It snowed so heavy all of Thursday night and yesterday forenoon at Center Lake national park that when Chief Ranger Wm. C. Godfrey left the park yesterday noon to come to Medford for a few days, he estimated that nine inches of fresh snow had fallen at the rim up to that time. However, at Anna Springs camp the snow was melting away almost as fast as it fell. It is thought that it continued to snow all of yesterday and last night, and that snow was again piling up at the park today.

CONSIDER AIRPORT BIDS AT TUESDAY COUNCIL MEETING

At its regular meeting next Tuesday night the city council will consider the bids opened at a special meeting last night for furnishing gravel and draining tile for the new airport field, decide which bid on each is the best one, and make the award at that time. In general the number of bids opened last night and the bids themselves are quite satisfactory to the city officials. They will be figured up and otherwise considered by the airport committee of the city council—Messrs. J. O. Gray, E. M. Wilson and R. B. Hammond—and Mayor A. W. Pipes, which will make its recommendation Tuesday night. The bids for furnishing 12,500 feet of gravel were submitted by C. A. Hartley, the Medford Concrete & Construction Co. and R. L. Stuart & Sons, all of Medford. The bids for 20,200 feet of drain tiling were submitted by the Carvallis Brick & Tile Co. of Corvallis and C. A. GRUFF MEN MAKE BEST EXECUTIVE PROFESSOR SAYS

FRENCH LICK, Ind., June 2 (AP)—A cross section of the traits which build executive leadership, taken direct from American industry, was presented before the National Association of Office Managers at its meeting here. The report was from Dr. Donald A. Laird, director of Colgate university, psychological laboratory. He was assisted in the studies by E. S. Copeland, W. L. Webb and Everett Holt. The findings summarize qualifications of "strong" men, marked by their superiors for more pay and executive leadership responsibility, and "weak" men who just failed to get the job. Dr. Laird said many pet theories were upset. Neither type differed noticeably in "nutriment" in people. "Fair play" while "hard work" was not the key to success as between the two groups. Self-control under trying conditions also appeared of small importance, and the "weak" leaders rated slightly the higher in patience. "The outstanding general traits of the executive of strong leadership," said Dr. Laird, "seems to be in processes others as having self-confidence, how well he plans and organizes routine and subordinates, general business judgment and aggressiveness, his foresight in anticipating future developments, his knowledge of the details of his present job, his willingness to take over responsibility and his ability to carry it out." "This is rather a different picture from one gained from literary sources. It is not human or pleasing personality qualities that have made the leader. "As a matter of fact practically half of the marked leaders had a noticeable dislike of some of their associates, had a temper, did not know about the business conditions or troubles of the people, were argumentative, and people did not come to them for confidential advice. "The strong leader braggard more. He is a bit more vulgar, is somewhat likely to interrupt others, than are the weak leaders." 71*

ORDER IRON WORKERS ON STRIKE IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, June 1.—(AP) Bridge and structural iron workers were ordered last night by the executive board of their union to strike today for higher wages. The strike was expected to hit up $200,000,000 in new construction work and to affect 2,200 workers. The strike order was issued after several months' negotiations between the union and the iron league, representing contractors, had failed. The union wanted an increase from $12 to $14 a day, but agreed to compromise upon $12. The league offered $12.50. The last wage agreement of $12 expired last night. 71*

CITY LOTS TO GO AT BARGAIN PRICE

The long prepared for and long expected sale of 150 city lots, taken over by the city for delinquent taxes, and on which clear titles will be given, will be begun Monday. There are all kinds of lots, including some of the best in Medford, of varying value, according to location and improvements. Each lot will be sold for $10 cash payment down and $10 a month thereafter until paid for. The lots have all been appraised by the land appraisal committee of the city council, and the price of each has been fixed by that committee. The sale, which will be in charge of the realty dealers of the city, who will make an intensive week's drive at its start, will afford an excellent opportunity for one to purchase valuable Medford real estate at bargain prices. According to inquiries made of city officials and the real estate men for the past two weeks about this sale, the lots will sell very fast, and anyone contemplating buying is warned to hurry and buy early, before the majority of the most desirable lots are gone. Each realty dealer has a list of the lots and the description and price of each. 71*

MOONSHINE SALE PROVES MISTAKE

A. J. Gould, who operates a service station at Gold Hill made one of the regretted mistakes of his life when he sold a gallon of moonshine liquor to A. E. Marriott, a state prohibition enforcement officer, whom he mistook for a very thirsty native hereabouts to whom it was thought safe to make the sale. And the worst thing about Gould's mistake is that Marriott has been working in this locality for several weeks past and had been pretty well "spotted" by the illegal liquor selling fraternity. That indicates that Gould was not a charter member of that body, and hadn't been a regular attendant at its meetings and illustrates again that in business one cannot mix off and booze profitably with any margin of security. In Justice Taylor's court this forenoon, following his arrest, Gould pleaded guilty to selling moonshine to Marriott, and was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to serve 15 days in the county jail. 71*

DICK KNOWS JOKE SINCE CITY TRIPS

The high flying joke by L. Walter Dick, head of the Medford weather bureau, during his several days' absence from the city this week, spent in going back and forth by airplane between Oakland and San Francisco and Portland, on business with the heads of the weather bureau of the Oakland airport heads, evidently went to his head. "Did you hear about that empty bottle?" asked the local meteorologist, as he straightened up from studying a weather map this forenoon. "No, what was it?" eagerly inquired the unsuspecting news hound on his duty shift. "Oh, there's nothing in it," was the reply as he snickered a St. Louis smile and fell to studying the map again. A moment later Mr. Dick looked up with an intent look on his face and inquired: "What is a string?" This was too much for the reporter, who fled for the elevator merrily that Medford men returning from the Barbary Coast at San Francisco years ago did not bring back such weak stories or gags. 71*

INVENTOR WOULD BUILD PECULIAR AIRPLANES HERE

Giving Medford the opportunity of giving birth to a new airplane device, claimed by its inventor as something altogether new in the aviation world, the chamber of commerce was in receipt of a letter today from J. Brush Anderson of Oakland, Calif. Mr. Anderson in his letter admits it is finances he is after, but thinks he is giving the city a rare opportunity in making the offer to the local chamber. The ship has never been constructed and so far it is only the brain child of a hopeful inventor. Anderson wrote as follows: "I believe I can give your city a big boost by an advertising stunt I have in mind with a new airplane device that will make flying safer. I have enclosed a photo to tell the story. "The Autogiro has proven successful in a vertical landing and this plane is built on that order somewhat, only using wings and placing the landing device away while not in use. A plane that can land vertically will be a novelty and will cause much publicity for the city it falls from. "If you can and will put up the money for the plane, I will do the flying, and that will be another novelty, for few men of my age, 55 years, are aviators. This will help stimulate aviation. Each article that comes out will help people get acquainted with Medford and its surrounding country, as I would give lectures on the northwest, showing my wonderful collection of hand colored slides. I have been showing for years, I was in your city a couple of years ago and raised some money for the Seventh Day Adventist church, if you will remember. "The reason I am making this offer to you is because I am from Oregon and I have been assured plans can be constructed to meet my requirements in New York by a well known concern that has offered to build for a sum not to exceed $5000 and guarantee same. "Now if you want some cheap advertising for a few months, I will give you the use of my time and let you use my talent to build a plane. You can sell the
