

ENTERPRISE FOLK PROTEST ARTICLE BY HOMESICK ONE

Former residents of the Enterprise district of Wallowa county in eastern Oregon, residing in this city, have filed a protest against the following article, which appeared in the Enterprise Record-Chief, May 30:

Frank Baker returned Monday from Medford, where he went a few days ago with Fred ("Shorty") Rhodes, thinking he might remain through the fruit season. He found conditions not to his liking. The California fruit crop is very short and hundreds of workers have come into Oregon and every packing plant has a long list of applicants for employment. Most can be hired at from $1 a day and up according to circumstances in each case.

The shortage in California is due to frost, which the southern Oregon growers have avoided by repeated "smudging," burning coal in open grates in the orchards. The smoke fills the air and gathers on walls of houses and on clothing. Even the dogs are discolored by it, Mr. Baker said. The pear crop promises to be heavy and the prices are high. "Shorty" Rhodes remained at Medford, where he has two sisters. The wages and the smudging methods as depicted will be a surprise to local folks. Fred Rhodes, named in the above article, called at this office Monday and said that 25 or 30 former Enterprise living here were "put out" by the article. Rhodes said that Arthur West, painting contractor, had offered Baker work here at $7 per day "if he would wait three days." Instead, he returned to Enterprise. Baker, according to Rhodes and others, was "homesick." The delegation that visited this office was strong in the statements that they had found conditions better than they expected and were "more than satisfied."

KIWANIS CONFERENCE TO OPEN WEDNESDAY

Delegates from 18 Kiwanis clubs in this division will meet in conference at the Hotel Medford tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock according to Rev. Bill Ray, acting secretary of the local organization during the absence of Carl Y. Tengwald. This will include Kiwanians from Crescent City, Klamath Falls, Bend, Eugene and territories nearer Medford. At seven o'clock in the evening the division ladies night banquet will be held at the Hotel Medford, when at least 150 local and visiting members and their wives will meet for a social evening. The musical feature of the evening will be the appearance of James Stevens, well known operatic baritone, in a group of solos, accompanied by Miss Betty Brown.

HOLMAN RANCH IN TRADE FOR TRACT NEAR HOOD RIVER

One of the largest deals in farm property in the Rogue River valley for some time was consummated last week in the exchange of the E. J. Holman stock and dairy ranch near Grants Pass and a two-story building in Grants Pass for a highly improved 60-acre orchard belonging to Dr. Joseph Methuen, of Portland. The deal was announced today by the Charles A. Wing Agency, Inc. of this city, with a total consideration of the transaction announced at $87,000.

The orchard is located at Hood River and is said to be one of the best orchards in the Pacific northwest. Mr. and Mrs. Holman left Saturday to take possession of their new orchard property. The agency today also reported the sale of the Anna J. Parker home, East Eleventh street, to R. L. Barton; the E. F. Archer home, near the Wing orchards, to Roy R. Bowman; and the Conrad Reinking home on Cottage street to Otto A. Shide.

J. E. Weaver of Central Point is to take possession in a short time of a ranch in Sams valley formerly owned by the state banking department at a consideration of $19,000 through the same agency.

WORLD PEACE IS DEBATED BEFORE ROTARIAN LUNCH

World peace—and the two divergent methods of arriving at it—was the spontaneous topic which filled an hour's program at the Rotary club luncheon this noon.

Rev. E. P. Lawrence, who, in his response to a farewell given in behalf of the Rotary club, by Frank Newman, first touched upon the subject from the ministerial viewpoint. Colonel Kelly, who had been asked by John Perl, program chairman for the day, to speak upon his wartime experiences as a feature of the day's program, switched the trend of his subject and spoke upon "Peace."

That preparedness, and up to date equipment on land, air and sea, is the only means by which any nation may win and hold the respect of other nations, was the gist of Colonel Kelly's vital message.

A veteran of two wars, and a careful student of history, the speaker cited examples wherein the United States as well as other nations, followed the trend of human nature and violated treaties with peoples less strong and less well equipped, bringing home his point that this would not have been attempted in the event of adequate preparedness.

