Sloe-Eyed Senorita Glories in Release From Conventions Seeking Suffrage at Polls

HAVANA—(AP)—No longer does the Cuban woman hide her beauty under voluminous mantillas, nor does she recognize the former rule that the home is her little circle and the outside world only for masculine members of the family.

The Cuban woman is emancipated. Chic hats from the Rue de la Paix or Fifth Avenue adorn her head, replacing the old customs of trailing manton. Her clothes are no longer subdued blues or black, but are of colors comparable to the coat made famous by Joseph.

Time was when Cuban women fled as men approached. But no longer. The emancipated Cuban woman receives men and entertains men, much to the apparent disapproval of the die-hard who hold to ancient customs.

The Cuban girl is a prototype of her northern sister. If anything she has more style, is smarter and, inasmuch as her clothes are often labeled with the name of a famous shop, she is a Parisienne from the tip of her dainty shoes to the top of her small hat.

This "Cubanita"—or tiny Cuban—goes to her clubs, often sidetracks her "duenna," likes her movies served up with plenty of Hollywood kick and enjoys her cabaret excursions. She is America, but she is more exotic, not so outspoken and inclined to a more serious trend of thought. Her mother more often than not appears to be her sister. Cuban matrons are as religious in their exercise and conditioning treatments as are the Riverside drive social leaders or the girls who tread the boards at beauty shows. Excess weight is countenanced no more than man made rules, reminiscent of harem seclusion. This applies to the middle class as well as to the circle of "dons" and "damas."

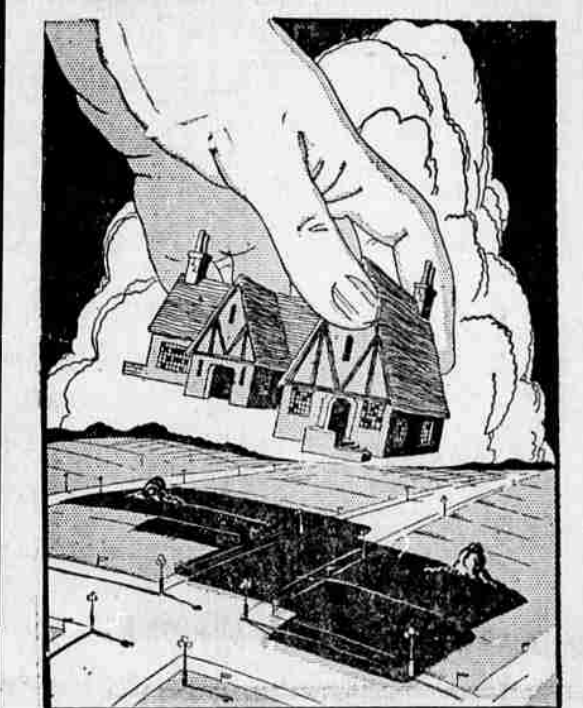

It is not unusual to see a trim roadster flit along one of the fashionable drives of Havana, filled to the rumber seat with keen, black-eyed beauties. Where as a few years ago this condition would have brought forth exclamations of dismay from parents and shouts of consternation from police, the Cuban woman driving her own car is now accepted. The foot of a Cuban girl proves to be as heavy on the gas as it is light in the circlings of the danceton. Miss Cuba is a speeder!

Emancipation of the Cuban woman does not stop at discarding old Spanish styles nor at the right to pilot their own car. It extends to beaches, where the one-piece bathing suit is adopted and beach pajamas are worn with European indifference.

Now the Cuban woman is seeking suffrage at the polls, the right to hold political office and to share equally with men the island's governing bodies and serving as legislators. The bill for the ballot lacks only the signature of the president to be ratified.

ASHLAND PLANS CELEBRATION ON FOURTH OF JULY

ASHLAND, May 29.—(Special)—Ashland is to celebrate the Fourth of July. The celebration will be put on by the Lithians, who will be supported by civic and patriotic organizations which will each do its part in the proper observance of the day. It is possible that there may be a program that will occupy two or three days, but plans have not matured yet to a point where a definite announcement can be made.

Everything is in readiness for the graduating exercises of the Ashland high school tonight at the junior high school gymnasium.

The address will be given by U. G. Dubach, dean of men at the Oregon State college, and the diplomas will be presented by Hal McNair, chairman of the board of education. Miss Madge Marcan will give the valedictory.

A new plan will be followed this year and gifts and flowers will not be presented on the stage as in former years, and only one floral gift will be presented on the stage as the presentation of flowers requires too much time. Besides, there is the chance of losing valuable gifts.

Clyde Malone, city electric superintendent, has accepted a position with the Hawaiian Electric company at Honolulu, and will leave Ashland June 14. Mr. Malone was formerly connected with the company for more than three years. He will be superintendent of the electrical construction of the new 20,000 k. w. plant, which will give the company a 50,000 k. w. capacity.

Mr. Malone has been an active member of the Elks, Lithians, American Legion and Chamber of Commerce, and has done much for the advancement of Ashland. Friends are expressing much regret over the departure of the family.

Ashland has four graduates from the Oregon State College this June. Miss Rosina Gallatin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Gallatin, will take a degree in home economics. Arto Swingle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arto Swingle, receives a degree from the department of electrical engineering. Robert Wright graduates from the school of commerce, and Wayne Holdridge is of the school of business administration. The four have made enviable records in the school and have also taken an active part in school activities.

Mrs. C. E. Shinn and baby boy, who have been spending a few days with Ashland relatives left on Monday for their home at Los Angeles.

Miss Gertrude Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Brown on Holly street, has returned from Umatilla where she has taught during the past year.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hodgkinson of Grants Pass were here for the week-end visiting with their daughter, Mrs. Allen Autrey.

The lease on the Logan field, the present Biltmore municipal airport, is to be renewed for another five-year period or until the new municipal airport becomes available for use. An additional 70 acres is being considered and other improvements and changes will be effected at once. Authorities in charge of developing the Amarillo, Tex., municipal airport are planning the installation of complete facilities necessary to obtain the highest department of commerce airport rating. The new equipment is to be in place before fall.

The hydrographic office of the navy department has just released two new aviation charts, which cover portions of the Pacific coast. The maps show the areas between San Diego and Point Luis Obispo and between Astoria, Ore., and Vancouver Island, B. C. --- Is Quality

THERE are people to whom Plymouth's big attraction is its Chrysler-designed smartness. Some people buy the full-size Plymouth largely because it is so unusually roomy and comfortable—by far the largest and roomiest car to be had at anywhere near its price.

To other people, the main reason for buying Plymouth is Plymouth's impressive power—its amazing pick-up, its unflagging stamina, its delightful smoothness and flexibility.

Still other people choose Plymouth primarily because it is so safe to drive, with its perfect balance and stability and the positive control of its Chrysler weather-proof internal-expanding four-wheel hydraulic brakes.

Withal, the Chrysler-built Plymouth is a phenomenally low-priced car—and one extremely economical to operate.

Whatever special reasons people may have in buying Plymouth, they are one and all conscious of Plymouth's unapproachable quality.

With its new refinements and inherent engineering improvements, the full-size

Plymouth demonstrates a standard of performance and offers a measure of quality and value, entirely without precedent or parallel in the low-priced field.

PLYMOUTH has been so named because its endurance and strength, ruggedness and freedom from limitations so accurately typify that stalwart Pilgrim band who were among the first American Colonists.
