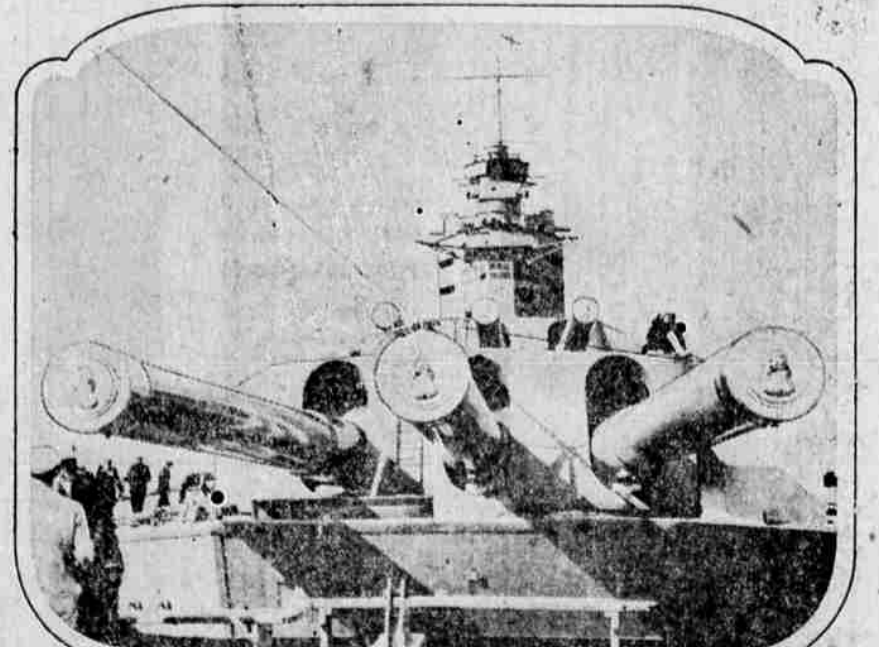

VAST THRONGS OF THE ITALIAN ALPINE REGIMENTS are shown as they gathered in the storied old Colosseum in Rome to hear Premier Mussolini in a recent address. The crowd is gazing at the Imperial Box where Mussolini, inset, is making his speech.

DURING INSPECTION at Fort Strong, Cape Henry, Va., the other day, General Charles P. Sumner, Chief of the Army Staff, tried his hand at one of the anti-aircraft machine guns. The general is shown looking over the sights.

LOOKS LIKE A BAD year to become engaged, especially in Hollywood where twin rings are the vogue. Nancy Carroll is shown with a couple of the circlets, of carved jade set in platinum.

IF SOME ONE POINTED ONE OF THESE AT YOU and said "Hands up!" what would you do? The guns are part of the hulking equipment of H. M. S. Nelson, one of the most powerful of Great Britain's naval war vessels. They don't shoot paper wads, either.
