

PAULINE IS TOO NEW BRIDGE TO HAPPY TO CRY SPAN CREEK ON EVEN IN FILMS MIDWAY ROUTE

Cinema Star Fishing On Rogue, Tells of Tearful Days in Hollywood—Husband Writing Scenarios and Enjoying Sport.

(By Mary Greiner)

She used to be called the "new little cryer in Hollywood." Now Pauline Stark, pretty educational star, is too happy to weep even for her bread and butter.

Pauline Stark

literally cried out." The little light-haired actress gave the Rogue a rebellious little yank as it gurgled past her boat, and then added a bit wistfully, "And all the time I wanted to laugh and make others laugh."

Miss Stark pointed out one of the reasons why she no longer cares to cry—even for the movies. He sat in another boat drifting dreamily down the Rogue, attempting to ensnare one of the well known inhabitants of the famous river. The reason is Jack White, general director for Educational, who is here with Mrs. White (Pauline Stark) and Mr. and Mrs. Stevens Roberts on a vacation. Staying at Weasaku Inn during the next week, Mr. White plans on completing a couple of scenarios before the return to Hollywood.

"We were married just 18 months ago to be exact," the little star replied to a question. "Oh, yes—it was the first marriage for either of us—and it is going to last forever." As unusual a statement as this may appear, coming from Hollywood, it carried undisputed conviction and intense sincerity.

Met Ten Years Ago The actress met her husband 19 years ago, shortly after she had received her first part in the movies. It was an extra bit as a dancer in "Intolerance."

"No one but myself ever could find me in it," she said humorously. "But I was thrilled almost to distraction over the fact that Griffith himself had chosen me from among the extras. Of course I don't suppose he would even have noticed me had I not worn a conspicuously green sweater and white dress. But anyway, he picked me out from the sidelines, remarking that I had an interesting face."

Miss Stark was then under 16 years old and she, along with Mildred Harris and other young extras, had to attend classes at the studio between shots.

Nine years ago she and Jack White, then employed by Majestic, became engaged. Both had ambitions and neither had yet "arrived" in the movie world. After some time they decided mutually to break the engagement.

"In the meantime I concentrated on my work and he on his. We met only occasionally. Each went out with an entirely different crowd and built up separate circles of friends. The further I drifted out of his life the more I realized that there was no one else could take his place. Jack felt the same way about me.

Three years ago we became engaged again, and 18 months ago we were married. Do you wonder that I can't cry any more?" And she smiled easily.

Pauline Stark has a beautifully resonant speaking voice, and should register well in the talkies. Her last silent picture, "Vikings," a technical production, was completed in July. She is now engaged in the study of the French drama, which she hopes to do in the talking pictures within the near future. She is particularly fond of the sparkling, sophisticated dialogue of the old French masters and believes there is a field for this in the revolutionized movie industry.

Decide Old Structure Unsuitable for Needs of Heavy Traffic—Indigent Fund to Be Curtailed As Budget Figure Fades.

The county court will order the construction of a new bridge across Bear creek for the Sams Valley-Medford highway. It was the original intention to use the bridge across Rogue River at Gold Hill. State engineers reported that this structure was not suitable for the passage of the heavy loads and traffic the Midway highway would bring, and that the cost of putting it in shape would be about $12,000. The new bridge will cost about $14,000. The county court holds that it would be the better part of economy to build a new one, in the first place, and save money and the trouble of tearing out the old one in a couple of years.

Plans for the new bridge have been drawn and were discussed this morning at the regular session of the county court. The bridge will be constructed this summer, and be completed with the official opening of the new highway. The right of way has been cleared, and the work of fencing same is now under way. The county court also this morning announced a curtailment policy in the care of indigents, following a report from the county clerk that for the first five months of this year, with all the May bills not recorded the sum of $279,211 had been expended out of a budget allowance of $15,000. This included care of the poor at the poor farm, in hospitals, and in neither.

The county court plans to remove several names from the list of indigents, but will take no action in worthy cases, or where sickness is feared. Most of the cases involved those to whom the years had been unkind. Sunshine has decreased the number of appeals from tourists. The county court also took preliminary action for the adoption of new laws passed by the last session of the legislature. They comprise a volume. The new laws of chief interest in this county, which become effective Wednesday, June 5 are the regulation of dances and load limits on trucks on highways of all classes. Issuance of licenses for dances rests with the county court. The law provides for the estimates of logs, for instance, by a more accurate method, than under the old law.

The new laws also provide for an increase in the salary of the circuit judge from $4000 to $5500 per year. The county court also transacted considerable routine business and considered the usual batch of end-of-the-month bills.

SPORTS BUCS TIE CUBS AS LEADERS IN NATIONAL RACE

Pirates Gain As Bruins Watch Rain in Cincinnati—Giants Stage Homer Party at Polo Grounds to Beat Brooklyn.

By William J. Chapman, Associated Press Sports Writer This mad dash of the Pirates has carried them past the last barrier, leaving the Buccaneers on even terms with the Cubs who now invade Pittsburgh to fight for the lead in a three-game holiday series.

Young Ervin Brame led the Pirates to a 3 to 2 triumph over Clarence Mitchell and the Cardinals in St. Louis yesterday, as the Cubs lay idle in a Cincinnati rainstorm.

The victory left the Buccaneers locked tight with the Bruins for the lead, one and one-half games ahead of the Cardinals, who have lost three games more than either of their current pennant rivals.

The Pirates, the Cardinals and the Cubs remain the only National league clubs above the .500 mark, despite the new lease on life taken by the Giants. Th clan McGraw put on another home run party at the Polo Grounds yesterday, defeating Brooklyn by 5 to 3.

The Phillies took the Braves into camp, this time by 9 to 8. The Red Sox rallied against Rube Walberg and Bill Shores at Boston yesterday to shade the Macks, 5 to 4, ending the Mackian streak at 11. The Yankees clubbed four Washington pitchers for 18 hits to triumph by 12 to 7.

Unmindful of their more highly regarded rivals, the Browns accepted their opportunity to gain on the Athletics by shading the Tigers in Detroit, 4 to 2.

Danny Dugan made his first major league start at Comiskey park, but the bats of Cleveland's Indians were too much for him, and the White Sox were turned back, 5 to 2.
