What Will Labor Do? Women as Lawmakers. 36 Per Cent a Year. 90 Billion Income.

(Copyright by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Labor appears to have won the British election. British labor is socialistic, much of it communistic, but of mild communism.

Imagine the panic in dear old Wall Street and every well organized financial mind if labor and socialism controlled the government of this country.

But the British will manage. They "muddle through" because they have common sense and honest, intelligent leaders.

Ramsay MacDonald is as good a man as there is in Britain, although not as great or able a statesman as Lloyd George.

Millions of Britishers that do not like Lady Astor's politics are glad she is re-elected.

Ten women will sit in the new house of commons. Four are in the house of representatives. There ought to be at least 200.

Soon there will be a woman in the senate. Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, daughter of Mark Hanna, now in the house of representatives, will be sent to the senate next spring by the people of Illinois. They recognize earnestness and ability, and are proud of their intelligent women.

"Seest thou a man diligent in his business. He shall stand before kings." The Bible says it, and Wall Street brokers can prove it.

Financial gentlemen, diligent in their business, have arranged charge 1 per cent on a call "day loan." That is, for temporary certification of overdraft for one day.

That little charge, dearly beloved, is at the rate of only 1 per cent a year. It doesn't amount to a great deal, only about $13,500 a day or $4,000,000 a year. But every little helps.

Professor Copeland of Cornell, after a careful investigation, figures the income of the United States at ninety billion a year.

About a year ago Mr. Ecker gave the same figures. His work as president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company gives him accurate information.

The important fact supplied by Mr. Ecker is that wages and salaries equal sixty billion a year.

Living expenses equal forty-five billion, leaving fifteen billion over, as a "backlog" for national prosperity, luxuries, investments, etc.

For those who talk golf seriously and don't believe the professional who says, "You look up and stop short when you swing," the latest idea is to have a low motion moving picture made of the play in action. Try it if you can afford it; you will be surprised.

Many of us would be surprised to see a slow moving picture of our brains, if that were possible.

CONGRESS TO RECESS, HEAT IRKS

Statesmen Dislike to Sweat and Consider Tariff and Farm Bill — Expect to Settle Both Issues Ere December — G. O. P. Leaders Opposed to Dodging of Old Sol.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(AP)—Democratic support of the program to dispose of the tariff bill before the regular session begins in December eased up the congressional situation today and set Republican leaders to planning anew on a recess over the hot summer months.

This threat of Washington's summer heat also appears to be giving President Hoover a whip hand on his extra session program leading force for the drive to dispose of the farm relief controversy at an early date.

If farm relief and the census re-appointment bills are enacted and definite assurance given of a final vote on the tariff measure before December, Mr. Hoover will sanction a recess until September.

Senator Simmons of North Carolina, the ranking Democrat on the finance committee, announced today after a conference of the minority members of the committee, that the Democrats would agree that a date be fixed assuring final disposition of the tariff before the regular session in December.

Senator Simmons said he did not want a definite date on which the tariff bill would be voted upon but that the Democrats would endeavor to get the bill passed before the end of the month and before the conference of the senate and house on farm relief about ready to abandon the controversial export debarment provision of the senate bill to which the president is so strongly opposed.

Senator Borah and Senator Jones of Washington, the assistant Republican leader, are both against the vacation and want the senate to stay here, hot or cold, until the tariff bill is enacted.

Senator Smoot, the chairman of the finance committee, says it is going to take two months to get the house tariff bill in shape for senate consideration.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(AP)—Administration leaders expressed the opinion today that the senate will uphold a prospective recommendation by the farm relief conference committee to eliminate the export debarment plan from the farm relief bill to be presented to congress next week in final approval.

A careful check of the senate membership was held to have show that three of four senators who voted for the debarment plan last month have decided to support the conference report recommending the elimination of the theory that farm legislation would be greatly delayed if the controversy over this proposal is further prolonged.

With this situation in mind, the leaders are prepared to ask a vote in the senate on the conference report as soon as the conferees complete their work. Senator McNary of Oregon, chairman of the conferees, said he expected this to be early next week. The conferees had hoped to complete their work today but found it impossible to do so.

If the predictions of the leaders are borne out the few remaining steps necessary to send a farm bill to President Hoover would be taken without difficulty. The house is expected to approve the conference report practically without debate.

In the senate the debarment extremists might wait a last ditch fight to retain the provision they favor.

COPCO BUYS 4 AC. TRACT FOR $100,000 PLANT

Land Near P. and E. Right of Way Purchased From Dr. I. D. Phipps — No Price Named in Papers Filed With County Clerk — Early Construction Expected.

A bill of sale, transferring four acres of land on the Pacific and Eastern railroad right of way, by Dr. I. D. Phipps of this city, to the California Oregon Power company, was filed in the county clerk's office Friday. The amount involved was listed "not one dollar and other valuable consideration." The deal has been pending for some time.

The company will use the land for the erection of a sub-station to cost $100,000, and will start work thereon, within a short time.

