

OREGONIAN TELLS PLIGHT OF TROUT IN ROGUE WATER

It is the belief of Rogue river valley sportsmen that the many fish found dead in Rogue river below the mouth of Bear creek may have been killed by acid which enters Bear creek as a result of washing spray from the fruit in the packing houses, while others blame it to gasoline and oils permitted to enter the stream through sewers and septic tanks.

To determine whether the acid causes the trouble, an investigation has been begun by Dr. L. D. Inskeep, city health officer of Medford. Plans for neutralizing the acid in the fruit wash are being worked out by packing houses in Medford. In addition to the suggested danger to fish life from dumping the fruit wash into Bear creek, according to P. C. Dillard of Medford's water department, the acid is believed to be destructive to the sewer lines and to the purifying qualities of the septic tank by killing the bacteria that purify the water.

Sportsmen of the valley are calling attention to the same condition existing at all the towns along Bear creek in the valley and at Gold Hill and Rogue River on the Rogue river. Sportsmen from all parts of the Rogue River valley visiting the Savage Rapids dam below Gold Hill say that unless an adequate fishway is constructed around the dam, Rogue river as a favorite angling stream will be doomed. They say there are hundreds of Chinook salmon literally pounding themselves to death on the rocks at the dam looking for a way up stream. Others can be seen with huge chunks knocked from their heads and in a dying condition.

Valley sportsmen, active in the preservation of the fish, are urging that steps be taken to insure the construction of an efficient ladder around Savage Rapids dam. They have no idea where the funds are to come from, but are attempting an appeal to the various interests that the ladderway may be financed from some source.

The dam was constructed by the Grants Pass Irrigation district and according to the sportsmen the district is morally responsible for the present conditions, but owing to its financial circumstances it is improbable that any financial help for the construction of a fish ladder will be obtainable from that source.

A gold dredge operating on Foothills creek, which empties into the river above the dam, is also adding in depleting the river of fish, owing to the muddy water caused by the mining. However, for the rest of the summer, during low water in the creek, this muddy water will be controlled by the dredge company through a system of settling basins, which will solve the problem until higher waters next fall.

AMATEUR SINGERS SIGN FOR TRYOUT AT WATER AUDITION

More than 25 ambitious young singers of southern Oregon have signed up so far for the Atwater Kent preliminary to be held in St. Mark's Guild hall Friday night, June 14. From the number of phone calls and inquiries that have come into the James Stevens studio, 115 North Oakdale, and into the office of the People's Electric store the past few days, even a larger showing of singers will be on hand Friday.

The local contest, which is a forerunner of the national Atwater Kent radio audition, is under the direction of James Stevens and is sponsored by the People's Electric of Medford and Johnson's Electric of Ashland, Atwater Kent radio dealers in this district. Young amateur singers between the ages of 18 and 25 are eligible for the national awards which range from $500 and one year in a leading conservatory, for fifth place, to $5000 in cash and two years in a conservatory as the first prize.

The audition Friday night, which begins at 8:15 in St. Mark's Guild hall, is open to the public. The young singers will be called by number rather than by name, and will be judged by a competent body of musicians and critics, who will sit with their backs to the stage upon which the singers appear.

SENIOR CLASS AT ASHLAND NORMAL GIVEN DIPLOMAS

ASHLAND, Ore., June 12.—(Special)—Sunday, June 9, 1929, marked the third baccalaureate service at the Southern Oregon state normal school, with Dr. David G. Ferguson, minister of the First Presbyterian church of Astoria, Ore., delivering the address. The Rev. P. K. Hammond, vicar of Trinity Episcopal church of Ashland, gave the invocation and pronounced the benediction. James Stevens, baritone, accompanied by Betty Brown, sang "The Builder."

The normal school orchestra, directed by Miss Louise Yoder, played the professional and recessional and the hymn, "How Firm a Foundation," in which all joined, was led by Miss Leona Marsters, head of the music department of the normal. President J. A. Churchill introduced Dr. Ferguson, who delivered a masterly address, holding his audience raptly attentive until the close. One hundred and forty seniors received their diplomas.

Irving E. Vining acted as toastmaster at the annual alumni reception and luncheon held Saturday for the members of the class of 1929, of the Southern Oregon normal. More than 250 were registered for the event. Loren Messenger, in the absence of President J. A. Churchill, who was unable to be present, brought greetings of the faculty staff to the alumni and graduates.

Percy Wells, a graduate of the old normal, responded to the welcome given by Mr. Vining and Lester Beck of the University of Oregon and spoke on the full recognition given work of the local school in colleges and universities. Vernon Trimble, for the class of 1929, and Marie Prescott, for the class of 1928, voiced the sentiments of those bodies. A number of others talked during the luncheon hour.

Loren E. Messenger, Miss Eva White and Miss Lillian Graves were faculty members of the general convocation. Miss Irene Gene Stout was chairman of the decoration committee, assisted by Eva Jane Wilson, Marie Davies, Isabelle Silver and Betty Jones. Mrs. A. H. Pracht and Mrs. Emil Pleh were in charge of the banquet.

NOTED DUTCH WOMAN WILL LECTURE HERE

A world lecturer in the person of a noted Dutch woman, Miss Dykgraaf, is to be a Medford visitor this week. Miss Dykgraaf has for many years been on the international staff of lecturer for the Theosophical Society, but more recently she has been in close contact with Krishnamurti, the young Hindu "World teacher." Miss Dykgraaf is just returning from Ojai, Cal., where Krishnamurti held camp meetings for his American followers during the latter part of May. Miss Dykgraaf's lecture in the Medford Business College next Thursday evening will be an opportunity for Medford to hear one of Krishnamurti's closest associates and to learn at first hand what his movement means to the world today. 39 Hollywood directors say, "No real beauty without lovely skin..."

SALLY EILERS, Sennett-Pathé star, says: "I am most particular about my skin. Lux Toilet Soap gives my skin that same velvety smoothness the finest French soaps do." LAURA LA PLANTE, lovely Universal star, says: "I've used the famous French soaps and know that Lux Toilet Soap is made by the same method—it gives my skin the same marvelous smoothness."

9 out of 10 screen stars keep their skin lovely this way... "THERE'S amazing allure in beautiful smooth skin," declares Carl Laemmle, Jr., director for Universal—and sums up what 39 foremost Hollywood directors have found from their experience with the movies. "Lovely skin is the one charm every star must have," Laemmle goes on to say. "Make-up is no help in the close-up. The skin must be exquisite." Because smooth flawless skin is absolutely necessary for success in motion pictures, 442 of the 451 important Hollywood actresses, including all stars, are devoted to Lux Toilet Soap. And all the great film studios have made it the official soap in their dressing rooms.

Especially for the close-up, when the huge new incandescent "sun-spot" lights pour their terrific brilliance down on a star, the screen actress's skin must be smooth as satin. Nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap—they have found that this daintily fragrant white soap keeps their skin at its loveliest—as smooth as a flower petal.