Jack Kerr of Grants Pass, delegate to the International Rotary convention at Dallas, Texas, gave a splendid report upon the meeting in which 23 different countries were represented. His talk also emphasized the importance of world peace, as brought out by Rotary International. This subject was debated at length by speakers from different sections of the world, according to Mr. Kerr, who claimed that the consensus of opinion expressed there, seemed not to be in favor of disarmament and treaties. The idea was that world peace should be planted first in the minds of individuals. War-mindedness should be forgotten gradually, and peace, as an idea, would gain a firm hold throughout the world and become effective, where action, for or against war, has hitherto failed.

WORKERS EXPECT OPEN LOOP ROAD THRU ANNA CAMP

The loop road between Medford and Klamath Falls, through Anna Spring camp in Crater National park, will be open by this evening, or at the very latest by tomorrow forenoon, reports Superintendent E. C. Silinsky, who returned late yesterday from a visit to the park to look after the big work being done there.

He said the workmen engaged in shoveling snow off the Medford entrance road to Anna Spring map were of the opinion when they left the park yesterday that they would have the loop connection all open by this evening, but because there was still so much hard snow to shovel away then he felt doubtful that the task could be accomplished before tomorrow forenoon. The hardest task in the way of opening the park roads by July 1, the date of the Crater Lake season opening, comes in clearing away the snow off the road between Anna Spring camp and the lodge at the lake rim, but Superintendent Silinsky this forenoon said that he would have the job accomplished well under the wire, even if he had to have all of Medford up with muscles and shovels to help.

The snow is not so deep through out, varying only from two and one-half to three feet, but it is almost solidly caked into ice, which has been melting very slowly because of the chilly weather prevailing at the national park. The late spring has greatly affected the snow conditions at the park so far, but a week or more of very warm weather, such as prevailed in previous years before this time in June, will make a wonderful difference in bringing on a copious thaw of this frozen mass on the park roads.

The park superintendent is longing for the time to come when he can move his headquarters up to government camp in the park, because so much of his time is taken up here through so many persons calling at his office to seek park positions. There is no need for further labor at present at the park and all the ranger and other regular positions at the park for the summer were filled some time ago. Hence, as quick as the snow can be removed from the road between Anna Spring camp and government camp the superintendent will lose no time in moving his headquarters and office staff and equipment to the administration building at government camp.

A. J. VANCE ELECTED PORTLAND LION CHIEF

A. J. Vance of Portland, former prominent Medford man, manager of the Home Telephone and Telegraph company and conspicuous in the city's activities, finds much time in devoting his surplus energies, outside of his business duties, to the Lions club of the state metropolis. He will head the Lions club of Portland over the coming year, as he was chosen to that ofice at the annual election of the club held last Friday. The new Lions club president has been an executive of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company ever since leaving Medford years ago, and has been an enthusiastic member of the Lions organization for years past, both in Medford and since locating in Portland. The Oregonian of last Sunday published his picture and a short sketch of him incidental to his being the new Lionist club head of that city.

TICKETS ON SALE FOR JAS. STEVENS CONCERT

Tickets for the James Stevens concert, to be held at the St. Mark's Guild Hall a week from tonight, were placed on sale by the Guild ladies at the Palmer Music House, Heath's and Colvig's drug stores today.

With daily rehearsals being held by the well known operatic baritone and Betty Brown, who is to accompany him at the local concert, and preliminary arrangements for the program, tickets and seating accommodations in the hands of capable committee members, the concert promises to be one of the most enjoyable and well ordered events of the social and musical season.

GOOD ATTENDANCE AT METHODIST SERVICES

Rev. Huff, the evangelist at the Methodist Church, South, spoke to a very good congregation Monday evening on "Christian Stewardship." The hearty response to his propositions shows that the people were very much interested. Many of those in attendance last night seemed to be anxious to find out what the evangelist could get out of his subject tonight, "The Lost Head." Come and hear him in this strange subject.

Meetings began this morning at 10 o'clock for the young people of the Sunday school and League. More than 20 were present and as they left they expressed themselves as being delighted with the morning's study and singing. A cordial invitation is extended to any who wish to attend. Services tonight. Prayer and praise at 7:30 and preaching at 8:00 o'clock. Everybody welcome.
