A survey of several rose gardens recently left no doubt in the minds of members of the committee that the best roses will not be ready until about the middle of the month. Peonies, too, are still in tight hard buds. However, roses and other show flowers should be debudded and watched carefully, and plans made for exhibiting, that everything may be in readiness for this show.

Mrs. Humphreys and Mrs. Ryan were decided hits in their separate ways.

In fact the characters all, by their unique costumes, and their art productions, showed how much they had benefited by the past year's study. It was a great success—the play.

Every one assisted in preparing the delightful luncheon that was interpartaken of, and this luncheon, under the management of Mrs. Louis Ulrich, and the hostess, Mrs. Williams, was as great a success as the play.

Later Mrs. James Collins showed a collection of fifty copies of famous pictures that the club had rented for one month. These, the De Medici prints, gave every one present much pleasure and it is hoped they may be viewed and be a source of inspiration to many Medford painters who still be invited to view them later.

Mrs. Ray Satchwell gave a very delightful account of a trip to Portland, where she represented the Medford "Alpha" Chapter of Delphians at a state federation meeting of Delphians. As Mrs. Satchwell is the first one to attend a state meeting, it was very interesting to all to hear her account.

Late in the afternoon the Delphian ladies, after thanking Mrs. Williams for the most pleasant of days, departed for their several homes, feeling that indeed this had been the best meeting of the year.

Prancing steps were the feature of this number.

A toe number, pierrette, is difficult for even older dancers to attempt, but was carried through to success by Marjorie McNair, Lavon Anderson, Ido LeFevre, Barbara Holt, Barbara Bevan and Gretchen Beck. This number was well received and included Russian ballet steps.