The new sub-station will be an important factor in the furnishing of the air mail route between Delta, Calif. and Drexel, Oregon, estimates of which were filed by the power company with the Aviation section of the Department of Commerce last week.

Local Copco officials said that the plans for the new sub-station were still in the hands of the Pillsbury company of Chicago, but that machinery and other equipment, for immediate delivery.

The county court recently declared an adjoining strip of the Pacific and Eastern right of way, a county road.

The site for the new sub-station is located just off East Jackson street. Its construction is one of the major items on the California Oregon Power company building program for this year.

POLITICAL GUIDANCE BY BISHOP

Virginia Democrats Told By Anti-Saloon League Chief To Oppose Al Smith Supporters in Primary—Only One Gubernatorial Candidate Speaks Up.

RICHMOND, Va., June 1.—(AP)—Democratic party leaders of Virginia, with one exception, read without comment today the advice given Virginia anti-Saloon Democrats by Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, who endorsed an anti-Smith ticket for state officers and called for vigorous opposition to state Democratic leaders who supported Alfred E. Smith for the presidency.

Roswell Page, one of three candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor, however, said the Cannon statement would "liberate friends of mine who thought they had to vote for the friend or the opponent of James Cannon, Jr." Bishop Cannon was charged with misleading Democrats into believing he was a Democrat while supporting the Republican nominee last year, in a statement issued by Mr. Page.

Governor Harry F. Byrd, Democratic national committeeman for Virginia, made no comment on the Cannon letter, written to anti-Smith leaders in Virginia. John Garland Pollard, Democratic candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, kept the same silence, while G. Walter Mapp, the third candidate for governor in the Democratic primary, could not be seen for a statement.

Bishop Cannon, meanwhile, declined to amplify his position as to which of the three candidates for the Democratic nomination he had in mind in making the suggestion. "If I were shut up to a choice among the three candidates for the Democratic primary nomination there would be no question in my own mind for which candidate I would vote."

"I do not wish to supplement my letter," Bishop Cannon told reporters, adding he was sorry if his meaning was not clear to every one familiar with the present political situation in Virginia.

Virginia is the first of the five southern states which voted for Hoover to hold a state election. The three Democratic candidates for governor in the August primary are already stumping the state, the anti-Smith Democrats having announced their intention to nominate a ticket, will hold a convention in Roanoke, June 18. The Republican state convention will be held in Richmond, June 26.

THREE MORE FOR CELLS AT SALEM

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 1.—(AP)—A burglar, one of the dumb, unobscuring type, in the opinion of police, is at large in Milwaukee. Nevertheless he is energetic.

Last night, police learned today, cut a pane of glass in a locked window at the Wisconsin hotel plant in order to gain entrance when the next window was wide open.

An error like this might be excused, but once inside the place the burglar drilled into the safe, which was unlocked. He drilled and hammered the safe so much in an effort to open it that Constans Buntz, the proprietor, could not open it himself today. There was no money in the safe, Buntz said.

BOSC GROWERS CALL HEINRICH FOR ROSEBURG EASTERN MARTS

Majority Report of Committee Carried at Saturday Meet—Canvass Of All Bosc Growers to Follow — Carpenter Files Minority Report.

Bosc pear growers, representing 40 per cent of the production (tonnage) of the Rogue River valley, at a meeting Saturday afternoon voted overwhelmingly for the inclusion of Pittsburgh and Detroit as new marketing centers. An assessment of 5 cents per box of Bosc pears was voted to bear the advertising and other expenses of the innovation.

It was also voted at the meeting to conduct a canvass of the Bosc pear growers to determine the Bosc tonnage and to hold another meeting in the near future when further campaign would be determined.

It was suggested that an advertising expert be secured to advise on the proper handling of the Bosc, and that Professor Hartman of the Oregon State college be hired to make an educational campaign in eastern markets and counsel on the methods to be pursued. Professor Hartman, it was explained, was conversant with all details of southern Oregon pear production.

A proposal to assess a cent a box on all winter pear varieties for educational and advertising purposes was held in abeyance to be considered later.

A minority report submitted by Leonard Carpenter, president of the Southern Oregon Sales, Inc., was rejected by a vote of 19 to 4. Mr. Carpenter held that an invasion of new markets was in the nature of an experiment, and ill-advised at this time. He held that new markets would weaken the hold Rogue River valley pears now enjoy on the New York auction markets.

He said that as a grower he opposed the report of the committee, but as a shipper he was neutral. To retreat from the leading market of the nation at this time was to invite a major disaster, he declared, and favored an educational campaign. He held that a survey of the eastern pear market situation would enable the grower to approach the problem a year hence with a clearer understanding. Paul Scherer, in a short address, upheld this view.

The minority report of Mr. Carpenter was filed. It declared that the plan advanced by the Bosc committee was "a question of technical salesmanship, by a non-technical committee," and a question of co-operation in a valley notoriously non-co-operative.

The majority report held that only by new markets could the valley hope to meet the problems of steadily increasing production. It maintained that only extra fancy Bosc be shipped to the new markets and that the word "Medford" be stressed. It was suggested that a district manager be furnished by eastern distributors, for a 90-day period in Detroit and Pittsburgh. The plan offered by the majority report had been approved by the heads of leading distributing concerns in this valley.

Bert Anderson and J. C. Barnes both spoke in favor of the majority plan. Barnes, a member of the committee, said he felt like dropping out of the contest.

BEER, WINE HELD CURE IN ESSAYS

New York Jurist's Plan Wins Hearst Prize—Repeal of Volstead Act and State Control Favored — Hard Liquor Frowned Upon and No End of Present Farce In Sight.

NEW YORK, June 1.—(AP)—Franklin Chase Hoyt, presiding justice of the New York City children's court, today was announced the winner of the $25,000 prize contest for the best temperance plan, sponsored by the Hearst newspapers.

The plan, in brief, suggested a repeal of the Volstead act, and a new congressional definition of intoxicating liquors, which would make possible light wines and beers under state control.

Other prizes were: Second, $5000—Brigadier General Albert Clayton Dalton, U. S. army, retired, Washington.

Third, $2000—Capt. Thomas W. Therkildsen, executive secretary of the Moderation league, New York.

Fourth, 1000—James B. Quinlan, Jr., 1504 West Ramona boulevard, Alhambra, Cal.

Justice Hoyt expressed his opinion that the 18th amendment cannot be replaced for many years to come. He drew a distinct "line" between distilled and fermented liquors, saying that "distillation is the act of man and has been responsible for practically all the evils which liquor has inflicted upon the human race, while fermentation is the act of Nature, and that to many must mean, in the most reverential sense, 'the act of God.'"

His plan would bar "all alcoholic products of distillation" but would permit the control, manufacture and sale of all malt, brewed and fermented beverages by the states within their own borders.

All four of the prize winning plans agreed upon the present impracticability of repealing or the amending of the 18th amendment, the award committee announced. The plans further agreed "specifically or by implication, in the desirability of returning to the states the fullest measure of control, especially in the matter of light wines and beer," the committee announced.

"Justice Hoyt" added the committee statement, "goes directly to the heart of the problem of making possible the return of light wines and beers under state control and retaining federal prohibition of distilled spirits under a workable definition of the words 'intoxicating liquor' as contained in the eighteenth amendment."

Justice Hoyt based his plan on the premise that the repeal of the eighteenth amendment is neither possible nor practicable at this time; that the present prohibition of the states at the option to dispense liquor will never prove acceptable and that a possible modification of the Volstead act as to the alcoholic content of beverages offers no real solution of the problem.

He contended, however, that the repeal of the Volstead act and "an intelligent definition" of the terms "intoxicating liquors" and "alcoholic beverages" would offer a solution which would promote temperance and unite all sections of the country in support of the law.

Justice Hoyt pointed out that "the eighteenth amendment prohibits the manufacture, sale and transportation of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes," despite popular belief, he continues, "does not refer to 'alcoholic beverages,' what it bars is 'intoxicating liquors,' and if these two words could be defined intelligently it would solve the whole problem. He suggested that the words 'intoxicating liquors' in the Volstead act be changed to 'all-alcoholic products of distillation.'"

The word "liquor" was in the past applied to distilled spirits such as whiskey, gin and brandy, the justice asserted, and was distinguished from beer and wine.

The winning manuscripts were selected out of 71,348 plans submitted. The judges were: Former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri; Representative James M. Beck of Pennsylvania; Representative Florence P. Kahn of California; Monsignor John L. Belford of New York; Rear Admiral Cary Y. Grayson (retired) of Washington; Nathan Kraas of New York and Archbishop Joseph H. Oshon, the president of the Church Temperance society.

FEAR FOUL PLAY ATTENDS MISSING COLVILLE DOCTOR

SPOKANE, Wash., June 1.—(AP)—Dr. R. J. Young, optometrist of Colville, who has been missing six days, may have met with foul play, Colville citizens said as a search was started today. He left Colville in a car for Republic, it was said, but he never reached the latter town. A check of towns along the highways has started. His sister, Dr. Mae Jones, of Spokane, said she thought he might have gone to Hillsboro, Ore., where his father, J. T. Young, died last night.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 1.—(AP)—Dr. J. L. Young, optometrist, missing six days and for whom friends fear foul play, had not arrived at Hillsboro, Ore., tonight, where his father, J. T. Young, died last night.

Dr. Young, Colville citizens say, left in an automobile for Republic, Wash., but never arrived.

Portland police have been requested to aid in the search, investigated by his sister, Dr. Mae Jones, who told police there her brother might have gone to Hillsboro to attend his father's funeral.

NEW YORK, June 1.—(AP)—Al Laessman, giant football star of New York university, who was severely injured in a football game at Pittsburgh last fall, today underwent an operation designed to repair the injury to his brain. Doctors announced that the operation was entirely successful.
