DEPUTY IS OBJECT OF MOB ANGER

Little Rock Officer Taken to State Prison for Safety After Slaying Youth Arrested On Intoxication Charge—Boy Shot in Escape Try—Claim Accidental.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 18.—(AP)—Deputy Sheriff George Johnson, charged with murder in the slaying of Glenn Quay, 22, at Newport, Ark., was held today in the state penitentiary here after his removal from two jails yesterday in fear of mob violence.

Quay was shot through the back by Johnson as he broke away from the officer after being arrested on a charge of intoxication. The youth's dash for liberty was made near the police station door and the fatal shot was fired as he darted into an alley.

Johnson first was removed to the county jail at Batesville after a crowd of men, incensed at what they described as unwarranted use of a pistol by an officer, gathered about the local jail. Later Sheriff D. L. Nance said he had heard reports that the Batesville jail was about to be stormed and advised that the prisoner be removed to the penitentiary.

The deputy sheriff was brought here in the custody of Chief of Police G. C. Martin of Newport and several other officers. At first he refused to discuss the slaying but later told penitentiary officials the youth suddenly struck him as they entered the jail at Newport and then drew my pistol," Johnson said, "intending to shoot only to frighten him, but I stubbed my toe and the weapon discharged accidentally."

Johnson's statement affirmed an explanation of the shooting given yesterday by Chief Martin at 8:15. Quay was shot Sunday night and the officer arrested and charged with murder yesterday. Johnson will be held here until his preliminary hearing is arranged.

The deputy sheriff is the father of 10 children.

STEVENS RECITAL HAS VARIETY AND APPEAL

Medford's reducing diet—musically speaking—will be called off for tonight, and the audience which it is expected, will crowd St. Mark's Guild Hall at 8:15 will again fully gratify its appetite for choice delicacies as selected by James Stevens, operatic baritone, accompanied in his home-coming song recital by Betty Brown.

James Stevens is that rare and happy combination of artist and human being, and knows better than anyone else what his public will enjoy. Not only will the program arranged for tonight provide an unusual variety, but every selection, whether classical or modern, has a popular appeal.

In spite of the fact that he has accumulated a brand new repertoire since he was last heard in Medford, the singer has considerably included some of the old favorites, which are invariably requested on all of his programs. Of special local appeal will be the two clever song miniatures composed by Miss Jeneusse Butler, Medford musician, to be introduced for the first time by James Stevens.

BOOTERY WINDOW HAS NOVEL SCENIC DISPLAY

A clever combination of impressionistic and realistic effects is included in the makeup of the Bootery window display this week. The usual plush sophistication of this window has been transformed through the artistry of Tom Swann into refreshing glimpses of Diamond Lake, the Rogue valley golf course, Crater Lake and other familiar scenes.

In keeping with these scenes are the realistic green turf patches upon which rustic stools, benches and bark covered tree stumps set. Upon each of these and directly in front of the various outdoor scenes depicted, the corresponding sport shoes from the Bootery stock are displayed.

Celebrate Battle. BOSTON, June 17.—(AP)—Boston today was celebrating the 154th anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill, one of the most famous events in the struggle for American independence. The principal event on the holiday program was a parade in which many military and civic organizations took part.

U. S. TO HAVE FIFTH CATHOLIC CARDINAL

VATICAN CITY, June 18.—(AP)—Populi of Rome today said the United States probably would receive a fifth cardinal, Latin America a second and Spain a fifth in a forthcoming consistory during the first 10 days of October. Other sources, however, insisted there would be no consistory before the close of the papal jubilee year, December 29, and that then the proposition of non-Italian cardinals would be increased. There are now 12 vacancies.

WOMEN PILOTS VISIT AIRPORT IN CLUB WORK

Party Enlisting Interest in Aviation Country Clubs—Plan Chain of Private Flying Fields Throughout Nation.

On a tour which began last March and one which every state in the union is to be visited, in an effort to create interest in the establishment of aviation country clubs, already popular in the east, R. C. Oertel, C. O. Bedford and Miss Ruth Nichols of New York City, flying two Curtiss planes, were visitors at the Medford airport yesterday afternoon, en route to Portland and Seattle. The party was accompanied by a second woman pilot, Miss Margaret Perry of New York City, flying a new Spartan biplane.

Miss Nichols, with six years aviation experience, has flown her ship since leaving New York with two men in a cabin plane. These two ships were joined at Tulsa, Okla., by Miss Perry, who plans to return to Los Angeles next week to make further preparations for entering the girls' air derby from Los Angeles to Cleveland, O., next September. She has had experience of only a few months, but despite that fact she is said to be an accomplished young pilot.

In explaining the purpose of the tour and the flying clubs, Mr. Oertel said the first club was established three months ago at Long Island, N. Y., and has already a good sized membership. These clubs will be located near the principal cities of the country and are expected to do much in popularizing aviation among those of the wealthier class by providing a congenial atmosphere for the participation in flying as a sport.

In course of time, a chain of clubs is to be established, including Pacific coast points, such as Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland and Seattle. Each unit in the chain will have its private flying field, with hangars, storerooms, and machine shops. While flying will be the center of activities, the social end of the club life will not be neglected, Mr. Oertel explained. Each club will have its own clubhouse, comparable with the best in the nation, suitable for dancing, card parties and other similar forms of amusement.

The clubs will be under the direct control of the national organization, Aviation Country Clubs, Inc., and there are no local memberships, all memberships granted being in the national body.

"It will only be a short time before a member of our organization," said Mr. Oertel, "will be able to easily circle the United States like we are doing, visiting every state in the union. The individual member will be accorded the courtesy of all clubs en route. His plane is serviced and he will be able to spend a pleasant evening at the club."

Among the prominent members of the organization so far are William P. McCracken, Jr., assistant secretary, commander, Edward Warner, assistant secretary of the navy for aviation, Commander Richard E. Byrd, U. S. N.; Cornelius Vanderbilt, Gibler Colgate, W. E. D. Stokes, and many others.

The average cost of establishing an aviation club, outside of the property cost, is $104,000, including buildings and equipment. The annual upkeep is around $38,815, including depreciation and salaries. But the possibility of establishing a club here is remote, as the expense is too high and the clubs are restricted to cities having 100,000 people or more.

Miss Moran, known as Lettie Flying, who runs a tea shop, has been given the difficult task of bringing out the dormant qualities of a youthful millionaire snob who has fallen in love with her, and succeeds in making a man of him.

Edmund Lowe, otherwise known as Herbert Little Dodsworth, heir to the Dodsworth estate, plays the part of the snob.

Lucien Littlefield, as Elias Cooper, contributes a full share to the merrymaking. Others in the cast are Albert Hart, Lila Torra and Raife Nolan.
