Long Life to Them. Down Goes Wheat. As It Pleases. German-American Deals.

(Copyright by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

You hope that "the" young couple will live many years happily, and everybody knows that you mean Colonel Lindbergh and his wife.

There is happiness in being well known, and well liked, for two good reasons, and young Lindbergh possesses it.

Without exception, the entire world wishes him well.

The price of wheat dropped to 97.1-4 cents Monday, lowest price since 1914.

But the conduct of the Federal Reserve will attract President Hoover's attention, if wheat, cotton and other farm products continue dropping.

It is embarrassing to take office on a "save the farmer" platform and find that your Federal Reserve is hitting the wheat and cotton grower on the head.

An able American banker who has built himself a fortune greater than the combined fortunes of all the Federal Reserve gentlemen, said Monday:

"Nobody understands the Federal Reserve, what it is doing or what it is trying to do.

"It can do about as it d—pleases, and it does as it d—pleases."

That's the situation briefly.

"A combination between the Henry Ford plant in Germany and the great German dye trust, which has hundreds of millions of real money, is interesting and important news in the development of "big business."

Germany needs small, cheap motors. Ford has them.

Ford needs gigantic quantities of paint, in his production of 8000 cars a day. Germany's dye works have the paint.

Thus American and German business are united through Ford and the dye works.

Before this announcement came, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., the head of General Motors, had bought the biggest automobile plant in Germany as European agency of General Motors.

Here in America the DuPont Company, biggest of General Motors, is a gigantic manufacturer of paint, especially automobile paint.

Thus two great competing American concerns are allied with German concerns in production.

As in former years, today's parade was impressive, and especially impressive were the eight marching veterans who bore up well under the strain of advancing years, followed by several others forced to ride in autos.

Led by the Elks' band, playing a funeral dirge, the parade passed at the Bear Creek bridge where honors were paid to the memory of the soldier and navy dead.

The order of the parade was as follows:
