VAN WINKLE TO SEEK EXCISE TAX REHEARING

SALEM, Ore., June 8.—(AP)—Attorney General Van Winkle will go to Boston to attend a conference of state officials relative to a request for rehearing of the case of McCallum vs. Massachusetts, and also to intervene for the state of Oregon in the petition for returning of that case.

The McCallum case is the one in which the Massachusetts supreme court held that the income from tax-exempt securities is not assessable under an excise tax law. This was a holding on the new Oregon excise tax, and it is said the decision would reduce Oregon tax revenue by about $100,000.

Oregon banks, it is said, hold federal tax-exempt securities in excess of $50,000,000.

PROM PLAN DROPPED BECAUSE OF NEGROES

EVANSTON, Ill., June 8.—(AP)—There will be no junior "prom" at the Evanston township high school this year because 13 negro students will not relinquish their right to attend as members of the class.

DISPLAY SAMPLES MIDGET CURRENCY

Samples of the new small size currency, soon to be in general distribution in the United States, are on display at the First National bank in one-two, five and ten dollar denominations. The new currency, because of its size, will save the government a huge sum in the cost of printing, taking a less amount of paper and ink.

The secretary of the treasury has fixed July 6 as the date for the initial issue of the currency through the federal reserve banks and branches. The outstanding currency, of which there is estimated to be $67 million pieces, will be recalled gradually during the course of business, and may make it inconvenient for citizens to keep the two sizes separated.

After the old issue has been entirely recalled, there is also a possibility that bill folds may take on a new size to fit the modern currency.

SHRINE SPECIALS USE CASCADE ROUTE HOME

While quite a number of special Shrine trains from the east, south and middle west were scheduled to pass through Oregon the last of this week and tomorrow on return trips home from the national Shrine convention at Los Angeles, the local district office of the Southern Pacific railroad today did not know whether any of them were routed through Medford, but it is expected that several at least will come through Medford by the Shasta route.

The great majority of these trains will come through Oregon by the Cascade route—Klamath Falls, Eugene and Portland, 42 of them, bearing 5234 Shriners. In addition there will be 15 special car Shriners parties.

Were it not for the Natron cut-off, all these special trains and cars would pass through Medford.

Demonstrating the hardiness of pea lilies, or winter blue grass, W. R. Sherman arrived in Medford today with blue grass exhibits from Montague to be displayed at the chamber of commerce soon. A feature of the display is a large rock, in which several stalks of the grass is growing.

Seeds had been blown on the rock and, settling in a crevice, began to grow. The roots pushed themselves several inches through the fissures of the stone and took root in the ground below. The grass that resulted is a healthy appearing specimen, and is regarded as a rare freak. The stone was on the ranch property of Mrs. E. E. Ellison of Edgewood.
