Much credit goes to Miss Cox, principal of the Lincoln school, for the most excellent program for the 6A class presented before the P. T. A. on Thursday afternoon.

The program opened with a few remarks by Mrs. H. Wilson and her Girl Scouts. Miss Eleanor Curry sang "Out Where the West Begins" in her usual pleasing manner. She was accompanied by Miss Dorothy Baughman.

The Boy Scouts showed their skill in signalling. A Lincoln Boy Scout signalled "Goodbye Lincoln" and a junior high scout answered "welcome, junior high."

In observation of Oregon day the class gave the most important events happening in the Oregon country since the time of the early Indian and English explorers up to the present time. They sang "Oh, Susanna," accompanied by three boys of the class on harmonicas, and led by Mrs. Turner. The new song, "The Thirty-third Star," was sung with spirit. This is the first time that a Medford audience has heard it, as it was dedicated to Champeek at the last meeting on May 2.

Concert Recital
Delightful Event.
One of the outstanding events of the season was the concert recital of the Isis theatre, the "Little Theatre" of Medford, Thursday evening, May 9th by Mrs. Dixie Ambler Harvey presenting dancing pupils and Carleton Jones presenting Donald Moore violinist.

The program was made more varied and complete by Mrs. Edna Parrett Butler who rendered several delightful solos and Miss Elbow Mae Wilson who what-did in her usual delightful manner.

Mrs. Carleton Jones and Miss Ruth Severance accompanied at the piano and Orville Wilson performed ably with the drum.

It seems only the other day Donald Moore was but a lad and it was quite a delightful surprise to those who had not realized what the flight of time had done to him in an appearance so different and what a good instructor in Carleton Jones, and persistent in industry coupled with talent had accomplished.

Donald has poised and finished technique worthy of a much older person.

His playing was delightful and gave much pleasure to his audience.

It is a fact that each member of Dixie Ambler Harvey's class deserves praise and their performances reflected great credit to their teacher who is very thorough in her instruction and was especially happy in brotting out the grace and lilt beauty of the individual players.

Worthy of special mention was Lucille Lowry in her "Dance of the Moth and Flame." The various dances performed by Deah Higdon, "Fifty Years Later" by Adra Edwards and Deah Higdon and "Carmen" a vocal and whistling duet by Eunice Parrett Butler and Elbow Mae Wilson.

The piano solo "Wedding of the Painted Doll," was cleverly executed by Ruth Severance while the "Group of old Country Dances" by Mary and Clara Beth Powell were quaint, bringing back pleasant memories to many in the audience.

Mrs. Harvey and Mr. Jones are to be congratulated for the perfection of the whole recital.

May Day Fete
Enjoyed by Girl Scouts
The "rattle trap" drawn by two faithful horses and in charge of a careful driver, met the Girl Scouts of Central Point after school and carried them safely to the home of their captain, Mrs. C. E. Hicks, Woodlawn orchard. The rattle trap was decorated with green and yellow, the colors of the troop flower, "buttercup."

Winding the Maypole and choosing a queen were part of the fun. On the lawn beneath the apple blossoms sat Queen Gloria and her attendants, Merle May and Loomis Davidson. These four Girl Scouts are charter members of the first meeting held in 1928. The younger Girl Scouts paid them the honor of the day.

A picnic supper, the first of the season, eaten from their own tin plates and cups in the beauty of spring, made these Girl Scouts remember "all is fair weather when good scouts get together." Many splendid pictures were taken and each event recorded for their book of memories.

At the end of the day 24 registration cards from Girl Scout headquarters in New York, were given out, and another perfect day ended.

An invitation was extended to the following Girl Scouts of troop No. 1, Central Point: Geraldine Jones, Vivian Jones, Edna Shaver, Ruth Patton, Phyllis Turpin, Dorothy Anderson, Henrietta Hughes, and Sandee Heselgrave, Maxene Clemons, Nellie Eicher, Naomi Johnson, Marquerite Lawrence, May Eicher, Loomis Davidson, Merle Hedgepeth, Gloria Bolds, Laurine Hugges, Geraldine Fox, Cecil Humphreys, Mary Jane Beebe, Mona Lewis, Ethlyn Scott.
