A Good Overhauling Job Means Both Rings and Pistons—and Permites

Are the Leading Replacement Lines

More than two-thirds of all American cars are factory equipped with aluminum-alloy pistons. Permite Pistons are not only preferred by repair men for replacements but are standard equipment with manufacturers' production for more than a million cars a year.

PERMITE PISTONS wear longer than cast iron pistons, get rid of heat five times as fast and weigh only one-third as much. Ask your repair man to secure PERMITE PISTONS here.
